DEDICATION

I could not begin this project nor end it without the assistance of my husband, Bill. My efforts have provided me with a great satisfaction. It has been a fun project but only so because I have had his support with time and resources. He has encouraged me by following along with me on my searching, taking pictures, operating the recorder, and seeming to enjoy it all. He especially enjoyed the people we have talked with along the way, for he is a "people" person, taking especial pleasure in that phase of his work as a minister. While I sat at my desk plugging away at writing up all of the information he would take care of many of the chores of the home such as grocery shopping and making meals. Most of all he has been a sounding board to listen and read and help me deal with, "How does it sound?" "Does it cover the topic?" "Is it accurate?"

--Marian

Once the skill of typing has been acquired, sitting down and writing a book that contains little, if any, original material should be easy. Right? Wrong! It requires a self discipline that has not always accompanied my life's efforts. For this reason, I want to dedicate my efforts in this work to all the people who kept me on track. First there was Ned who asked Marian and I to update his book. He gave us the start and extracted the commitment. Likewise I dedicate my efforts to Marian. If she had not given me the example of her self-discipline in the enterprise, I would probably never have stuck with it. And I cannot fail to mention my friend, Sharon Tomback, a fellow genealogist. Together we assaulted all the New York City genealogical libraries and a few more. We had both fun and success in the process.

In any sort of genealogical work, however, appropriate thanks need to go to all those ancestors who made the work possible. Obviously without them there would be no book. But not so obvious is the inspiration that comes from the sense of quiet, day to day dedication, courage and strength with which these men and women must have been imbued to leave their, if not always comfortable but at least familiar, home environment and begin anew in an unknown world on an unknown continent. Upon arrival they set about establishing a society that would prosper mightily.

The recitation of their facts is humbling. Against great odds, they survived. There is likewise hope for us!

And lastly, I thank my husband, Bud Teass, and my children who supported me in many different ways. Because of this book, we traveled to places that we would never have gone and shared experiences we would never have shared. Thanks to him I visited the Boston and Portsmouth libraries, the Public Records Office in London, the West Devon Genealogical Library in Exeter, and the remote villages of Newton Ferrers and Dunford (to name a few). He even met the nightmarish challenge of the M4 around Manchester to reach the village of Gee Cross that may have seen the beginning of this family's history. At every step he has encouraged and supported and I am most grateful.

PREFACE

Life can only be looked at backward.
Yet, You must live it forward.

Kierkegaard

As our grandfather aged, he loved to look backward and to talk about "back then", sometime to the extent listeners would sigh and think, "not again". On one occasion when he visited with me for a few weeks when my children were infant and toddler age, I listened to his stories and it struck me that at some point I was going to wish I had listened more closely and kept notes. I started writing down little biographies of individuals that he had known so well (many of whom were no longer living) and making charts to see how these persons fitted together into "the family." As a child, I had spent a lot of time on the properties that he was describing and I could easily visualize them as they were when the homes (Nannie, Tommy & Frank's) were occupied by him, his siblings and their immediate descendants. The interest blossomed quickly into a hobby. My time was limited at that point in my life and I had to file away these stories for some years.

Along the way, someone would come along with a question, and rekindle that curiosity. I would chase down that question and file away my findings or I would meet someone who could fill in some details I did not have. Likewise, I became a 'pack rat' keeping anything that was related to family history.. I also voiced my interest to a friend who worked with the court records and she began to supply me with documents to support my "Granddaddy's Stories" and the names of people who were also searching for Gees. Someone supplied me with a copy of Fletcher's, The Gee Family, which provided a broader picture and thus sparked my curiosity even further.

Luckily, Ned Gee had begun putting together his accumulation of family history, which would be a generation earlier than mine. His father and my grandfather were brothers and lived on adjacent farms. Ned and my mother were of the same generation. Actually, I hardly knew Ned, the person, until about 1972 when he came for a visit to talk about what I had gleaned from Granddaddy.

The fruits of his labor became The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee, Lunenburg County Virginia, © 1975. His comment about why he pursued his work..."this (speaking of his memory of Grandma Molly) was the foundation stone of my life and the rock upon which all else has been built. It is where I learned love, compassion, and cohesion of family and friends, respect for all people, a sense of humor, responsibility, and happiness. In fact, as I ponder now, I am sure it was the basis of the motivating force that makes me write this family history and makes me want to write it."

That statement makes one reflect about the total family and how each member impacts both other members as well as the whole unit. Many of you have been prodded into the search and hopefully all of us can feel that this is 'our' product. A huge piece of gratitude goes to all who have been willing to share their information and their wisdom with us. Our compilation seeks to foster a common bond through the sharing of information and experiences among all our kin and in turn we hope that you will feel more connected as the many facets of this large and diverse grouping unfold through the book. We will consider our effort a success not only if, after reading the contents, the reader feels pride in being 'a part of it all', but also if, in some small way, he or she feels more empowered to live his life forward.

I: Gee Family History

The family name Gee is of such ancient origin that the beginnings of the family and the derivation of the name have been lost to time. There seems a consensus of opinion that the family is English; but it is debatable whether the family name was taken from a place name, or vice versa. One theory according to Bardsley's Dictionary of English and Welsh Surnames holds that the family took its surname from the locality of Gee Cross, a once prosperous village in the parish of Stockport, Cheshire, England. The village still exists as Gee Cross, but for all practical purposes it is now a suburb of Manchester. This theory is contradicted by Johnson's The Place Names of England & Wales which notes that Gee Cross (the village) was named thus because of an ancient cross erected as a property boundary marker by the Gee family. A historian of the area, Mr. Ernest Axon, F.S.A., favored the second theory because the village itself does not predate the 17th century, while persons with the Gee surname can be traced back to earlier times in the area. Today there are still two churches in Gee's Cross containing numerous Gee graves from the 19th and 20th centuries.

Holy Trinity Gee Cross

A work entitled, The Norman People and Their Descendants, states that Gee is the French pronunciation of Gui, Guy, or Wido and cites persons with those surnames from the 12th and 13th centuries. Other theories hold that William the Conqueror was accompanied by a man with the surname of Guy and, in recognition of services rendered, awarded land in northern England.

While the origin of the name is elusive, an even more tantalizing mystery to those researching the Gee's of Virginia is who were the first pioneers and from where in England did they come.

An earlier researcher of the Gee family, W.J. Fletcher, in his book, The Gee Family (hereafter denoted TGF), found numerous Gee's in the midland and northern parts of England within hailing distance of Gee Cross. For this reason he concluded that those first Virginia Gee's must have come from Manchester. However, at the time that he was doing his research, extensive genealogical data bases of names had not been accumulated and it was much more difficult, if not impossible, to determine the actual distribution of a name throughout an area. Recent compilations of birth, death and marriage data in the International Genealogical Index (IGI) done by the Church of the Latter Day Saints reflect a widespread distribution of the Gee name throughout England during the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries. Records in Exeter and the British Public Records Office even reveal a significant number of Gee's in the Devon and Cornwall areas as early as the 14th century. Cornwall and Devon records include variations in spelling: Gye, Gee, Jee and Gie, but genealogical indexers have included all variations under the spelling "Gee." During the 17th century, a Reverend John Gee of Tenterdan, a village south east of London, endorsed a number of Gee's for immigration to the new world. The name was also present in London during the 16th and 17th centuries and Sir William Gee was a part of the original Jamestown settlement in Virginia.

The history of the Gees' of Virginia has always begun with Charles and Hañah Gee in Charles City Co., Virginia. Charles was present there as early as 1688; but it is not known whether he was the first of the lineal ancestors of the Gee's of Virginia in the new world. Family tradition may provide two clues. The first is an oral tradition in TGF that two brothers traveled together from England to settle in the new world.

The second tradition is attributable to Miss Patty Gee, the daughter of Dr. Charles James Gee and Temple Williams (Austin) Gee of Halifax Co., N.C. and six generations removed from Charles[1] Gee of Virginia. She, a notable genealogist in her own right, described her ancestry through Charles Gee of Virginia "who was descended from Thomas Gee of Boston." [See The 1907 North Carolina Booklet published by The North Carolina Society of the NSDAR]. This tradition of the Boston connection has no conclusive proof but some credibility—she may have been relating an oral tradition passed along in the family and dating back some 150 years. She may have heard this story throughout her childhood and, because of her genealogical bent, it would have made an impression.

As noted previously, Fletcher had done extensive research on the Gees' of England and concluded in TGF that the Virginia Gees' were most probably descended from the Gees' of the "Gee Cross" area just outside of Manchester, based on the high incidence of Gee names in that vicinity. He was aware of Miss Patty's reference to the Gee ancestry through Thomas Gee of Boston and, in 1930, had even published an article in an Atlanta newspaper about this connection; but he made no reference to this possible lineage in TGF that was published some seven years later. To date his files have given no indication of whether he disproved the Boston connection. As noted earlier, the IGI, developed since Fletcher's book was published, reflects a widespread population of Gee's throughout England in the 16th and 17th centuries with a significant number in the Devon area from which Miss Patty's Thomas Gee of Boston and his parents emigrated. In fact the modern telephone directory for Newton Ferrers and surrounding villages still contains a number of Gee's. Perhaps if Fletcher had had access to the IGI, he would have included the information about the Boston connection in his book.

However, the Manchester theory is not entirely inconsistent with the Devon connection: ecclesiastical records disclose that in the late 16th century. a Ralph Gee, a cleric in Manchester, had a son named John who went to Devon. Probably he was the John Gee who was rector at a church in the picturesque village of Dunford where his tombstone still can be seen. There is no evidence to link this John to Newton Ferrers some thirty to forty miles away and hence to Peter (whose father's name was John.) But on the wall of the church where Peter was christened, there is an enumeration of a George Gee, warden in 1609, and there are ancient tombstones in the churchyard bearing the name of Gee. Gees were notable among English ecclesiasticals and Peter's grandson, Joshua, succeeded Cotton Mather as minister at the Old North Church in Boston, from whose tower the signals flashed to Paul Revere on the opposite river bank.

St. Mary's Church, Dunsford

Returning to Miss Patty's recitation of lineage through Thomas Gee of Boston, the Boston records reveal only one Thomas Gee. He was the eldest son of Peter and Grace Gee of Newton Ferrers, Devon, England. Newton Ferrers is today a small fishing village just along from Plymouth on the southwest coast of England.

Map of Newton Ferrers, Devon, England

The register of the Church there recorded the christening of Peter Gee, son of John Gee, on January 25, 1614. On March 2, 1643, Peter's son, Thomas was christened. Thomas' mother was Grace Gee. On December 13, 1650 and January 14, 1655, Peter and Grace christened two further additions to their family, John and Joshua, respectively.

Peter Gee, father of Thomas, was present on the Isles of Shoals, ten miles off the coast of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, as early as 1653. Peter was described as a fisherman and master of The Mackrell. The Isles of Shoals were a significant port of call for the North Atlantic fishing fleet from the early to the mid 1600's because of the development there of a method of processing fish by "dunning". This combined process of drying and smoking preserved the catch for shipment into England and Europe where it was highly prized as a delicacy.

Isles of Shoals

Vessels from England and Virginia would fish the waters of the North Atlantic and bring their catch into the Isles for processing. No doubt residency on the Isles was somewhat transitory during those years and stories about life there describe a lawless scene. In 1653, Peter was named the trustee of the "sume" of 56 pounds collected by the inhabitants of the Isles for the benefit of one Stephen Forde who had suffered terrible injuries "whereby he was uncapable to use either his hands or leggs to get his subsistance." A court order later relieved Peter of this responsibility. In that same year, Peter together with nineteen principal inhabitants of the Isles petitioned the Massachusetts General Court to establish the Isles as a separate township.

Later Peter purchased certain lands in Massachusetts from Thomas Macy. At that time he was described as a resident of Newton Ferrers, Co. of Devon, England. This may indicate that although he spent time on the Shoals, his home and family were still in England. Peter later sold the lands he had purchased from Macy and acquired a significant amount of land in Boston in the vicinity of North and Richmond Streets and bounded by Prince Street. The Boston records, which are remarkably complete, disclose numerous details about Peter and his two younger sons, John and Joshua, but nothing about Thomas. An article by Robert E. Gee in The American Genealogist states that there was no mention of Thomas in Boston after 1668 when he would have been 25 years old.

One item of particular interest about John and Joshua was a deed from Peter to them by which the father relinquished his annuity interests in certain real estate in appreciation for one of his sons ransoming the other from barbaric slavery in Algiers (North Africa).

Peter may have had a brother, John Gee, who also immigrated to Boston from Newton Ferrers and who married Hazelponi Willix. A John Gee was granted permission to open a shop in Boston on January 31, 1662. He and his wife, Hazelponi, had at least two children: John born March 4, 1662 and Hazelponi who was baptized at the age of nine months, nineteen days in 1671. The death of John Gee, the father, was recorded December 27, 1669. Peter Gee and his brother, John, may even have been the brothers referred to in the previously mentioned family tradition.

One can speculate that Thomas, son of Peter, would have been an adult by the time his father permanently settled in the new world and that he was never a permanent resident in Boston. He, being the eldest son, could have received an advance of his inheritance in the form of the fishing boat when his father determined to go ashore, while his brothers received their inheritance in the form of real estate at later dates. Since Virginia fleets fished in the waters off the Isles of Shoals, he would have been introduced to Virginia through those contacts.

In 17th century Virginia area, there were three possible Thomas Gee's, all of whom had immigrated as head wrights. The first Thomas was head righted by Thomas Willoughby into Lower Norfolk in 1652. This could scarcely have been Peter's Thomas who would only have been 9 years old at that time. Probably it was this Thomas who later left a will recorded in the Princess Ann Co. records. There was no mention of children in the document. It provided for Thomas' wife (unnamed) and mentioned a brother, James Peeter, who was entrusted with the estate for the benefit of the surviving spouse. Another Thomas was head righted into the Rappahannock area by Jno. Weire, but no further information has been discovered about him. Interesting to note, however, is the fact that Bridget Neville, wife of Charles[2] who would have been Thomas' grandson if the Boston connection were correct, was born in that area of Virginia. A third Thomas Gee was head righted into Maryland at about this same time. Since land could be acquired through head wrights, numerous fraudulent claims were made to increase landholdings. Thus these records are not the most reliable and it is impossible to prove whether the Thomas of Boston was the same as one of the head righted Thomas's.

The Virginia Colonial Records deposited in the British Public Records Office have several references to a Thomas Gee with Virginia connections. Survey Report No. 11054, described as "Inwards, from Virginia with tobacco, December 27, 1666 Thomas, Captain Gee. Survey Report No. 4411, p. 19. contains an entry levying port duties on Thos. Gee in Benj. Eaton, a Virginian. The merchant's name was Thos. George. The Prerogative Court of Canterbury, folios 129 (quire 307), 184 (quire 46), and 7 (quire 90) contains wills of three Thomas Gee's. The first was a gentleman of Istleworth who died in 1686 and mentioned a son, William. The other two were sailors' wills written in 1692 and 1693 respectively and served as powers of attorney. Their ships were the HMS Mary and the HMS Ruby.

There are two other coincidences that may be significant in linking the Boston and Virginia Gee's: a Joshua Gee (son of Peter?) applied for a land patent in Charles City Co. but there is no evidence that he was ever actually present there. A Hazelponi Gee participated in a court proceeding in North Carolina just south of Surry Co., VA and filed certain affidavits. A factor that argues against this linkage is the absence of the name Thomas in those first Gee generations. As will become self evident as the Gee decadency unfolds, family names were often repeated in later generations. However, considering the high infant mortality rate, it is also possible that there were babies named Thomas who did not survive.

Future genealogists are left with this mystery. These bits of evidence have been included with the hope that they will entice someone to further research.

Family Notes

Virginia Counties 1701-1710

II: The Gee Family in Virginia

The real history/story (as opposed to the speculation in the previous chapter) of the Gee family in Virginia, began in Charles City Co., first known as Bermuda City. This county was one of eight shires/counties in the original political plan of 1634; however, even earlier in 1617, it had been created as one of the four ancient boroughs established for administrative purposes, along with James City, Kecoughtan (Elizabeth City), and Henrico. These were all named after the reigning King of England, James I, and his sons and daughter. Although the Virginia Company of London set the rules from afar, the growing colony sought to develop a workable plan to deal with administering this growing, but sparsely settled colony. Since Virginia was a royal colony, it chose to be governed as the shires in England had been. Within a few years, however, the term 'shire' gave way to 'county'.

The eastern boundary for Charles City was the Chickahominy River and the western boundary was beyond the knowledge of those who had created the layout. It encompassed the vast area south of the Appomattox River and westward into unexplored territory. This was where those first Gee family members were found in the late seventeenth century.

In the previous chapter the tradition of two brothers was mentioned. Although documentation has not been found to support the relationship, Charles Gee has long been considered brother to Henry Gee, also in Charles City Co. at the same time. This relationship will continue to be accepted until it is disproved.

In the following chapters 3 through 4, you will note the use of exponents to describe the degree of removal from the first generation in America. Thus Charles[1] and Henry[1] Gee represent the first definite generation in our line present in America. In chapter 5, the numbering system contained in The Kin of Dr. Edward Crymes Gee will be used.

Henry[1] Gee

First, Henry1, the possible brother of our progenitor, will be discussed since he is actually the first to appear in any records found so far.

In the Minutes of the Council and General Court of Colonial Virginia held 17th March 1676-7 "Wm Tiballs and Henry Gee were ordered to appear before the king's commiffioners at Swans Point, for scandalizing them and disturbing the peace of the country" during the late rebellion led by Bacon. Wm Byrd brought this information before the court. Tiballs and Gee were ordered to each pay one thousand pounds of "neate porke" for the use of his majesties soldiers (Minutes,.p. 532). Several heavy fines, payable in pork, were levied upon participants in the rebellion at about this time. Obviously this was found a convenient method of securing rations for the king's troops sent over to quell the rebellion. We might also read into this that these men had the means of producing excess foodstuffs, in turn suggesting their relative wealth and status. Other participants were put to death, banished from the colony for a period of seven years or made to ask for forgiveness on bended knee with a rope around their neck. Further, regarding the ending of the rebellion, in March of that year, several of the ringleaders were tried in civil tribunals by the Royal Governor Wm Berkeley at Green Springs, his estate near Middle Plantation, now Williamsburg. Nine were sentenced to be hanged. On the 29th of May 1677, the formal peace agreement known as the Treaty of Middle Plantation was made with the colony's tributary Indians. It was the Governor's refusal to quell the Indian attacks on the planters that had provoked the Rebellion. This was further exacerbated by underlying feelings of preferential treatment by the Governor to his favorites among the plantation owners. Also, the Governor was enjoying a lucrative fur trade with the Indians, a liaison he did not want to jeopardize. But, doubtless the fundamental causes of the rebellion were the long-standing economic, social and political grievances of the common people of Virginia. A day of Thanksgiving was set for August 22, 1677 to commemorate the end of Bacon's Rebellion and although the governor was reseated by the sudden death of Bacon, a blow had been struck for the rights of the common man.

In addition to this first reference to Henry[1] Gee, his name appeared in the December, 1677, court records as a witness to a power of attorney recorded in the Charles City Court located at Westover. Sometime soon thereafter Henry[1] Gee moved to Henrico, the most western of the original shires taking in the land north of the Appomattox River (first called the Bristol River). Henry was listed there in the 1678 List of Tithables with Gilbert Elam. Before 1678, he had married Mary Elam, daughter of Gilbert Elam and Anne Hatcher, daughter of Edward Hatcher. (Henrico Co., Va. Wills, Deeds, Etc. 1677-1692, p.36.). They had at least two sons: Henry[2] Gee, born before 1678; and Gilbert[2] Gee, born after 1678 but before 1689.

Henry[1] Gee had died by 1689 when Mary Elam Gee, his widow, placed her two Gee sons in the care of her father, perhaps in preparation for marrying a Robert Broadway. Her father died before 1697 leaving the bulk of his estate to a son, Thomas Elam, a daughter, Elizabeth Elam, and the two grandsons. Only a shilling was bequeathed to each of his two sons-in-laws (HC WB 3/653).

For whatever reasons the 1690's were hard times for Robert Broadway, stepfather to Henry and Gilbert Gee. He was sued by a number of creditors and he was presented by a grand jury for swearing oaths. After his death, his widow, Mary, administered his estate containing many items described as old, "holey", torn, broken or damaged. (Tidewater.., vol. 5 & 6, p. 150.)

Henry and Mary's son, Henry[2] Gee (born before April, 1678 but under 16 in April, 1689) died before 1718 (Miscellaneous Henrico Co. Records 1650-1807, Part II, p. 407). After 1703, he had married Elizabeth Trent, the widow of Henry Trent Sr., who had died in 1701. She was the daughter of Henry Sherman (b. before 1634 and d. 1695 in Henrico) and Cesly Hutchins (b. before 1637 and d. Feb 1, 1703 also in Henrico Co.). Henry Trent and Elizabeth had at least six children: Alexander who died before October 2, 1732 (no issue); Henry who died before September 5, 1726; John William; Mary who married Richard Cox; Susanna, who married a

Mr. Nunnary; and Rebecka who married a Mr. Wacher. Elizabeth Trent Gee had died prior to 1732 (Henrico Wills and Deeds 1725-1737, p. 368). As far as can be determined, Henry and Elizabeth Gee had no children. There is some question about Rebecka since she was not mentioned along with the other children in the will of Henry Trent in 1701. Henry Gee, in his will in 1718, only made bequests to his wife, Elizabeth, and his brother, Gilbert, (Miscellaneous Henrico Co. Court Records 1650-1807, Part II, p. 407). Elizabeth listed Rebecka in her will in 1732. In any event these children would have been a part of the family of Henry and Elizabeth Gee.

Gilbert Gee, Henry and Mary Elam Gee's second son, was born after April 1678 and before April 1689. He married Katherine Roberts who had first married John Roberts in 1723.

Another record showed that on 24th of March, 1725, Gilbert Gee and Thomas Trent acquired 400 acres in Henrico Co. It is unclear who this Thomas Trent might have been.

Henry[2] Gee was listed with 435 acres in the Quit-Rent Rolls for Henrico Co. in 1704-05. Earlier this was thought to be Henry[1] Gee however he had died before this time. Therefore it must have been the son of Henry[1] and Mary Elam Gee.

Also interesting, a Mr. Gee was mentioned 23 times in William Byrd II's secret diary chronicling his life from 1709 and 1712. On a number of occasions Mr. Gee, sometimes called Hal Gee, came to visit and to have a meal with the Byrd's, and after attending Westover Church, was invited for dinner by the Byrd's. (At this point the church was only a few hundred yards from the Byrd home.) A few times Mr. Byrd recorded stopping at Mr. Gee's and once on Mar 7, 1711, he stated: "...about 9 o'clock I got on horseback and rode to Mr. Gee's where I had appointed to meet Colonel Hill, who came according to his time. We ate bacon and eggs and then proceeded to my brother Duke's..."(Secret Diary...p. 311). Although the diary is fascinating reading and a rare first hand description of life at that time, there is no way to determine if this was indeed, Henry[2] Gee, son of Henry[1], but it seems plausible. It is a fact that William Byrd II was a son of the William Byrd of the General Court spoken of earlier in 1677.

(William Byrd II, beginning around 1730, built the home, "Westover", on the James River. It is one of the Plantations along Route 5, considered to be the most beautiful example of Georgian architecture in America. William Byrd founded the cities of Richmond and Petersburg.)

Further, there was a deed recorded the 5th of June, 1746 in Henrico describing land owned by William Byrd, which was adjacent to Gee land.

Additional research is needed to determine if there are other descendants of Henry[1] Gee; however, they would probably not have the Gee surname.

These isolated facts need further research to determine what degree of blood relationship, if any, existed between Henry[1] and Charles[1]. But before we abandon Henry to the fate of future researchers, it should be noted that in addition to the oral tradition of two brothers handed down by Miss Maud Gee who was a great source of information for TGF, there was a strong tradition of repeated use of family names in the Gee Family. Charles[1] named one of his sons, Henry.

Charles[1] Gee

Charles[1] Gee remained in Charles City Co. in the area that became Prince George Co in 1702. There are a number of references to him in the early records of Charles City Co. whose court was at Westover. He was involved in a judgment to Col. Edward Hill regarding 1300 lbs. of tobacco in 1688. Note, this is probably the same Col. Hill mentioned earlier along with Wm. Byrd.

(Col. Edward Hill I owned a large patent granted in 1660, but founded as early as 1613. Col. Edward Hill III built, beginning in 1723, the home "Shirley" along the James River for his daughter, Elizabeth when she married John Carter, son of Robert "King" Carter. Today "Shirley", a working farm still owned by the Carter family, is one of the Plantations along the James River on Route 5, open to the public.)

In 1689, Charles was deeded 100 acres from Drew Scott. In 1691, Charles brought suits against two different men. Then in 1693, an action was brought against Charles Gee for a debt to Charles Goodrich (later, a Sheriff of Charles City Co. in 1702), which was dismissed as it appeared the debt had been paid. In the same year Charles Gee served on a jury in an action of debt of Charles Goodrich against Al Davison. Also, in 1693, there was recorded a deed of division of land mutually acknowledged in court between John Scott and Charles Gee to each others satisfaction. (Note: subsequently Charles' oldest son, James, married Boyce Scott, daughter of John Scott). In 1694, Charles Gee was sworn in as a member of a grand jury; and, in 1695, Charles Gee along with Robert Reives and Thomas Anderson presented a bond of 6,000 lbs. of tobacco to secure such estate as should belong to Morris Caligham's orphans and widow, who was then Sarah Reives, wife of Robert Reives.

Charles City Co. listed Charles Gee as having killed 200 wolves with gun. This probably permitted him a tobacco tax exemption. Wolf packs were a major threat to domestic animals of farmers in this remote area and there was a bounty to be had for destroying them.

The Quit-rent rolls of 1704-5 (QR Class 5, Vol 1314, Doc. VIII) showed Charles[1] Gee with 484 acres in Prince George Co., VA. From all of the above we can assume that Charles[1] Gee (b. before 1688) resided in the Charles City Co. area south of the James. In 1707, he conveyed by deed 125 acres to Timothy Reading in Surry Co., VA (north side of Joseph Swamp, witnessed by J. Cooke, W. Cook, Wm Heath). Surry Co. was formed from James City Co. (an original Co.) in 1652. Finally in 1709, Hañah Gee, Administratrix, presented the inventory of her husband's estate. John Cooke, William Cooke and William Heath, appraisers; valued the personal estate at 20,652 pounds of tobacco. In addition three Indian women were appraised at 10,400 lbs. of tobacco (SurC RB 4, p. 414).

From the forgoing information, we can conclude that Charles[1] was a well-established and active citizen of three emerging counties: first Charles City, then Surry and later, Prince George. Furthermore, he had married Hañah whose maiden, name, by family tradition, was thought to be Drury. However no records substantiating this have been uncovered.

The estate inventory presented by Hañah indicated that Charles[1] had amassed considerable property for that time. Probably, he was not wealthy, but comfortably well to do. He had livestock—30 cattle and 70 hogs, one horse and one young mare. There was a substantial listing of necessary household items including six feather beds with pillows and linens; and his personal effects that included clothes, a gold ring, a saddle, a pistol, and a sword. Also, there were cooper tools, carpenter tools, wheelwright tools, but very few farming tools--only hoes and a grubbing hoe. From this we can only speculate about his occupation. It would seem that he was not a planter. With the cache of different tools, he could have been a craftsman making and repairing implements needed by the community such as wheels for coaches and wagons, or hogsheads (barrels) for shipping tobacco to England. He also owned three Indian women but no men. Likewise, the livestock could have provided income; or perhaps in view of the large number of beds listed in the inventory, he and Hañah operated an ordinary, renting sleeping space to travelers. No mention was made of the land he owned or the dwelling where he lived. No guardianship records have been found. More than likely in such a situation the law of primogeniture of England controlled and the oldest son inherited the real estate when his father died. Court papers addressing this issue could have been unnecessary or have been lost.

The court records of the inventory and prior transactions were found in Southwark in Surry Co. which was the only long standing county south of the James at that time. It had been incorporated since 1652 and was convenient to the family. The court of Prince George Co. had not been long established by the time of his death. Furthermore, many early records were destroyed by marauding enemy troops during the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. No doubt records that would reveal much information about Charles[1] and Hañah and their children were lost for these reasons.

Hañah (Drury)

As noted previously, by family tradition Hañah Gee's maiden name was thought to be Drury, although no concrete evidence has surfaced in proof. The fact that the name Drury was later used as a given name in succeeding generations tends to further substantiate this. There were persons with the Drury family name in Nansemond Co. The Chuckatuck Parish listed a Charles Drury in 1663 (Cavaliers...Vol I, p. 539) and again in 1662 assigning 41 acres to him (Cavaliers...Vol II, p. 238). Then in 1704, the same County's quit rent records list a Cap. Charles Drury. There was also a family of shipwrights with that name in Charles City Co. in the mid 17th century.

We only have three records regarding Hañah Gee but they seem to evidence a strong and resourceful person, capable of providing for her family, as well as sufficiently educated to sign her own name—not a skill common to women at that time. In 1709, she presented the detailed inventory of her husband's estate to the court with the help of the appraisers, William Cooke, James Cooke and William Heath. This William Heath may have been a son-in-law. A William Heath and his wife, Elizabeth, sold adjoining land in 1710 (SusC DB 6/39). The relationship of the other two persons is unknown. From the inventory we can be sure of her given name and see her handwriting and the way she spelled her name - "Hañah Gee". (This signature also presents another question. The diacritical mark, tilde, over the letter n (pronounced ny) is a Spanish form. Did she have a Spanish connection?). From other records we can name at least three of her sons. Tradition and proximity indicate a fourth son, Robert. He would probably have been born just prior to his father's death or even just after his death. A deed from John Mason of Surry Co. conveyed to Hañah Gee of Surry Co., 200 acres in Prince George Co. in Warwick Meadow, dated 9 Sep., 1715. Witnesses: James[2] Gee and Charles[2] Gee. In the acknowledgment of the above deed, made on motion of James Gee, it was recorded that the said James Gee was the son of the grantee, Hañah Gee. Also, there may have been a daughter, Elizabeth Gee, who married William Heath and whose will was probated in 1751 in Surry Co., VA. Again this presents more work for a future researcher.

In the second record dated 1713, Hañah Gee leased 100 acres of farmland to James Odiom of Prince George. Perhaps this was a way of providing income to meet the family needs or indicates that cultivation of the land was too much for the young sons. It can also be speculated that perhaps she came into her marriage to Charles Gee bringing the land as her dowry.

Apparently Hañah felt that it was important to provide for her son, Henry, suggesting that provision had already been made for the two older sons who witnessed the deed. In 1715, Hañah was deeded 200 acres on the North side of Warghrick Swamp, purchased from John Mason. She stated that this property was to go to her son, Henry Gee, at her death. (SusC OB III, p. 181; also Prince George Order Book 1757-61, p. 125). This deed was registered to Henry on May 14, 1728, with a memo stating that Hañah had died. It does seem uncharacteristic of her not to have provided for the son, Robert. The reason for the neglect may have been contained in destroyed records. Following is a portion of the inventory filed by her:

Partial Inventory signed by Hañah Gee

To summarize these progenitors of the Gee family, Charles[1] Gee was born c1660 or earlier, died 1709, married c1693, Hañah (Drury?), (born c1675, died circa May 14, 1728). They had four sons, James[2] , Charles[2], Henry[2], Robert[2] and probably one daughter, Elizabeth who married William Heath. Our direct line ancestor, Charles,[2] will be addressed in the next chapter. Since James[2] and Henry[2] were discussed in great detail in TGF, only a few highlights will be included here. Additional information about Robert Gee will be included as well as several family updates unearthed in researching this work.

James[2] Gee

James[2], the oldest child of record of Charles and Hañah Gee is the most documented of their offspring. He was born in 1694 according to the deposition of his son, Henry Gee, taken after his father's death on October 5, 1759 (APR, p. 160). He lived in the part of Surry Co. that later became a part of Sussex Co. in 1754. He married Boyce Scott, the daughter of John Scott (1655-1724) and Bethyer Boyce, who was listed for 300 acres in Prince George Co. in 1704. John Scott's will (SusC, WB. III, p. 132-4, also, PG, p. 713 of Records of 1713-1728) was recorded June 9, 1724, naming his daughter Boyce Gee and son-in-law, James[2] Gee. James Gee among others as administrators filed Bethia Scott's inventory March 8, 1725. James Gee operated his father-in-law's mill that was bequeathed to a grandson, Thomas Scott, and assumed the cost of young Thomas' schooling for two years following the grandfather's death until he assumed control of the mill with the assistance of his mother, Amy Scott (PG Bond, p. 949, dated Jan 10, 1726). A book that details the family of Bethia Boyce was published in 1996 by John Anderson Brayton, The Descendants of Chaney Boyce, "Ancient Planter," and of Richard Craven, for Seven Generations (including the following families: Briggs, Chappell, Coggins, Gee, Rives, Scott, Tatum, and others).

During his life, James[2] acquired large land acreage that was inherited by his heirs—some in Prince George and Sussex Co. in Virginia and some in Northhampton Co. in North Carolina. Some was acquired by purchase; some, by patent; and some in North Carolina, by grant from the Earl of Granville. The property where he lived was probably the same property on which his parents, Charles[1] and Hañah, lived.

James[2] served positions generally held by top citizens and he was also an officer of the king. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace, a Justice of County Court and then Captain of the Militia and Sheriff.

Issue of James[2] Gee and Boyce: (7 children)

James[3] Gee, Jr.
Charles[3] Gee
Drury[3] Gee
Henry[3] Gee
Sarah[3] Gee
Elizabeth[3] Gee
John[3] Gee

They all distinguished themselves in a variety of ways.

The first marriage of his daughter, Sarah, was to John Rives. The Rives are detailed in Reliques of the Rives, by John Rives Childs and there is also a Bible Record in manuscript form in the Virginia State Library. Sarah's niece, Sarah[4] Gee, daughter of her brother Charles[3] Gee, married Timothy Rives. They had a son, Briggs[5] Rives, whose son, Francis Everard[6] Rives (could this be the source of the name Everard in the Gee family?) became a congressman. They also had a daughter, Sarah Gee[6] Rives, who was the grandmother of a daughter of President John Tyler. In traveling through Prince George Co. today one of the highways intersecting with the interstate is Rives Road -- very likely named for this old family.

The oldest son of James[2] and Boyce Gee, Charles[3] Gee, married Mary Chappell. They resided in Martin Brandon Parish and had eleven children. By this time the Revolution was drawing near and a number of their sons would be involved in the fighting. Two would lose their lives. After the war, large tracks of land in Tennessee were awarded to family members in recognition of this military service.

Charles[3] and Mary Chappel's son, Charles[4] Gee, was taxed for a portion of his father's estate. He continued the pattern set by his grandfather and father in becoming an involved citizen of the County. In 1790, he along with two others was recommended to the Governor of Virginia for the task of collecting vouchers for claims of the State against the United States. This was a fledgling country governed by its first President and by a Constitution adopted only a few years previously. Also, Charles was given the honor of being one of the persons chosen to greet General Lafayette in Richmond on October 25, 1824. He married Susannah Peebles and they had at least six children. One son, Edmund[5] Gee, died in Ohio during the War of 1812 serving as a member of the Petersburg Volunteers.

Their son, Thomas[5] Gee, lived on the 1358-acre property denoted "The Gee Farm", also known as "the brick house plantation". He willed the land to his son, Thomas William[6] Gee, who apparently had no issue. Thomas William Gee in turn willed the land in 1869 to a variety of persons who probably sold it. (TGF, p. 28-29). This would not be the land originally listed to Charles[1] Gee in the quit rent listing but land acquired by James Gee.

From fragmented, undated notes left by Ned Gee (probably jotted down at some point when he was out searching for the Gee Farm), it is known that E. A. & R. B. Hartley, merchants in Stony Creek, owned the land before the turn of the 20th century. The house burned in the 1920's. J. D. Priuse and G. C. Howell owned it for four or five years in the mid 1930's and now, reduced in acreage, it is owned by a number of people. In 1999, Dr. Prince of Emporia owned a portion. Until recent years it continued to be known as "the Gee Farm". By today's landmarks it would be located east of US 301 and south of Stony Creek. The service road that parallels Interstate 95 in this vicinity today is Gee Farm Road.

Probably James[2] Gee inherited his father's estate as the oldest son. From James[2]' will we know that he bequeathed the property on which he lived to his son, Drury.

Their son, James[3] Gee Jr., married Margaret Bonner. They had one daughter, Boyce[4] Gee who mar. Aug 15, 1765 (SusMR), William Gary. James died after the birth of Boyce. Subsequently, Margaret remarried to William Heath and they had at least two daughters, Jane and Margaret, per Albemarle Parish Register.

William Cotton, a family genealogist, is a descendant of Boyce[4] Gee who married William Gary. The line can be traced thus:

Martha Gee[5] Gary (1773-1835) married Smith Cotton.

James Gee[6] Cotton (1806-1866) married in 1830, Ann Elizabeth Burford.

Biddleman Bascom[7] Cotton (1850-1910) married Carrie Rebecca Pierce.

William Milton[8] Cotton (1874-1937) married in 1902 Flaudie Lee Mitchie.

William M.[9] Cotton lives at 930 Vanguard Street, Austin, TX 78734.

Charles[2] Gee

Charles[2] Gee (b. c1696 in Charles City Co., VA d. 1768 in Sussex Co. VA) as our direct line ancestor, is detailed in Chapter 3.

Henry[2] Gee

That Henry was the son of Charles and Hannah Gee is established by his mother in a deed stating that the land was to go to her son at her death, "for the natural love and affection which I have and do bear unto my son, Henry Gee". This record was made at the time of Hañah's death in 1828 in Prince George Co., Martin Brandon Parish. These records were lost but duplicates were recorded in Sussex Co. when that county was formed (in 1754). This was one of only four court records that name him. In another he was a witness along with his brother James to a deed in which William Heath sold land. This William Heath may also have been his brother-in-law.

He named his brother, Charles[2] Gee, to execute his will, written June 30, 1746 and recorded February 18, 1758. In 1763, the children of Henry Gee initiated a chancery suit to settle equally a devise of a slave from their father's estate. In this suit the children involved were listed together with a detailed account of the complaint and the final decree. Listed along with this document are the names and birth dates of five of the children certified by Henry Gee.

The children listed at the end of the chancery complaint and certified by their father were: 1. Charles (b. Aug[st] 20, 1731); 2. John (b. July 12[th], 1736); 3. James (b. Nov[br] 12, 1741); 4. Sarah (b. May 24, 1740); 5. Rebecca (b. November 18, 1745). Winnifred was not listed here but was listed in the suit, as wife of John Daniel. Sarah was now married to Charles Chapman. Betty (Elizabeth) was not listed here but she was the most vocal in the suit. (Is it possible that Betty and Rebecca are one and the same?). (Virginia Genealogical Society Quarterly, Vol. 13-15, 1975-77, vol. 15, April 1977 #2, p. 53 from SusOB 1757-61, p. 125. Related legation: SusOB III, p. 181.) In the introduction to this document, Gary Murdock Williams, clerk of court, stated: "The following documents are located in the Loose Court Papers of Sussex Co. The Bill of Complaint, Answer, and the List of Births are a part of a 1763 chancery cause. The family information contained therein is not part of the Register of Albemarle Parish in Sussex Co." Also, they were not in the Bristol Parish Registry; however they may have been recorded in the Martin Brandon Parish Registry, now lost.

Finally long after his death, Henry was named in a deed in Prince George Co. in 1791. Records are intact from 1782 forward and show that Rachel Gee paid tax on the land given to Henry by his mother. In 1791, a grandson, Allen Chapman, released his interest in the property, confirming in the document his relationship to Henry[2] Gee, deceased, and Rachel Gee, who was still residing on the property. He also reiterated that his mother was Sarah[3] Chapman, sister to Elizabeth[3] and Winny[3] Gee.

By 1763, the three sons of Henry and Rachel had already departed or would soon depart Virginia en route to Cumberland Co., NC and Georgetown, SC.

The son, John, born in 1736, had a descendant, Zola Rymer Graf, who with the help of other family members has compiled and privately printed A Family Chronicle of S. Bradford Rymer, ©1960. She has included a section from TGF, including the early history of this branch and then providing a character sketch of later members of the family with pictures and recollections.

From this point forward Henry and Rachel's son, James, and descendants are addressed in detail in TGF, p. 41-45 and chapters V & VI. This is Fletcher's line of the family and he has researched it well. Chapters V & VI and the Appendix are recommended for interesting reading. W. J. Fletcher can be tracked thus:

Charles[1] Gee and Hannah,
Henry[2] Gee and Rachel
James[3] Gee and Mary (Walker)
Henry[4] Gee and Martha E. (Forrester)
James[5] Gee and Lucy Jones (Wyatt)
Martha Elizabeth[6] Gee and Malcolm Nicholson Fletcher
John Malcolm[7] Fletcher and Alice Mary (Barney)
William James[8] Fletcher (b. November 23, 1896, d. after 1950). He lived in Washington, D.C.).

In compiling this book a number of the descendants of Henry[2] Gee were contacted. Annette Gee[8] Ford. of Quincy, FL has Fletcher's notes and is working to update that family. She has had TGF reprinted using the funds generated from book sales to defray some of the expense of caring for the Gee Family Cemetery there.

Also, she has compiled and edited The Captive Major John H. Gee, Commandant of the Confederate Prison at Salisbury, North Carolina 1864-1865 A Biographical Sketch with Complete Court-Martial Transcript, Utah Bookbinding Co., Salt Lake City, Utah, © 2000. In the preface she states: There is credible evidence that the verbatim transcript of the trial of Major John H. Gee was the first in U. S. history so recorded. Annette's genealogical line is:

Robert[2] Gee

It now seems highly likely that Robert[2] Gee was another son in the family of Charles[1] and Hañah Gee, based on information that a number of descendants have diligently ferreted from the original genealogical documents available. Present day technology has proved helpful in allowing these descendants to find each other and to compare notes. The primary sources of this information have been Bob Skinner and Bobby J. Wadsworth, therefore all the following information about Robert[2] Gee is credited to them.

Robert[2] Gee was probably the youngest son and born close to the time of his father's death in 1709. The first records of him are in Brunswick Co., formed in 1720 from Prince George, Surry and Isle of Wight Counties. Brunswick was a part of St. Andrews Parish. He first appeared in the Brunswick records in Feb, 1734/35 (BC OB 1/45) when he and Thomas Lloyd were appointed to help construct a bridle way from Nicholas Lanier's house to the courthouse. He appeared twice as a witness in the first deed books of the County. The first was to a deed of property on Stoney Hill Run (now Indian Creek), and the second was the will of Henry King (BC DB 1/466 & 3/470, respectively). These events took place in an area that was not far from property owned by his other brothers in Prince George.

In 1746, Robert[2] acquired a land patent for 413 acres in Brunswick located on the south side of Sturgeon Creek bounded by Nicholas Lanier, Thomas Lloyd, Read and Harwell (VA PB 28/58). He may never have actually moved to this property.

Perhaps his brother, Charles, had taken him under his wing and encouraged him to patent land as Charles' oldest sons had done. His sons, James[3] and William[3], had patented land in either Lunenburg Co., formed in 1746, or the western section of Brunswick whose records began about 1732. The paths of Robert, Charles and these two of his sons seemed to run together during this time..

Fletcher in TGF included a short section on Robert[2] indicating that his research about Robert's relationship to Charles[1] was inconclusive. His first documentation was a court record ordering Robert along with James[3] Gee and others to clear a road. It was later discovered that the proposed road was in Lunenburg and so no action was taken (BC OB III, p. 19). He moved with his older nephews into the newly opened counties of Lunenburg and Mecklenburg. Robert was probably situated not far from James[3] Gee and William[3] Gee, sons of Charles[2] and Bridget Gee, even though they were in different counties. He was definitely in Lunenburg Co. for a short while since in a court order dated May, 1747, the Church Wardens of Cumberland Parish in Lunenburg Co. were required to "bind out Philip[3] Gee, son of Robert[2] Gee, to Samuel Wynne, it appearing to the court that his father was not able to provide for him and instruct him in Christian principles" (LC Order Book 1/204). This may only have been a problem with one son, not the entire family.

In 1748, he sold to Nathaniel Harrison the 413 acres of land that he had acquired by patent in 1746 (BC DB 3/537) and, in 1749, bought from Roger Reese 300 acres (BC DB 3/551) located south of Sturgeon Creek, thus remaining in the same vicinity and with some of the same neighbors, Nicholas Lanier, Charles King and Henry Simmons. Also, his land adjoined that of William Browder, Sackfield Brewer and Benjamin Wheler (BC DB 6/323). In 1764, Robert[2] Gee sold part of the above acreage (BC DB 4/213).

Robert[2] Gee Sr.'s will, dated July 1, 1783, and probated September 23, 1783 (BC OB 9/512), enumerated his wife, Elizabeth, only one son, Robert[3], and two daughters, Hannah Jones and Sarah Banks. Perhaps because the other sons had established themselves and their families elsewhere, he did not feel the need to include them and his wealth did not permit such generosity.

Determining Robert's family requires knitting together information from a number of records. Although these conclusions seem correct, further research may prove some to be in error or incomplete.

Robert[3] Gee, Jr., perhaps the oldest son, was listed in Bockstuck, (p. 209) as a "Soldier during the French and Indian War for defense of the frontier of the Colony, Private, Brunswick Co.." He, also, was allowed claims for supplying provisions in the county. Tax records would place the date of his birth at about 1730.

He remained in Brunswick Co. and reared a large family. In his will, dated Apr 3, 1814, and recorded Apr 24, 1815, he named six children: Elizabeth[4] House, Sally[4] Wells, William[4] Gee, Robert[4] Gee (III), Bailey[4] Gee and John[4] Gee (BC WB 9/142).

His son, Robert[4] Gee (b. c1770), was no longer on the tax list of Brunswick Co. after 1790 and appeared on the tax list of Orange Co., NC the next year. He was listed as bondsman for Silvanus Brewer, nephew of Sackfield Brewer, a neighbor from Brunswick Co. In turn Silvanus Brewer was the bondsman for Robert[4] Gee when he married Nancy Hatwood on Aug 3, 1793. These two had doubtless grown up together and Robert may have accompanied his friend to Orange Co., NC.

Philip[3] Gee has already been confirmed as a son of Robert[2] Gee in the previously mentioned Cumberland Parish records of 1747. Circumstances fix his birth at circa 1734. In 1748 (BC OB III/473), Philip[3] Gee was paid for being a witness in court for Robert Gee (plaintiff) against Thomas Noblin (defendant). By 1755, he had moved to Granville Co., NC and then, by 1758, to Orange Co. where he purchased a 200 acre tract in 1763 (OC DB E/135). He and his wife, Rachel, sold their land in 1769 to satisfy a debt (OC DB 3/186) and there are no further traces of them.

In another transaction, an indenture was made the 28th of November, 1758, between William Browder and William House, for 26 pounds, conveying 100 acres, adjoining lands of Isham Lucy, Robert Gee and Benjamin Wheler. The witnesses were Robert Gee, James Procter (his mark), and Henry Gee. Most likely this was Robert[2] Gee, the father, and Henry[3] Gee, his son. Henry would probably have been born about 1737. Henry Gee was in Halifax Co on 28th of April, 1777, when he enlisted in the 14th Virginia Regiment that served out of Halifax Co. He was at Trenton and Carrell's Ferry, served at Valley Forge during the winter of 1777/8 and died Feb 6, 1778. Back in Halifax, supplies were furnished to the wife of a soldier, Henry Gee, and, then again to his widow in February, 1779. In 1780, a suit was brought against Mary Gee, but the plaintiff dismissed the case. In the May Court it was "ordered that the church wardens of the parish of Antrim in this Co. do bind out Charles, Elizabeth, Sarah, Robert & Henry Gee, poor orphans of Henry Gee, deceased" (Revolutionary War: Rev. War Co. Pay & Muster Rolls for Capt. Thos. Threatt's Co. of Continental Regulars of the 14 VA Reg., commanded by Col. Charles Lewis; HaC Plea B 9/393; HaC Plea B 10/144; HaC Orphans Plea B 10/195).

There may have been one more son, John[3] Gee. A John Gee was mentioned in a 1761/4 accounting for the estate of Littleton Tazewell. (BC WB 4, pt.2, pg. 257) This suggests that John was born about 1740. He was found in Pittsylvania Co. land records in 1773 owning land and then sold this land in 1778. The next year he was on the tax list in Orange Co., NC, just one county south across the state line (Ratcliff, p. 73). He purchased land in Orange Co., NC in 1781 (OC NC DB 2/389). He and his wife, Constant, sold this property in 1787 (OC NC DB 4/146) and moved to Kentucky soon thereafter. He paid taxes in Casey Co., KY until 1814 and may have moved from there to Indiana.

Based on marriage records and the 1810 US census of Casey (now likely Boyle) Co., KY, the following appear to have been the children of John[3] and Constant Gee: (12 children)

Mark[4] Gee (1782-1811) married 1803, Nancy Jennings; Rachel[4] Gee (b. c1783) married 1803, Mark Noble, settled in Randolph Co., MO; John[4] Gee, Jr. (1784-1852) married 1807 Martha Coulter; Margaret[4] Gee (b. c1785) married 1806 William R. Kenney, Jr.; Matthew[4] Gee (b. c1787) married first in 1807, Anieta Glazebrook, and second in 1825, Elizabeth Zink; James[4] Gee (b. 1788) married 1810, Polly Taylor; Silviss "Silvy"[4] Gee (1792-1845) married Elias Rollins and settled in Martin Co., IN; (female)[4] Gee (b. between 1784 and 1794); Thomas[4] Gee (c1797-1882) married 1819 in Washington Co., IN, Anna Nancy Rollins; Cinthy[4] Gee (b. between 1794 and 1800) married Joseph Lyn; Delilah[4] Gee (b. between 1800 and 1810) married 1819, John Rollins; (male)[4] Gee (b. between 1800 and 1810).

Except for one son, John[4] Gee Jr., who remained in Kentucky, the rest of the family probably moved to Missouri or Indiana.

The first record of the Gee's located in Indiana is found in Washington Co. probate records in Jan, 1817 (vol. A/54). Nancy Gee was appointed as guardian of John, Martha, Rhoda and Josiah Gee, "orphans residing in the Co.". Nancy Gee was the widow of Mark[4] Gee, who died in Casey Co., KY in 1811.

Delilah Gee who married 5 Apr 1819 in Washington Co., IN, John Rollins was likely the identical Dellia Gee whose name appeared in the estate sale records of Mark Gee, in Casey Co., KY.

To summarize, Robert[2] Gee and Elizabeth (maiden name unknown) had issue:

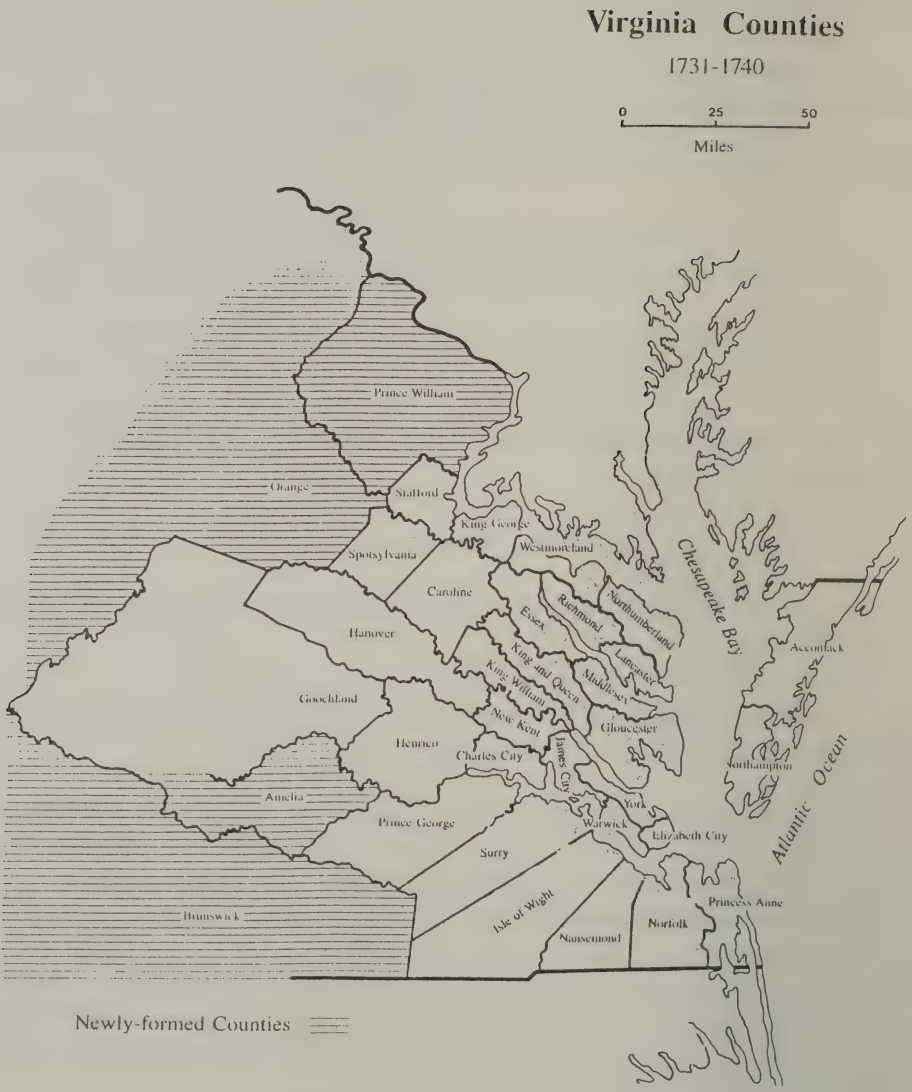
This presents a picture of the beginning, even though incomplete, of the GEE family in the Old Dominion. It seems self evident that they were an adventurous people willingly following on the edge of the movement into the 'back country'. They appeared to have been self-reliant and willing to cope with the harsh life that would go with such a challenging experience. Although history tells of the large plantation owners and their 'fantastical' life, the real backbone of the colony was the hard working farmers and their families, a group that included The Gee's.



Virginia Counties 1731-1740

III: Charles[2] Gee

Charles[2] Gee, the second son of Charles[1] and Hañah Gee, was born about 1696 in a section of Charles City Co., VA. that would become Prince George Co. in 1702. He married before 1725, Bridget Nevill of Northumberland Co., VA and died in 1768.

His father died about 1709 when Charles was quite young. Unlike his brother, James, there are few records of Charles, perhaps because the records of Prince George were destroyed or because he may have been less active in the sort of public life that resulted in extensive records. The lives of his siblings, James, Henry, Robert and Elizabeth (perhaps?) were all interwoven. There are court records of deeds, wills and affidavits and there are parish records giving births, deaths and godparents, affording many pieces of the complex family picture.

Three patents were certified to him: In 1722, he acquired 425 acres in Surry Co. on "the south side main Black Water Swamp beginning at an ash on Warrick Swamp" (VA Patent Book 11, page 140). This was probably the place where he and Bridget lived all of their lives and the property that was willed to his son, Jesse. He was also patented 400 acres in 1750 and 400 acres in 1756 (PB 29/268 and PB 34/113, respectively) in Lunenburg Co. VA. Subsequently in 1759, he deeded 266 acres to son, Henry Gee and 260 acres to son, Neavil Gee, (LC, Deed Book 5/524 and 5/525 respectively). In his will he gave to son, Benjamin "the plantation where he now lives on in Lunenburg Co. with two hundred and sixty-four acres of land". This would account for the 800 acres secured in the two patents. His will, dated Jan 4, 1768 and probated Aug 19, 1768 (Sus WB "B", p. 168) gave to the son, Jesse, the home plantation and also listed all of his children: James Gee, Charles Gee, William Gee, Henry Gee, Benjamin Gee, John Gee, Nevil Gee, Jesse Gee, Elizabeth Bonner and Penelope Heath.

The family members can be further substantiated in records involving the son, John, who went to Union Co., SC where he died c1799, apparently without leaving descendants. A John Gee was listed there in the 1790 census. There were three powers of attorney on record in Lunenburg Co. necessary for the siblings to claim their part in his estate and one of these documents listed each of their names (LC DB 19/136). The final settlement of the estate has not been found.

There were records in the Albemarle Parish Register of Surry and Sussex Counties of the births of three of the children (Benjamin, John and Jesse) and of at least 9 slaves between 1740 and 1760. Also, Charles and Bridget's deaths were recorded there.

His brother, Henry, referring to him as Cap't, reported Charles' death. Charles Gee, suggesting that he may have been connected with the militia; however no records have been found to support that.

BRIDGET NEVILL

Bridget[4] Nevill (John[3] Nevill, James[2] Nevill, John[1] Nevill) was born in Northumberland, VA in 1692, and died in Sussex Co., VA on Sep 10, 1748 (Albemarle Parish Register). She married before 1725 to Charles Gee of Surry Co., VA.

Bridget was a member of the fourth generation of Nevills in the Colonies. Our primogenitor and Bridgit's great-grandfather, John[1] Nevill, was born in England c1612 and died in Port Tobacco, Charles Co., MD, Jan 7, 1664. "After leaving Cowes, Isle of Wight, November 22, 1633, passengers of Lord Baltimore's vessels landed in Maryland the following March 25."(Neville, p. 1). Another claim that cannot be proven is that "John Neville was from Durham, England and that he sailed with Lord Baltimore from Cowes, England on the "Ark and Dove" and arrived at Port Comfort in Virginia on 24 Feb 1634." He married twice. In 1638, he transported his first wife, Bridget Throsly to the Province of Maryland where they were wed. "It is clear from the land records of Maryland that John Neville was a planter residing at "The Clefts" on the west side of the Patuxent River, in St. Mary's Co., now in Calvert, possessed of some means, for at least four years as a single man, and about fourteen years before he made any demand upon the Lord Manor for lands due him under the law. (The Wigfield and Nelson Families of Fauquier Co., Virginia by J. Douglas Bradshaw, p.298.) An affidavit dated Nov 8, 1659, in which he stated "he transported his said wife, Bridget, some twenty years previous" supports his marriage to Bridget (Liber 4 Folio 186 of land warrants, land office, Annapolis, MD). John and Bridget Neville had three children: James[2] Nevill, our progenitor; Ellen, (b. c1642, at "The Clefts" Calvert Co., MD, d. aft. 1670), married John Lambert before 1693; John Nevill, (b. 1646, d. 1672). A wife, Johanna Porter, was listed in John Nevill's will bearing the date January 7, 1664, naming as executors son, William and son-in-law, John Lambert. Joanna and John had two children, William (b, 1652, d. 1700) and Rachel, (b. 1658).

James, our forebear and Bridget's grandfather, (b. 1640 at "The Clifts", Calvert Co. MD, d.1711), wife unknown, had four children, James Nevill, Richard Nevill, b. in Northumberland Co., VA, John[3] Nevill, our 3rd generation ancestor, and Jacob Nevill.

John Nevill (b.1661 in Northumberland, VA, d. 1733) married Elizabeth Bohannan before 1686. They had six children, James Nevill (b. 1686); John Neavill (b. 1689); Elizabeth Nevill (b. 1691 in Northumberland, VA) who married Joseph Buchannon Bohannan; Bridget[4] Nevill, our ancestor; George Nevill (b. 1695); and Joseph Nevill (b. 1707, d. 1766) in Ashby's Gap, Fauquier, VA.

Bridget Nevill (b. 1692 in Northumberland, VA, d. Sep 10, 1748 in Albemarle Parish, Sussex Co., VA) merged her life with Charles Gee when they married before 1725 and started their family.

The facts seem to say that Charles and Bridget felt it was important to establish themselves and their family securely as farmers/landowners. It is safe to conclude that they encouraged each of their children to likewise gain a firm position in their community, as each of the eight sons had acquired land by the 1787 census. Five of the sons were in Lunenburg Co. since Jesse had sold the Sussex farm shortly after his father's death and bought another in Lunenburg. Charles relocated just across the Virginia line in Northampton Co., NC where he had been deeded a 300-acre tract by his uncle, James Gee. William had started out in Lunenburg with James but by 1787 was a landowner in Brunswick Co., VA . Any information about the two daughters has not been discovered. We only know their married names that were well known surnames in their Prince George/Surry/Sussex communities. Each of the children of Charles and Bridget will be addressed, describing what we know of their efforts in early Virginia to advance their families. Two of these were our direct ancestors, James and Henry, and will be addressed in Chapter 4.

Issue of Charles[2] and Bridget[4] (Neville) Gee, listed in the order in which they are listed in their father's will: (10 children)

Will of Charles[2]

James[3] Gee

James[3] Gee (b. c1725 in Surry Co., VA, d. c1802 in Lunenburg Co., VA), one of our direct ancestors, will be considered along with his family in chapter 4.

Charles [3] Gee

Charles[3] Gee (1725-38 in Surry Co., VA, d. c1810 in Halifax Co., NC where his will is recorded) was buried on his plantation, "Popular Grove" near Weldon. He married probably a Miss Hancock first and then on 21 May, 1762, he married (Fothergill, p. 39) Elizabeth Doby, daughter of William Doby (BC WB IV/109). He was deeded a tract of land consisting of 300 acres by James Gee of Sussex Co. by a document referring "to Charlie Gee, my nephew" and dated May 2, 1750 (DB 1/428). Whether he went there immediately is indeterminate. There is one undocumented reference to him as a bricklayer. There was a Charles Gee listed in Lunenburg Co. in 1764 with 200 acres but he was not levied a tithe. This probably meant that he was not living on the property at that time. He seems to have been living in Albemarle Parish until 1771, when his daughter Salley's birth was listed in the register. They had at least nine children:

Charles[4] Gee (b. c1751).
William[4] Gee (b. c1752).
? Gee, married Nathaniel Doby.
Amy[4] Gee (b. c1755), married Jan 30, 1773, Robert Tatum.
Joseph[4] Gee (b. Mar 12, 1763) (APR).
John[4] Gee (b. Nov 30, 1766) (APR).
Patty[4] Gee (b. Aug 27, 1768) married Arthur Smith.
Sarah[4] (Salley) Gee (b. Apr 25, 1771) married first Henry Thompson; and second, John Glover

Neville[4] Gee (b. 1773, d. 1828) married Elizabeth Harwell, daughter of Sterling Harwell of Halifax Co., NC and granddaughter of Mark Harwell of Sussex Co., VA (SusC WB A/121, 1788). He inherited the family home, "Popular Grove", where his ancestors are buried. They had two sons, Sterling Harwell[5] Gee and Charles James[5] Gee who married sisters, Mary Temperance Williams and Martha Louisa Williams, respectively.

Fletcher, in TGF, devoted all of chapter 4 to this family. Three descendants of Neville[4] and Elizabeth will be addressed here.

Of this family, Miss Pattie Williams Gee, daughter of Dr. C. J. Gee (son of Sterling Harwell[5] Gee and Mary Temperance Williams) and Tempie W. (Austin) Gee, was one of the first genealogist of the Gee family. Her work is discussed briefly in Chapter 1. She lived from 1867 to 1934 and worked for a lawyer in New York City where she began researching her family. She eventually gave up her job to do research and write full time. A collection of her poems was published in 1904, The Palace of the Heart and Other Poems of Love. She became ill in her prime and unfortunately was unable to pursue her family history research to fruition. Her data has whetted the appetite of later genealogists researching the Gee Family lineage in America. An article "Genealogy of Gee Family" in The North Carolina Booklet, (Vol VII/1, July 1907:157-161), published by the NC Society of Daughters of the Revolution, gave a condensed report of her efforts. She was credited with inventing the Medallion Genealogical Register.

It is an interesting observation that her father, Dr. Charles James[6] Gee (Charles[3]), was a student at Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia in the same decade as Edward Crymes[6] Gee (James[3]), that both became leading practitioners in their respective areas, and that they both served as surgeons in the Civil War.

Her cache of genealogical materials are in the keeping of William Gaston[9] Allen, whose lineage is: Charles[3] Gee; Neville[4] Gee, married Elizabeth Harwell; Charles James[5] Gee (brother to Sterling Harwell[5] Gee), married Martha Louisa Williams; Tempie Hilliard[6] Gee, married William H. Hill; Kemp Plummer[7] Hill, married Bettie Gee Burt; Pattie Gee[8] Hill, married W. G. Allen; William Gaston[9] Allen (TGF, p. 94). He lives at 720 Currituck Drive, Raleigh, NC 27609.

William Gaston Allen has in his possession a picture collection of his direct line for ten generations of his maternal ancestors. This collection "Raleigh Woman Has Pictures Going Back 10 Generations" was featured in the News and Observer, Raleigh NC, Sunday Morning, September 23, 1951, IV/3. The first Gee was in the 5th generation.

Another descendant of Charles James[5] Gee and Martha Louisa Williams is James Brooks[9] Gee (TGF, p. 95). His line branches from Charles James[5] Gee and Martha Louisa Williams, and advances forward to Archibald Taylor[6] Gee and Nora A. Roach, Charles James[7] Gee and Evelyn Lorbacher, Sterling James[8] Gee and Onie Brookes to James Brooks[9] Gee (b. Oct 20, 1944). He married Jun 8, 1968 in Burlington, NC, Josephine Hoffman Perdue (b. Mar 12, 1946 in High Point, NC). He and Jodie live at 1204 Springland Drive, North Myrtle Beach, SC 29582. Issue. (4 children)

Melanie Elizabeth[10] Gee (b. Jan 5, 1972)

Katherine Michelle[10] Gee (b. April 14, 1973) married Aug 1, 1996, Robert Grant Smith. Issue: (1 child)

Robert Jackson[11] Smith (b. Apr 16, 1999)

Michael James[10] Gee (b. Oct 21, 1976)

Jennifer Lynne[10] Gee (b. Nov 18, 1980)

Refer to TGF for a more in depth look at the family of Charles[3] Gee.

William[3] Gee

William[3] Gee (b. in Sussex Co., VA, c1727, d. c1796) was listed third in his father's will. His will (BC WB 6/73) was probated that year in Brunswick Co., VA. He married 3 Mar 1762 (BC WB IV/376) in Brunswick Co., VA, Tabitha Ingram, daughter of John Ingram (d. 1763).

At about age 20, William came to Lunenburg Co. where he was first listed on the Tax List in 1749. He was designated as a vestryman in Cumberland Parish and regularly attended meetings from 1762 until 1767, serving as a warden and securing the wine for communion. Note the record of his replacement on Nov 22, 1768: "Thos. Chambers, Gent. is chosen a Vestryman in the room of William Gee, Gent. who has removed into Brunswick." (CPR, p. 410).

William moved to land along the Meherrin River where he built and operated Gee's Bridge across the river (Brunswick Public Claims Booklet) and probably lived the rest of his life. When he died, he left 220 acres to a son, James, who subsequently died without issue. The land then passed to his 10 siblings. James' niece, Rebecca Gee, daughter of Ephraim Parham and Parthenia Gee, James' sister, sold her interest in the above-mentioned acreage in 1820. Parthenia's 1/10 part had been divided 5 ways since they apparently had 5 surviving children as their heirs.

William was credited with providing supplies during the Revolutionary War (7 Tyler's Quarterly, 111). "A list of Revolutionary Patriots of Brunswick Co., Virginia," in the Courthouse at Lawrenceville, Virginia, compiled from records in the State Library, Richmond, Virginia, by Rosa Thornton Lane of the Colonel Charles Lynch Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, includes William Gee, father of Parthenia Gee, the wife of Ephraim Parham, as one of the "patriots who rendered services during the Revolution, under the 'Commissioners of Provisions Law,' to Lafayette, Baron von Steuben, General Nelson, General Greene, General Washington and others. He gave not only supplies for the continental troops, but transported the sick, provisions and guns." Confirmation of the accuracy of the listing for the said William Gee can be found in Brunswick Co. Order Book, (No. 13, 1773-1780, pages 444 and 455), where specific services of transporting troops, furnishing beef and supplying a gun are described as rendered by him. He also was credited with allowing passage of many troops and wagons over his private bridge on the Meherrin River. Total of claims allowed by the Co. Court was £6869-3-10 ½ (Virginia Revolutionary Publick Claims, Vol 1, compiled and transcribed by Janice L. Abercrombie and Richard Slatten, p. 154). Lewis Parham, father of Ephraim, was also included on that list.

William and Tabitha had at least 13 children at the time he wrote his will in 1796. Issue:

John[4] Gee was probably named after his maternal grandfather. There was a John Gee, Sr. and John Gee, Jr. listed on the Brunswick Co. Tax List for 1800. This may have been the son and grandson of William & Tabitha.

Parthenia[4] Gee married 23 Nov 1778, Ephraim Parham, son of Lewis, who was son of Ephraim and France Parham of Surry Co. (Willis and Deeds of Surry Co., VA, 1715-1730, Part 2, dated 7 Apr 1726 and probated 15 Jun 1726.) They had at least five children. Peterson G. Parham of the Co. of Wilkinson and State of Mississippi, was shown to have been a brother of Rebecca Parham Gee, wife of Wilson Gee (BC Deed Book 28/18, dated 1828). This Peterson G. Parham seems to have been the father of Nancy M. Parham who married Joseph Hampton Hamilton in 1807 in Union Co., South Carolina. She met Joseph Hamilton and married him while her father and family were on their way west. They were forced to interrupt their travel due to a fever contracted by Peterson while visiting relatives in that region of South Carolina. The sister, Rebecca, married first John Turbyfill, who died c 1807 (LC WB 6/203), and second on 22 Dec 1808 (BC MR p. 39) Wilson Gee, whose family is detailed in The Gee Family of South Carolina by Wilson Gee, ©1935. Wilson Gee was a son of Charles (PF) Gee and Sarah Wilson and brother to Everard Wilson Gee who married Rebecca Crymes Gee. Their family is chronicled in The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee, Lunenburg Co., Virginia, by Samuel Edward Gee, 1975 (hereinafter referred to as The Kin) and updated in this book.

Susanna[4] Gee married 29 Sep 1783, Thomas Rives. The marriage records listed her as daughter of William with John Gee as security (Fothergill, p. 100). She had died by the time of her father's will and therefore was not mentioned; although he does mention her two daughters, Judith and Tabitha Rives.

Mary[4] Gee married Dec 20, 1781, William Collier, son of William Collier, Sr. and Sarah Briggs. The marriage register listed her as a daughter of William Gee, and John was security (Fothergill, p. 24). Mary and William Collier had a daughter, Mary "Polly"[5] Collier, who married Jan 13, 1803 in VA, Robert Mitchell (Fothergill, p. 79). The Mitchells moved to Lauderdale Co., AL sometime in the late 1820s where their daughter Mary Ann[6] Mitchell married Wiley T. Hawkins. Their son, Robert[7] Hawkins, married Ann Elizabeth Witherspoon. Subsequently, their daughter, Callie Mary[8] Hawkins, married Stanley Duke Patton and their daughter, Frances Lucille[9] Patton, had a granddaughter, Jean G.[11] Kennedy who is a genealogist researching that family and who contributed this information.

Susan[4] Gee married Oct 11, 1796, ? Rosser. The marriage register listed her as daughter of William Gee (Fothergill, p. 102).

William[4] Gee (d. c1798) married Priscilla (?). Priscilla later married Allen W. Davis in 1801 (Fothergill, p. 27).

Penelope[4] Gee married Sep 18, 1792, Joseph Porter, II. The Brunswick Co. Marriage Register listed her as daughter of William Gee (Fothergill, p. 93). She may have been named after her aunt, Penelope Gee Heath.

Bridget[4] Gee married Jun 9, 1795, Lewis Davis. The Brunswick Co. Marriage Register listed her as a daughter of William Gee (Fothergill, p. 28). She probably was named after her paternal grandmother.

Joshua[4] Gee married Rosanna Porter, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Porter of Madison Co., VA. Joshua was in Orange Co. in 1820 and moved to Davidson Co., TN where he died in 1850, at the age of 83.

Elizabeth[4] Gee married Oct 11, 1796, Ishmael Harrison. B. C. Marriage Register listed her as the daughter of William Gee (Fothergill, p. 51).

James[4] Gee, mentioned above, apparently died without issue before 1820.

Hannah[4] Gee married Jan 29, 1790, Samuel Porter, son of Joseph and Elizabeth Porter of Madison Co., VA. Brunswick Co. Marriage Register listed William Gee as security. There is some doubt as to whether she was a daughter of William. She was not mentioned in William or Tabitha's wills; therefore, she may have died before 1796 or she may be misplaced here. If she was a daughter, she may have been named after her paternal great grandmother.

Henry[3] Gee

Henry[3] Gee, (b. c 1733) will be addressed in Chapter 4, as he is one of our direct line ancestors.

Benjamin[3] Gee

Benjamin[3] Gee's birth record as reported in APR, p. 11, stated: Benjamin s. of Charles Gee and w. Bridget; b. Sept 10; c. Nov 30, 1739; gdpts. John Mason, Chaney Tatum, Bridget Tatum. These godparents were no doubt parish friends and family. A John Mason was a vestryman of Albemarle Parish and Chaney Tatum was probably part of the Tatum Families that were found throughout the register. Bridget Tatum was presumably the daughter of James[2] Gee who married Christopher Tatum, an older cousin of Benjamin.

Possibly, he grew up on the farm in Sussex Co. with his large family community; and when he became an adult, he chose to go to Lunenburg where several of his brothers were already established and where his father had purchased two patents. His father gave him the privilege of farming a portion of this land. He was on the Lunenburg Tithe list in 1764, with 1 tithe, 1772 with 2 tithes and 2 tithes thereafter in 1773-1776 and again in 1783. At one point he was listed with 400 acres, which indicates that he had purchased land in addition to that patented by his father. In his will he devised land that had been purchased from John Dixon and appeared to have been adjacent to land he already owned.

Sometime after 1768, Benjamin married Jane Green, daughter of John and Jane Green and sister to Henry Gee's wife Elizabeth (LC WB2/339, dated 10 Nov 1768). All of these Gee brothers lived in the same section of Lunenburg Co., thereby creating a large, community-based, support complex and many married other Gee cousins or siblings of other local persons who had married into the Gee family. Jane apparently had died by the time Benjamin wrote his will signed on Mar 13, 1815, for she was not mentioned. He listed five children and six Ragsdale grandchildren. The will was probated the same year on June 8 which reveals that he died soon after preparing this document, making his two sons and son-law executors (LC WB 7/185-186). Issue: (6 children)

(Some of this information comes from a family tree that is assumed to have been delineated by Miss Maude Gee. There is a note that says that Sarah Emily Gee dictated it. It came from Annette Gee Ford who has the papers of W. J. Fletcher).

Mildred[4] Gee (b. c1775, d. Feb 6, 1815) married Jan 29, 1794, William Ragsdale, (d. c1824 per LC WB 8/139). William Ragsdale was appointed co-executor of Benjamin Gee's will along with sons, Jeremiah and Jesse Gee, and he was bequeathed 200 acres "...of the upper end of the tract of land I bought of John Dixon". William Ragsdale was probably also a justice of the Lunenburg Co. Court in 1798 and 1802-1823. Their children were listed in both Benjamin Gee's and William Ragsdale's wills. Issue: (6 children)

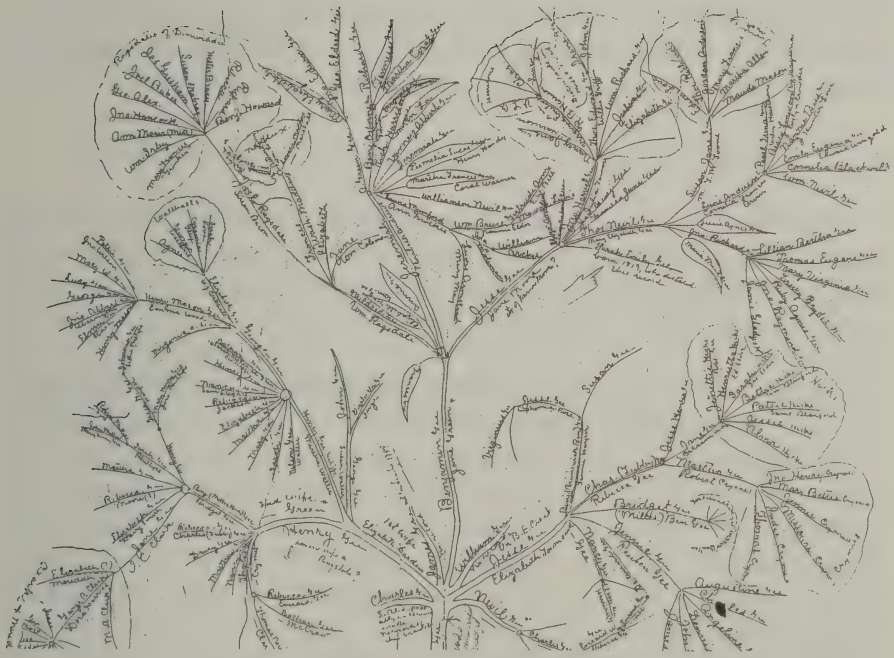
Marie Maud[6] Gee (b. Jul 16, 1857, d. Jan 29, 1957), a near centenarian and a public school teacher in Lunenburg Co., was a Gee genealogist using the information Sarah Emily[5] Gee had gathered and drawn into a family tree to make a chart which she shared with Wilson Gee who probably filed it at the DAR Library. Future family history researchers have used this as a diagram from which to work.



Miss Maude's Chart

John[3] Gee

John[3] Gee was born in 1742 as shown by this record: "John s. of Charles Gee and w. Bridget; b. Jan 20, 1742; c. March 28, 1742; gdpts. David Jones, Joseph Mason, Winefred Goodwynne" (APR, p. 105). He went to South Carolina, and was perhaps the John Gee listed in Union Co., SC in the 1790 census. (This needs more research) The John Gee household enumerated for that census showed two males under age 20 and one female under 20. He would have been 47 years old at that time. He died before 1799, probably without issue as indicated by three powers of attorney in Lunenburg Co. initiated by his siblings: In DB 18/102, 1799, James[3] Gee (as eldest brother) appointed Charles[4] Gee to represent his interest in his brother's estate. In LC DB 19/136, 1803, Charles, Henry, Nevil and Benjamin, and also heirs of William, James, Elizabeth and Penelope appointed Jesse to represent their interests. In LC DB 19/152A, 1803, James[4] Gee (executor of James[3] Gee's will) appointed brother, Charles[4] Gee, to collect anything coming to the James[3] Gee Estate. Documents detailing the resolution of this estate have not been found.

Nevil[3] Gee

Nevil[3] Gee (b. c1729 in Sussex Co., d. 1804 in Lunenburg Co.) probably married a Miss Lucas. His given name, Nevil, was spelled in different ways--Nevil, Neavil, Nevill, Neville even within one document and especially within one family.

We will only summarize a few particulars as TGF has given most of the known facts about him. He had come to Lunenburg by 1752 and received part of a patent granted to his father, Charles Gee, of Sussex Co. The abstracted deed reads, "By deed dated October -- 1759, recorded December 4, 1759 in Deed Book 5, at page 525 Charley Gee, Senr of Sussex Co. for love and affection I bear for my son Neavel Gee of Lunenburg Co. convey 260 acres of land in Lunenburg Co. on the branches of Crooked Creek bounded by Booker and Cocke and Edlow." In the 1764 tithes list, he was attributed with 300 acres. In the 1772-1776 annual land records he was listed for 2 tithes; and then in 1783, he was described additionally as having 9 whites and 5 blacks in his household.

(Sunlight on the Southside). Likewise he was active in Cumberland Parish where he was assigned to procession land in 1767. As an aside, this Crooked Creek should not be confused with Crooked Run Creek as may have happened in the past and may have been the basis for the belief that Charles (PF), the ancestor of Edward Crymes Gee of, was a son of Neavil Gee. Crooked Creek is a small creek in the vicinity of Bears Element and Flat Rock Creek and empties into the Meherrin River; whereas Crooked Run Creek and Cedar Creek flow into the Nottoway River.

One of the most significant facts that need to be clarified regarding Nevil Gee, son of Charles Gee and Bridget Nevill, is that he was not the father of Charles (Powderface) Gee, as related in TGF. Rather, Charles (Powderface) Gee was a son of James Gee, the oldest brother of Nevil Gee. Read James[3] Gee, in the next chapter, for that story.

His will was probated 12 Jul 1804 (WB 6/88). The names of ten offspring can be gleaned from Nevil's will, all born between 1757 and 1782:

Nancy[4] Gee married Bowers.

Issue of Jesse[4] Gee and his second wife, Anna (surname unknown): (1 child)

Amanda L.[5] Gee (b. May 5, 1815 in Cumberland Co., KY, d. Oct 26, 1865 in Clinton Co., MO) married Samuel Grubbs Biggerstaff (b. Aug 20, 1808 in Madison Co., KY, d. Jul 23, 1884 in Clinton Co., MO), son of Aaron Biggerstaff and Henrietta Moore.

Documentation for adding this child: (Cumberland Co. KY circuit court records: Book D/64; 367; 450) Amanda L. Gee by her guardian, vs. Jesse Gee Heirs; (defendants not in KY: Robert Pottinger and wife; Thomas Lincoln and wife; John Truax and wife; Winney Tudor). 7/13/1822; 10/23/1822; 4/21/1823. Jesse Gee's wife was listed as Anna, now wife of Abraham Enyart (Engart?). Other heirs are listed as John S. Gee, Jesse Gee, Robert Pottinger and wife, Thomas Lincoln and his wife Patsy; E. Kirkpatrick and his wife Betsy, John Smith and his wife Sally, John Autry and his wife Polly, John Truax (Truex) and his wife, Lucy, and Winney Tudor. (Another indication that she was a child of Jesse[4] Gee's second marriage to Anna, is that she was underage at the time of the lawsuit. The settlement of Jesse Gee began early in Will Book B. and the final settlement was c1824).

This Amanda L.[5] Gee may have been the person who married Samuel Grubbs Biggerstaff. Issue: (10 children)

(Information on the Jesse[4] Gee family comes from "Roots & Branches", an article in the Cumberland Co., KY News by Joyce Stover, Jan 26, 2000 and Feb 18, 2000. Her information came from the local court records.)

Jones[4] Gee married Mary Ragsdale
Amey[4] Gee married Drury Andews
William[4] Gee married Catherine Jones
George[4] Gee

Lucas[4] Gee, son of Neavil Gee (Charles[2], Charles[1]), was a member of the County Court in Lunenburg County in 1811, 1813 and 1818. He married Apr 15, 1794, Lucy Pennington, daughter of S. Pennington (possibly the S. stands for Sack), Benjamin Bugg, Security (Fothergill, p. 29). Issue: (at least four children)

Sack P[5]. Gee, William L.[5] Gee and Nancy[5] Gee who married Benjamin Tomlinson. There was probably a brother Lucas[5] Gee as well, born in 1808, died in 1850 in LA and buried with the family of Sack Gee. Lucas became a medical doctor.

Sack Pennington[5] Gee (b. 1795) apparently became a teacher because Everard Wilson Gee listed him as one of his teachers in his autobiography. As a young person he seemed to have traveled widely. He eventually moved to Mississippi, perhaps by way of Tennessee as he was listed as being born in that state--a fact that may or may not be accurate. His parents were married in 1794 in Brunswick Co. This was shortly after the 1789 ratification of the Constitution and the country settled into a period of expansion. Perhaps Lucas moved his family to Tennessee for a period of time and then returned to Lunenburg Co., VA where he was involved in county government by 1811. On March 4, 1820, Sack P. Gee signed a marriage bond with John Brock for the sum of $200 in preparation for marrying his daughter, Mary Ann. They were married March 16, 1820, in Claiborne Co., MS and were residents of Madison Co., MS by 1832. In July of 1835, he was named a member of the Safety Committee in Madison Co., MS. He probably left Mississippi for his protection and that of his family (he was involved in bringing one of that area's notorious outlaws, John Murrell, to justice) and moved to northern Louisiana. By 1836, he was established in Claiborne Parish, LA after buying 440 acres from Major James Dyer who had received a patent for a portion of it in 1827.

Sack amassed an estate totaling $122,800 at his death, including 2480 acres of land, 85 slaves, and $3500 in cash, and railroad stock which was not appraised. Sadly, however, he had already lost many of his most precious possessions: his two sons had died, one at age 18 and another at age 7, his only daughter died two years later and one year after her marriage, leaving only his wife to weather the post Civil War Reconstruction years when the estate would diminish to $6625 by the time she died in 1873. The land value itself was only one fourth of its value at the time of Sack's death and, of course, the slaves had been freed.

Today there is left only a Gee Creek, a Gee Cemetery and the fascinating story which can be found in Claiborne Parish Sketches, "The Family of Sack Pennington Gee" by Jean Craighead Shaw, Papers prepared for the Claiborne Parish Historical Association, Homer, Louisiana, 1956; Historic Claiborne '69, "Gee Cemetery" by Marguerite Henry Garrett, CPHS, Homer, Louisiana, 1969; Stories of Dixie, "The Gee Place", by James W. Nicholson, p. 106, 1966 reprint. Also, on file is a letter from Nellie Drumright Smith, living in Baton Rouge, LA. in 1978, telling about her family including a great grandfather, grandfather, brother and two cousins, all named Gee Drumright, and a list of those buried at the Gee Cemetery.

Buried in the Gee Cemetery in Claiborne Parish, Homer, LA, are the following persons and the inscriptions on their stones:

..John L. Gee, d. 1838, age 17 yrs.

..Jones L. Gee, d. Aug 22, 1840, age 7 yrs, 2 mo. 2 days, son of S. P. & M. A. Gee.

Jesse[3] Gee

Jesse[3] Gee's birth was recorded: "Jesse s. of Charles Gee and w. Bridget; (b. Jan 9, 1745/6; christened April 6, 1746; gdpts. Jesse Goodwynne, Wm Gee, Mary Chappell" per APR p. 211). He was the youngest son of Charles[2] and Bridget Gee to our knowledge and received the family farm in his father's will. (Sussex Co WB "B"/168). This could well be the land that his father had received in a patent in 1722.

In 1769, a year after his father's death, he sold this farm and no doubt moved to Lunenburg Co. By 1772, he was on the tithes list with John Towson. He married c1770, Elizabeth Townsend, probably the daughter or sister of John Towson.

A will dated Aug 7, 1817 and probated Nov 18, 1823 (LC WB 8/312) indicates the date of his death. He made bequests to his wife, Elizabeth, daughters, Bridget N. and Jane, and sons, James S., Benjamin, Charles. There was also a son, William, who had predeceased his father.

Issue of Jesse and Elizabeth Townsend: (6 children)

Bridget N.[4] (maybe Neville) Gee (b. c1771) married Feb 20, 1793, Benjamin Gee, her first cousin, son of Henry[3] Gee.

James Street[4] Gee (b. c1774, d. Nov 22, 1819) married Nov 10, 1798, Nancy Gee, daughter of Jones Gee (Neavil[3]), his first cousin. At his death his three youngest children were listed in the Guardian Book with William I. Gee as guardian.

Jane[4] Gee (b. Dec 4, 1783) married Jan 1, 1800, Reuben Gee (LC WB 10/181A), son of Neavil[3] Gee who was her first cousin. Their children are addressed in detail in TGF (p. 62-65) and the story of one grandson, Joseph J. Gee, a Lieutenant Colonel in the Civil War, is well worth retelling here. Jane and Reuben had eight children per TGF. The second child Peter went to Carroll Co., Mississippi, had a daughter, Mary Louisa Gee who married R. L. Bingham and the son, Joseph J. Gee (b. Sep 11, 1834, d. Feb 18, 1914) married Dec 3, 1868, Charlie Augusta Kimbrough, who provides an intriguing life story which follows.

> "Joseph J.[6] Gee enlisted in the Confederate Army as Lieutenant in the 4th Miss. Reg. in 1861, was soon promoted Captain and participated in the engagements at Fort Henry and Fort Donaldson Tenn. His regiment was captured and thereafter he spent eight months in prison on Johnson's Island. After an exchange the regiment was reorganized and Capt. Gee was promoted Major. On May 18, 1862, Major Gee, with his detachment was again captured, but after a short time was exchanged, was on duty at Mobile, and when Sherman began his march through Georgia he was assigned to daily skirmishing. He was later with his regiment at the bloody charge at Franklin, Tenn., and then on to Nashville. He was finally promoted Lieutenant Colonel. After the war Col. Gee operated a large mercantile establishment at Carrollton, Miss., and accumulated a comfortable fortune."
> As a follow-up, there was an article in the Southern Living Magazine, March 1983, p. 60, entitled "Step Into the Last Century in Carrollton". This little town was just what the movie producers needed when they filmed The Revivers in 1968 based on William Faulkner's novel. A photographer, Kelly Campbell, has included a picture of the main street showing the J. J. Gee & Sons General Merchandise Store. Reported in the article, "The Gee family first came to the Carrollton area in the 1830's, and their descendants now operate the store as an informal museum...The museum contains items that were once stocked on the store's shelves—men's starched collars, ladies' button-up shoes, slate pencils, and knickers. Starting the museum was easy. I just went up in the attic and pulled all this stuff down. They were goods that didn't sell, and they stuffed it all up in the attic,' says Gee."

Additional and more in depth reading about this family can be found in publications, Bio. & Hist. Memoirs of Miss. and W. F. Hamilton's Annals of Carroll County.

William[4] Gee (b. c1885, d. 1908) married Sep 12, 1805, Salley Moody (LC WB 6/138). His will was probated 1808 and mentioned his wife and father. Probably no issue.

Broad St., Kenbridge, VA.

Another granddaughter, Henrietta M.[6] Hicks (Feb 6, 1838, d. Mar 3, 1907), married Edward M. Elder (b. Dec 2, 1829, d. Feb 2, 1901). Their daughter, Lula Price[7] Elder (b. May 15, 1867, d. IV: James[3] Gee

It is our premise that James is our third generation ancestor in America despite the belief generally accepted for many years that his brother, Neavil, was our direct line. The "Dear Children" letter written by Everard[5] Gee stated that James was his grandfather. On reading the letter, the first inclination is to accept this unconditionally since a man should certainly know the name of his grandfather. But, inasmuch as previous genealogists have treated Neavil as our third generation ancestor, it seemed important to independently verify the correct lineage.

The chronicle of James Gee began in Prince George Co., VA where he was born, the oldest son of Charles[2] and Bridgett (Nevill) Gee as confirmed by his father's will (SC WB B/168). Further support for the names of family members can be found in three powers of attorney (LC DB 18/102, 19/136, 19/152A) that were recorded in 1799 and 1803 in Lunenburg Co. These were necessary for the siblings to claim their share in the estate of their brother, John Gee, who had died in South Carolina--apparently without issue. The first stated that James was the oldest brother, and in one of the other actions all nine siblings of John Gee were reiterated.

The records show that James was issued a patent for 223 acres on Kittlestick Creek in Brunswick Co., Virginia in 1746, (This would soon be part of Lunenburg Co. after its establishment later that year), another patent for 230 acres in Lunenburg Co. in 1748, and yet another for 144 acres in 1752. The last two tracts were on Bears Element Creek (PB #11, p140; #29, p. 268; #34, p.113). He began to appear on the land records (tithes list) in Lunenburg in 1748 and thereafter repeatedly appeared. His brother, William, was present in 1749; and brothers, Neavil, Henry and Benjamin were listed in 1764. James' acreage was described in 1764 as 624 acres in Cumberland Parish. In that year, there was listed a Charles Gee who cannot be accounted for unless he was James' brother, Charles, who had moved to Lunenburg but only stayed one year. In 1769, James' son, David, was included with James. James Jr. was added in 1772 and the third son, Charles, joined them on the list in 1775 (Bell, Sunlight..p.63. 103, 242, 272, 304, & 355). This Charles would be our ancestor.

The next question is whom did James marry? Returning to Everard's letter to his children, he stated that his grandfather was James and that his grandmother was a Williams. Even though the record of the marriage has not been found, there are numerous records that show a close relationship between the Gee and Williams families. These connections indicate a high probability that James was married to a member of that family.

The first evidence of a connection is a deed dated 1755 (LC DB 4/22) wherein James Gee bought 250 acres of land from Daniel Mason. Here, Jones Williams was listed as a witness along with William Wilson and Henry Gee. In 1761, David Williams (most surely a brother to Sarah Williams) bought 300 acres of land from Baxter Ragsdale (LC WB 2/436); that deed was witnessed by James Gee, Jesse Osling, William Gee, Jones Williams and George Williams. Also, in 1771, Peter Williams, executor of David Williams of Dinwiddie Co., sold to Francis Bowers the 300 acres just mentioned (LC DB 12/81). Here the witnesses were David Dearden, James Gee, and David Williams. Next, in 1776 (LC WB 2/436), the will of John Williams was probated naming Elizabeth Williams as his wife and James Gee as guardian of his children. In the Abemarle Parish Register, a Sarah Williams was twice listed as godparent to John and Elizabeth's children at their christenings. Next, in 1789, the will of Jones Williams (MC WB 3/30) was recorded in Mecklenburg Co., devising most of his estate to his son, but there were also bequests to his siblings and to James Gee and his sons David, James and Charles. Finally, in The Bristol Parish Registry (p. 382) there are records of the births of five children of David and Sarah Williams: Sarah in 1721, Mary in 1723, John in 1726, Jones in 1731 and Martha in 1734. Jones Williams' will adds to this list: Miles, George and David. From analyzing this data, it appears that James Gee was undoubtedly married to Sarah Williams, daughter of David and Sarah Williams, whose other children were John and Jones, among others.

A further look at James[3] Gee's documentation shows that he made his will in 1788 and that it was probated 7 May 1802, naming four children, David, James Jr., Charles and Sarah Barry (LC WB 5/80). A play with these names shows that probably James and Sarah choose the names of their four children in the traditional colonial way; thus: the first was David named after his maternal grandfather; next was James, Jr. named after his father; then the third son, Charles, was named after his paternal grandfather; and their daughter, Sarah, was named after her mother as well as her maternal grandmother.

The long acceptance of Neavil as our ancestor was most likely due to the fact that no one had really given it enough thought to see the incongruity. A most obvious indicator is that in the Charles[4] Gee (Powder Face) line there are no Neavils and, also, that James[3], Charles[4] and Everard[5] chose James as their first or second son's name. Miss Maude, born in 1857, would not have known any of this family; however, the person who is credited with dictating the information to her, Sarah Emily Gee, who was born in 1819, may have known Charles (PF) as a teenager. By the time she compiled a family tree, her information on this branch of the family was second hand. It is very possible that there was confusion with a story that was actually true of Henry[3] Gee's son, Charles. That story also requires examining a number of sources. It does speak to the other Charles Gee and to the marriage that had been erroneously matched to James' son, Charles, in TGF.

For this reason, it is important to account for the other Charles Gee in the land records in 1783 and in the marriage records of a Charles Gee to Kezzia (Lizzie) Skinner in 1789 with Samuel Skinner as Surety (LC MR p. 11).

The total Charles[2] Gee family consisting of ten children must be examined to find the answers and, in particular, the son, Henry[3] Gee, and his descendants. Henry's will probated in 1815 (LC WB 7/157) was used to identify his children, but there was no mention of a Charles. A further search revealed an Order (LC OB 21/254) dated 1816, involving Joshua, who was a son of Henry and who had died apparently without a will. Joshua's death required court proceedings for the administration of his estate. The filed documents named all of his siblings and the issue of any deceased siblings. From these, we learned that there was a son, Charles, who had two children, Martha Gee and James Gee. This Charles Gee would have been deceased before 1795 as is further substantiated by a deed dated 1795 (LC DB 17/160), where Henry conveyed 205 acres to James Gee, Jr., son of Charles Gee, deceased. [This is the story that was probably confused with Neavil as father of Charles (PF).]

Now, that a place has been assigned for the other Charles, the marriage of Kezzia Skinner to a Charles Gee in 1789 can be understood. The solution to this comes out of correspondence from a Mrs. T. W. Rogers of Athens, GA and Mrs. Newton S. Berry of Decatur, GA in 1968, both of whom were descendants of Henry via Charles who had the two children, Martha and James. Mrs. Rogers wrote, "A granddaughter of Betsy Jennings Moore (who was Martha's daughter) said she remembered her grandmother talking of Uncle Jimmy and mentioned that the grandmother's name was Elizabeth Skinner." Also, in the land records (Bell, Sunlight p. 400), a lone Charles Gee was listed several lines below Samuel Skinner and his sons, James and Samuel Skinner, Jr., suggesting that they probably lived in close proximity.

Despite this one inaccuracy, Miss Maude (of the Benjamin[3] Gee family) did the entire Gee family an invaluable service in preparing her chart. It has given all subsequent family history buffs a point of beginning in their efforts. She prepared the tree and then a few generations later Wilson Gee, author of The Gee Family of Union Co. South Carolina, ©1935, charted it, enlarged it and deposited it at the DAR Library in Washington, DC for posterity.

In conclusion, this should decisively confirm that our third generation forebears were James and Sarah (Williams) Gee. He was born circa 1725 in Sussex Co. and died in 1802. His will was probated on Feb. 11, 1802, by his son, James Gee, the executor. Bristol Parish register listed Sarah Williams as born on 15 Mar 1721. She had apparently died by the time James wrote his will on 3 May 1788, and perhaps also by the time Jones Williams wrote his will in 1789 since he did not mention her. Possibly her death prompted James to write his will. James and Sarah were probably married in the early 1750's. The Bristol Parish register in its present day form does not give marriage records and only a few death records. These records have been lost to time. Lunenburg Co. had been formed only in 1746; Dinwiddie Co. and Prince George records were destroyed in the Revolutionary and Civil Wars. Therefore, it is not surprising that this information has not survived.

Sarah Williams

Having put forward the argument that Sarah Williams was the wife of James[3] Gee, her parentage and her family should be examined. Sarah was a child of David and Sarah (Williams) Williams who were living in the area where Sapphony Chapel, one of the Bristol Parish places of worship, was located in Dinwiddie Co. We do not know the date, but her parents were married before 1720, as Sarah's birth was recorded as Mar 15, 1721 and she was baptized July 18, 1721 (BP p. 382). Sarah was the first child listed in the register to David and Sarah Williams. Although there were four more children (Mary, John, Jones and Martha) listed, we know there were also others not listed. In 1789, Jones Williams enumerated in his will four other siblings--Miles, George, David and Margaret (Ragsdale). When considering all of these names and examining the will of David Williams probated in Prince George Co., Feb 13 1738, it can be concluded that Miles, David and George were born before Sarah. Miles was listed as executor and George was listed as one of the securities. It would seem that David, with his father's given name, would be one of the first sons since their first daughter was named after her mother, Sarah. We learn that Sarah, the mother, was the daughter of John Williams, Sr. and Mary Jones and we can see that they chose to name a child John and one Mary after the maternal grandparents. In fact a child, John, died in 1725 and another child, also named John, was born in 1726. Thus it seems that they felt compelled to use that name. Mary Jones was a daughter of James Jones, Sr. This accounts for the use of "Jones" as another given name by David and Sarah; since these were all names from her family background.

We do not know the ancestry of David Williams, but it would not be surprising to find that his father's name was either David, George or Miles. The one document to consider is an Order in Charles City Co. in 1689 that recorded the marriage of Henry King to the relict (widow) of David Williams, decs. Since a Charles King, Jr. was listed as a witness for David Williams in 1738, it seems reasonable to conclude that the David of 1689 was father to this David and Charles King, Jr. might have been his stepbrother. The time frame would certainly fit.

The Bristol Parish Vestry Book stated that the Parish was established in 1643 by act of The House of Burgesses but due to the fact that this was backcountry and would have had limited financial resources, no action had been taken to establish a chapel in this locality until the 1720's. The record of the account is found in a meeting of the vestry on Nov 8, 1722 where it was ordered that a chapel be built on Sapphony Creek and another on Nansemond Creek. This record began with Oct 3, 1720, so apparently there was not a permanent meeting place initially. (Maybe the older children are listed in an earlier registry book of another chapel that has been lost). This register continues through April 18, 1789. Jones (Joans) Hole and Hatchers Run are other chapels mentioned as well.

Also, from the account of the meetings of the vestry, a picture emerges of how involved this family was with the church. It was most likely that they were charter members of this new chapel. David was assigned along with others to procession land in a particular precinct of the parish beginning in 1727 and continued until his death in 1738. (This was an informal method of surveying a man's property by having an appointed church member walk the property lines with the owner, or his designate. In this way it was determined how many tithes the landowner owed the parish for its work, the value per unit of tithe being assigned by the vestrymen). First, David was paired with Cap. Drury Stith and, later, with Israel Robertson who was the minister (BPR p. 35, 43, 55, 57, 77). Also, David was paid in pounds of tobacco for "grubbing y^{e} church yard" (BPR p. 79). Then, for the years 1735 until his death he was paid to clean "Sapphoney Chappel" (BPR p. 80, 81, 83, 84, 86, 87). Beginning in 1738, the year David's will was probated in Prince George Co., Sarah, "relect of David Williams," was paid as "sexton of Sapponie". This continued through Sep 1, 1742. Then, no further mention was made of her (BPR p. 90, 95, 99, 104 & 107).

There are some other records that might suggest the names of the extended Williams family. During this same period there were eight other Williams' families with recorded births and baptisms, making it difficult to distinguish among the families. For consideration are the following money donations/payments: George Williams, Jr. was appointed clerk of the Jones Hole Chappel in 1741 and was paid for his duties (BPR p. 107). From 1744 to 1750, "to John Williams for his sister" so many pounds (BPR p. 118, 120, 131, 134 &137). Then, from 1747 to 1771 "to Dan Vaughan for Margaret Williams" £1000 (BPR beginning on page 123).

Following are the issue of James[3] Gee and Sarah Williams: (4 children)

Charles[4] (Powderface), son of James[3] Gee, our ancestor, will be addressed in the next chapter.

For the other members of this family we will only present a few facts from Fletcher's TGF which has well-referenced pages about them and add some additional facts, which have come to light.

David[4], the oldest son of James and Sarah (Williams) Gee, was listed as executor of the will of John Hix, (LC WB 4/159) which suggests that he married a Hix daughter, Aggey. This would have been Agnes who was named in David Gee's will, proved in 1824 in Carroll Co TN. David probably married in Virginia and started his family there before moving west. He was no longer in Lunenburg records after 1795 and very likely was the David Gee who purchased land in Williamson Co., TN in 1810. In addition to his wife he listed the following children in his will: Polly Melugin, Susannah Evir, Edmund W. Gee, Thomas Gee, Henry Gee, Betsy Seal, David Gee and Nancy Campbell. Further information on these offspring:

Mary[5] (Polly) Gee, married William Malugent, 25 Jul 1798 in Davidson Co., TN.

Edmund W.[5] Gee (b. 24 Apr 1786 in VA, d. 8 Sep 1876 in Andrew Co., MO) married Lucy Hudson on 4 Dec 1817 in Dickson Co., TN.

Thomas H.[5] Gee (d. 9 Apr 1851 in Carroll Co., TN) married Mary Warrington on 23 Dec 1812 in Hickman Co., TN.

Issue: William Gee (b. 1827), James Gee (b. 1833), Pernell C. Gee (b. 1831), Martha Jane Gee (b. 1832), Emily Gee (b. 1834), Lucy M. Gee (b. 1837), and Eliza F. Gee (b. 1840)

Henry[5] Gee was listed in the 1850 census as 57 years old, born in Virginia and having a son, David W. Gee.

Nancy[5] Gee may have been the only child born in Tennessee. She was born in 1796 and died 8 Jul 1882 in Merriam, Johnson Co., KS. She married Alexander Campbell of Williamson Co., TN. Their family is listed up to 1935 in TGF.

James, Jr[4] Gee was probably the second son of James and Sarah Gee as he appeared second in the land records and in his father's will. Furthermore, he was the executor of that will and was the attorney who assisted his sister in disposing of the property of William T. Barry in 1797. He was no longer in Virginia after 1805.

Contrary to information in TGF, he married Sarah (Sally) Hix of Lunenburg Co., VA, daughter of John and Mourning Hix and sister to Agnes Hix who married his brother, David, and was living in Williamson Co., TN. He witnessed a Tennessee deed for his brother in 1805. He had a large family. One of his sons participated in the War of 1812 and eventually moved to Carroll Co., TN and then to Greenville, TX. Refer to TGF for James Gee's family.

Sarah[4] Gee the only known daughter of James and Sarah Gee, married a Barry as disclosed by her father's will. She most likely was alive when her father made his will in 1788; but she was not mentioned in Jones Williams' will in 1789, thus suggesting that she was not living by this time. Yet in 1798, a Sarah Barry is administrator of the estate of Wm. Taylor Barry and secured her brother's services to sell land. Some information to ponder is a listing of two Barrys, William and Richard, in the 1787 Census of Lunenburg Co. There was a record in 1797 of the inventory (LC WB 4/211A) of the estate of William Taylor Barry but no mention was made as to who received the estate. Then, a power of attorney was recorded the same year on October 11, 1797 wherein it was stated that Sarah Barry was the administrator of the estate of William Taylor Barry, deceased and that she appointed James Gee, Jr. to act as her attorney in litigation involving the estate (LC DB 17/547). On another slightly earlier occasion, 27th Dec 1796, William Taylor Barry sold to Charles Gee, Sr. 504 acres on Bears Element Creek. Sarah Gee was a witness to this transaction. No doubt this was Sarah Wilson Gee, Charles Gee's wife. Charles Gee, Sr. was definitely the same person as Charles Gee (PF) in later records, who was our direct line ancestor.

Although it is hard to accurately describe the family relationships, there were numerous Barrys living in the vicinity of the South Meherrin River, that incidentally has a transit across this river named Barry's Bridge (Bell, Sunlight. p.25). One possible scenario is: John Barry (b. in Wales c1715 and d. c1752 in Lunenburg Co. per Inventory (LC WB 1/67), also he was listed in the land records in 1748, (p. 59; 1749, p. 102 & 1750, p.147), may have had a son William Taylor Barry (b. c1735, d. c1798--also in land records in 1752, p. 200) who had several sons namely, 1)

John Barry who married Susannah Dozier Roberts, daughter of Leonard Dozier (LC WB 3/208, dated 1785, where she was referred to as Susannah Barry). This was Susannah's second marriage since on Dec 12, 1766 (LC MR p. 3) she had married Thomas Roberts and they had had a daughter, Nancy, who married John Sanford. A John Sanford was listed with John Barry in 1783, (p. 409). John Barry sold 300 acres to John Richardson on February 18, 1796 (LC DB 18/36-37), a transfer requiring his wife's approval. Since she could not travel to the court for some reason, she was interviewed by a court appointed party to ascertain her agreement. Within the document she was referred to both as Sarah and as Susanna. This may have been property that she brought into this marriage from her marriage to Thomas Roberts. John Barry and Susanna had a son William Taylor Barry who was Postmaster-General (as well as holding other Kentucky state and national offices) under Andrew Jackson (information furnished by Gretchen Andrews Maxwell of Pasadena TX, a descendant of Nancy and John Sanford). This Maj. William Taylor Barry was chronicled in OFS (p. 117-131) and in W & M Quarterly where a series of his letters were published (Vol. 13, p. 107 and Vol. 14 & 15, p. 19-23). Here it was stated that William Taylor Barry, the son of John Barry, a Revolutionary Soldier, was born 15th of Feb 1784 in Lunenburg Co. VA, moved to KY in 1796 (this date coincides with the date of the sale of property in Lunenburg VA), completed his education at W & M College in his native state and then related his career accomplishments.

There may have been another son, William Taylor Barry, who married the Sarah Gee, daughter of James and Sarah (Williams) Gee. A record of any offspring has not been found; however, in the land records in 1772, (p. 294) and 1773, (p. 317), a William Taylor Barry was listed grouped with Andrew Barry, suggesting they were father and son. (All land records were found in Bell, Sunlight.)

There also may have been other sons/cousins: Armstead and Joseph (married an Agnes Wilson). They were involved in sales of property in the same general area along the Meherrin River in Lunenburg Co and also served as witnesses for each other. At some future date additional documents may be uncovered to untangle this family.

This chapter so far has addressed the paternal side of the Everard Wilson[5] Gee family. On the maternal side, it must be remembered that Everard's wife, Rebecca Crymes was also a Gee, daughter to Thomas Gee and granddaughter of Henry Gee, brother to Charles (PF) Gee.

Henry[3] Gee

Henry[3] Gee, our third generation ancestor on the maternal side of the family tree, was born c1733 in Sussex Co., VA, son of Charles[2] and Bridget (Nevill) Gee, and was listed fourth in his father's will. His son, Thomas, was father of Rebecca Crymes Gee, thus constituting our direct line to Henry. Henry married twice according to TGF, first c.1754, Elizabeth Darden, and second before 1768, Elizabeth Greene (daughter of John Greene per LC WB 2/339). This Elizabeth Greene would have been the sister of Jane Greene who married Benjamin[3] Gee, Henry[3] Gee's brother.

Henry was deeded a 266 acre portion of land from his father's 800 acre patent in 1759 (LC DB 5/524, dated Oct 10, 1759). He increased his holdings in the following years. In 1764, he was listed with 500 acres and was tithed for 1000 acres in 1782 (Bell, Sunlight, p. 242).

It seems that he was involved in the work of Cumberland Parish from the time he moved into Lunenburg. The County and the parish were establishing themselves at the same time. It is evident, likewise, that his participation in the parish was in tandem with that of his brothers. In 1760 (CP p. 506), it was reported that Nevil and Henry were not in attendance to report on their assignment as land processioners. In 1767 (CP p. 402), he was appointed with his brother, Nevil, to "procession all the land between Crockett Creek and Bears Elimint up to the great road and all the land between that and the Meherrin". It was recorded that they reported on all land in their precinct except their own (CP p. 520). In 1776, he was again ordered with Matthew Mills to carry out this task. It was likewise stated that he was in attendance when the lines for his land were established (CP p. 544). On some pages we find all of the brothers mentioned--James, William, Charles, Jesse, Benjamin, Nevil and Henry. In reviewing the reports, it is interesting to compare the names of other persons serving in the church. These are the same names that appear in legal documents and deeds, thus further confirming family kinship when facts are not explicit.

When the colonies undertook the fight for independence, Henry enlisted as a private in the 14th Virginia Regiment, Continental Line. Also, in the Virginia Public Service Claims, he was listed as furnishing beef weighing 375 pounds and 50 pounds of pork. The certificates for these were dated July 12, 1781 and November 21, 1781 (LC Public Service Claims, VA Archives, p. 1 & 10).

Henry wrote a will in 1810 that was probated in 1815 (LC WB 7/157) and listed his survivors. This was the source used in TGF to detail the family. However, after publication, Fletcher found a document to further account for some of the early children and he added an errata. Although we are still left with some unanswered questions as this volume goes to press, the foregoing describes the family as it now appears after weaving together the information in the will of Henry Gee and the Chancery litigation necessary to settle his son, Joshua's estate in 1816 (LC OB 22/254) found in TGF's errata.

There is still a perplexing puzzle for someone else to solve: The above-mentioned Joshua Gee married Dec 25, 1800, Patsy Crymes (WB 5/67). He died without a will. Drury Gee (most likely his brother) appointed as administrator for this estate inventoried (LC WB 6/166, dated 1806) and partially sold it. Some items were distributed to Martha Gee. Was this his wife? (Patsy can be a nickname for Martha) Then, some ten years later in 1816 in the Chancery order (which needs to be studied in its original form because the errata is incomplete), Joshua Gee's estate was finally settled. In it, Joshua Hardy, guardian for his two infant sons, William H. Hardy and Elijah D. Hardy, is the defendant and receives half of the estate. Joshua Gee's siblings are the complainants and receive the other half divided ten ways. One other piece in the puzzle is a marriage record of Joshua Hardy and Elizabeth Gee on Oct 26, 1808 (LC WB 7/9). How these persons all tie together and why these two children received half of the estate is an enigma.

The four children of Henry[3] Gee and his first wife, Elizabeth Darden were:

George[4] Gee (b. c1755) married Susan Waller before 1788. She may have been the daughter of James Waller (LC WB 3/326). George was listed with Henry Gee in 1775 and 1776 in the land records and alone in 1783. According to the Chancery litigation he had issue: (7 children)

Elizabeth[5] Gee, who married Vincent Inge.
James[5] Gee
John[5] Gee
Polly[5] Gee
Henry[5] Gee
Benjamin[5] Gee
Nancy[5] Gee

Charles[4] Gee (b. c 1760, d. bef. 1795) married Sep 15, 1789, Elizabeth "Lizzie" Skinner with Samuel Skinner (LC MR p. 11) as security. They had at least two children during their short marriage. Several documents must be read to come to this conclusion. Charles was not mentioned in his father's will since he was deceased; however his daughter, Betsy Jennings Moore, was listed. The relationship noted in the will was that of a granddaughter. Speculation as to which of Henry's sons was actually her father, is resolved in the chancery suit. On further searching we learn why Charles' son was not mentioned in his grandfather's will for there was a record (LC DB 17/160, recorded Dec 10, 1795) wherein Henry Gee conveys to James Gee Jr., son of Charles Gee, decd. 'for love, good will and affection which I have and do bear toward my grandson', 205 acres of land on the north side of the north prong of Stony Creek bounded by Ragsdale, said creek and Henry Gee. At this point James was only 2 years old. In correspondence with Mrs. Newton S. Berry of Athens, GA who researched and shared information she had gathered including information from other descendants, she confirmed these facts along with additional facts verifying that Elizabeth Skinner (this was the person who was paired incorrectly with Charles "Powerface" Gee by Miss Maude Gee and repeated in TGF) was indeed the wife of this Charles Gee. Issue: (2 children)

Elizabeth "Betsy" Jennings[5] Gee (b. c1791 in Lunenburg Co., d. Aug 28, 1869 in Taliaferro Co., GA), married Feb 3, 1810 by Thomas Adams, Elisha Moore (LC WB 7/39), (b. Apr 7, 1786, d. May 20, 1858 per Family Bible). Issue: (12 children). Refer to TGF, p. 67-68 as no additional information has been uncovered.

James Edward[5] Gee (b. c1793), married Rebecca (maybe Vaughan). It has been hard to follow his path. Descendants report that he went to Amelia Co. where he was found in the 1850 census. He may have also lived in Dinwiddie Co. where his family was born. The sons all went to Taliaferro Co., GA about 1846 where their Moore kinsmen had preceded them. Refer to TGF, p. 68-70 for details. To this can only be added that the son, William Jordon[6] Gee, had a daughter, Mary C.[7] Gee who had a son, Newton S. Berry, whose wife was researching the genealogy of that family and shared some of the information previously mentioned. Also, William Jordon Gee had a son, Charles William[7] Gee who had a descendant, Mrs. T. W. Rogers, of Athens, GA. She also researched this family, collaborated somewhat with W. J. Fletcher and may have provided to him the information in TGF.

Henry[4] Gee, Jr. (b. c1760), married Martha Waller. They had ten children listed in TGF, p. 71. The son, George Washington[5] Gee was further traced in OFS, p. 214. His grandson, George Henry[7] Gee, and Daisy Vaughan had four children, Mildred, John, Nathan and Minnie. Minnie married Apr 19, 1951, George Thomas Saunders (9-591.4), a great grandson of Dr. Edward Crymes Gee.

Issue of Henry[3] Gee and his second wife, Elizabeth Green. (8 children)

Nathan[4] Gee, see TGF, p. 71-72.

Benjamin[4] Gee, see TGF, p. 72. The daughter Jane S.[5] Gee, incorrectly listed as Elizabeth S. Gee, and her husband, Jesse

C. Clarke, had among other children Cap. George Benjamin Clarke who married Dorinda Harris, daughter of William Harris and Martha Crenshaw of Lunenburg Co. They had a son, George Benjamin Clarke who married Katherine (Kate) Hamilton Finks of Madison Co., VA. Their daughter, Gladys Finks Clarke, married Samuel Edward Gee (8-5D2), author of The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee...

Thomas[4] Gee (b. c1780 since he was listed in 1850 census as age 70 (LC Census #493)) married Dec 26, 1806, Mourning Crymes (b. c1789). They are listed in 1850 census and were probably also listed earlier in 1810 at #331 with 2 male children under 10 and 7 slaves. Issue: (4 children)

Joshua[5] Gee who was listed as brother to Rebecca in the diary of Everard Wilson Gee. He died in 1829.

Thomas Nevil[5] Gee who was possibly one of the 2 male children under 10 in 1810 census.

Rebecca Crymes[5] Gee (b. Mar 23, 1811, d. Nov 3, 1843, buried in small family graveyard on their farm near St. John's Church) married Mar 27, 1828, Everard Wilson Gee (5.0). Follow their family beginning in Chapter 6.

Nathan[5] Gee (b. 1812) married Elizabeth McCraw (b. 1816) and had issue: (5 children) (listed in 1850 census).

Joshua N.[6] Gee (b. 1840) married Margaret A. Clark, and had son J. N.[7] Gee, an attorney in Richmond, VA, who married Lula Anderson.

V: Charles[4] (Powderface) Gee

In discussing Charles[4], the appendage (PF), abbreviation for "powderface", will be used to distinguish him from the numerous other Charles Gee's in the family. The tradition related by Miss Maud was that an explosion of gunpowder wounded Charles4 (PF) during the Revolutionary War that resulted in a lifelong black scar on all or part of his face. The "(PF)" was even used in legal records to clearly designate the correct Charles[4]. That his father was James was conclusively established in the preceding chapter. He first appeared in the Lunenburg land records in 1775 under his father's name and with his brothers, David[4] and James, Jr.[4] Calculating his date of birth based on this entry when he was probably 16 years of age (the customary age for including offspring in the tithing records), we can determine that he was born c. 1760. This is further confirmed by the 1810 census that listed him as over 45 years old and the 1830 census that noted his age at between 60 and 70 years. On Mar 12, 1787, he married Sally Wilson, with Jesse Gee (most likely his brother) as his surety (LC MR p. 9).

It is unclear where he and Sally lived. In 1778, when he was approximately 18 years old, his father, "for the natural love and affection which he hath and do bear to his son", conveyed to him 144 acres of land on Bear's Element Creek in Lunenburg Co. bounded by Mason. No other adjoining landowners were named. The witnesses to this transaction were Benjamin Tomlinson, Harris Tomlinson, and William Turbyfill. Seven years later and two years before his marriage, Charles[4] transferred this property to Nathaniel Booth, Jr., also of Lunenburg Co., in consideration for 200 pounds current money. The document was witnessed by Anderson Bagley, Joel Booth and Edward Brodnax. Evidently between 1785 and 1794, Charles owned no real estate in Lunenburg Co., nor have deeds been discovered elsewhere. One can speculate that after the war his wounds may have prevented him from farming, he could have been farming with someone else or he could have served as an overseer.

Nonetheless, by deed dated June 13, 1794 and recorded December 11, 1794 (LC DB 16/506), Robert Wilson, Sr. of Lunenburg Co., conveyed to Charles Gee, Sr. of the same county 150 acres of land in the county, bounded by Ingram's Bridge on Middle Meherrin River, the mill and mill seat, Brown's Creek, Coxes Road and the said Middle Meherrin River for a consideration of 23,008 pounds of tobacco. The witnesses for this were James Williams, Mary Wilson, Hanah Willson. On February 3, 1796, this land acquired from his father-in-law was conveyed to Thomas Rudd also of Lunenburg Co. for the consideration of 180 pounds. The witnesses were William Rudd, Polly Ingram and Mary Avritt. His wife, Sally, appeared in court to relinquish her dower interests in the 150 acres. Charles (designated "Senior") acquired 504 acres of land from William Taylor Barry by deed dated December 27, 1796, and recorded February 9, 1797 in Deed Book 17, page 398 for the consideration of 100 pounds. The property was described as bounded by Bears Element Creek, Cox, Dixon, Gee, Bagley, and Rudd and the witnesses were James Gee, Jr., James Street Gee and Sally Gee.

Charles was empowered by his father to act as his attorney for the purpose of settling the estate of his brother, John (Charles' uncle) who had died in South Carolina, leaving neither heirs at law or a will. The power of attorney was dated March 10, 1799, and recorded March 16, 1799 (LC DB 18/102). By another power of attorney dated and recorded March 10, 1803, (DB19/152A), Charles was appointed by his brother, James, the executor of their father's estate, to collect anything due his father's estate from his Uncle John's estate.

There are records of two other real estate transactions that can also be used to provide clues about the date of Charles' death. On March 21, 1837, Charles, Sr. conveyed to Edward W. Gee (this was most likely Everard) by deed later recorded April 14 of the same year 100 acres of property bounded by Saffold's Road and property of Charles Gee, Jr. with witnesses: James H. Gee, R? M. Gee and Wilson P. Gee. The first two witnesses were probably siblings of Edward/Everard, and Wilson P. was his nephew, the son of brother Wilson, On February 1, 1842, James H. Gee, as legatee of Charles, Senior, conveyed to Francis Raney 146 acres of land bounded by Tomlinson, Estate of Charles Gee, Jeremiah Gee and Saffold Road. Excepted from this conveyance was a one-acre plot containing a graveyard. This deed was recorded at DB 32, page 372. Thus, it can be determined that Charles, Senior, also known as Charles Powderface died sometime between 1837 and 1842.

Charles was enumerated in the 1782/87 census as the owner of one slave; in the 1800 census, with 3 horses and 3 slaves; in the 1810 census, with 9 children and 9 slaves; and finally in the 1830 census with the designation PF. His age at that time was described as between 60 and 70 years. His wife was listed in only one census (1810) and her age was between 26 and 45 years.

Discovering the names of the children has not been altogether successful. Everard Wilson says in his diary, "My parents had eleven children, 7 sons and 4 daughters and raised ten to maturity. They had the misfortune to loose (sic) a little daughter about two years old." (p. 6) He reports that he is the 6th child.

Issue: (11 children)

James H., Wilson, Charles, Judith, ?, Everard Wilson, Edward Bonner, Cissly Minerva, ?, ?, ?.

Speculation: It seems that there would have been a girl named Sarah (for mother, Sarah "Sally" Wilson), a son named Robert after her father, Robert Wilson (this may be R. M. Gee who is witness with James H. and Wilson P. Gee when Everard is deeded land from his father). Another possibility is Hartwell Gee who married Hannah P. Gee, with Edward B. Gee as the surety. There are quite a few Gee marriages in the proper time frame that might qualify, but so far nothing has been found to complete this family register.

JAMES H. GEE

James H[5]. Gee's life story has been difficult to determine with hard data. He is referred to by others, or, witnessed legal documents for family members or friends but no documents have been found to speak to his specific profile except a bond approved for him to be made a Constable. He remains a silhouette.

He was probably the first or second child of Charles[4] and Sarah (Wilson) Gee and therefore born by 1792. No doubt he would have been named for his paternal grandfather. That he was included in the census list for his parents in 1810 is fairly definite. He would have been one of the two male children between 16 and 25. He was not listed as a separate household in the 1820 or 1830 census, however there was a male between 20 and 30 listed with Charles (PF) in 1830. Then in 1840 he was listed as head of household but not in the 1850 census. By 1840, his father had probably died and he remained in the home until a final estate settlement was made.

Miss Maude Gee, in later years described him as: "Greatly beloved and respected teacher of Lunenburg Co.." Everard Wilson Gee reported in his diary that he went to school to brother, James H. Gee. With these two references it seems fair to assume that he made a career as a teacher and lived on with his parents throughout their life. We do have a record that he was bonded to be a Constable in Lunenburg County beginning in 1823 (LC CB 26/22) and continued to hold that post for many years.

James H. Gee, R.M. Gee, Wilson P. Gee were witnesses to a deed wherein their father conveyed land to brother, Everard W. Gee, in 1837 (LC DB 30/565). On Feb 1, 1842, an instrument was recorded (LC DB 32/372) deeding 146 acres of land to Francis Raney for the sum of $510.12½, reserving an acre at the graveyard. Francis Raney would have been his brother-in-law having married sister, Cissly Minerva Gee (Matheny. p.99). This acreage was described as part of the estate of Charles Gee, Senr. deceased and James H. Gee received the sale monies.

Robert P. Gee told the author of Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia, ©1883; that his father, Everard W. Gee, and two brothers (of his father) were in the War of 1812. A James H. Gee from Lunenburg Co., VA is listed there.

Finally, in a letter written by Robert P. Gee to his brother, Edward Crymes Gee, on May 14, 1860, he stated that he had heard from Uncle James Gee. (A decoded copy is in Robert P. Gee Scrapbook presently in the possession of the authors).

Although, he remains illusive, the foregoing facts can be used to speculate about his life.

WILSON[5] GEE

Wilson[5] Gee was one of the oldest, if not the oldest child of Charles[4] and Sarah Wilson Gee. There seems to have been a tradition that the first son was named for the maternal grandfather. (It should be recalled that the father and grandfather of Charles[4] Gee had followed this pattern). In this case the parents used the surname as a given name. Regarding the date of his birth, his parents were married March 12, 1787, so he could have been born as early as 1787. This is speculation but he certainly had been born by 1790 at the latest.

John Turbyfill's will which is recorded Dec 10, 1807, having been made Feb 24,1807, (LC WB 6/203) told something of Wilson's life. John probably died in May of that year. His wife, Rebecca, was mentioned and his father was appointed administrator along with Charles Gee. Wilson Gee was one of the witnesses together with James Brown and Francis Smith. Shortly thereafter (LC WB 6/210, dated Feb 11, 1808), an inventory was recorded and the whole estate was valued at 320 £ 2 shillings 6 pence as appraised by William Wood, Edward King, and John Inge This document noted that William Turbyfill was executor. Looking back a few years, it can be found that William Turbyfill was a witness to the deed (LC DB 13/138) by which James[3] Gee conveyed 144 acres of land to his son, Charles[4] Gee. It can be speculated that Charles and Sally Gee were neighbors to the Turbyfill family as well as respected friends since Charles Gee was chosen to help administer the will of John Tubyfill.

A year and a half later, Dec 22, 1808, Wilson Gee and Rebecca P. Turbyfill were married (BC MR 1/74). The P. middle initial stood for Parham, her maiden surname (See William[3] Gee in Chapter 3 for Rebecca's background). It appears that she resided with her family in Brunswick Co. since their marriage was registered there.

Wilson was listed in the 1810 census showing one male between 16 and 26 years old (that being Wilson), one female between 26 and 45 (that being Rebecca), one female under 10 and 5 slaves. Perhaps they had one child who did not survive childhood.

Settling the estate of John Turbyfill required several years. An accounting was listed for the period of May 1807 to Dec 25, 1810 reflecting total debts against the estate of 135 £ 4 shillings. Charles Gee received 7 £ 10 shillings and Wilson Gee receiving 2 £ 9 shillings 8 pence for their service and the document was proved by Lucas Gee and William Taylor. Then, Wilson Gee requested a final settlement amounting to "one hundred thirty five pounds, 4 shillings being the balance that appears to be due my wife as legatee as aforesaid, and I do hereby release him (William Turbyfill) and ? as executors and administrators forever...The requests for releases were made by William Turbyfill to Lucas Gee, Wilson Gee, and R. Vaughan, Jr. and recorded Feb 11, 1813.

At the same time a deed was recorded (LC DB 23/40) by which William Turbyfill, father of her late husband, gave to Rebecca and Wilson Gee, a gift of a Negro, Peter, who had been in the keeping of Rebecca since her first husband's death (LC DB 23/40).

Wilson and Rebecca were given 100 acres by Charles Gee in 1816 "for the love and affection he bears to the sd. Willson Gee, his son," the land having been divided from the Charles Gee tract (LC DB 24/38). Also, in the land records of 1817, Wilson Gee is found just below his father with 100 acres and a note stating that this land was transferred from Charles Gee, Senr. At the same time Charles Gee's land holdings were decreased by 100 acres from the previous year.

Little else is known about Wilson. Robert Pleasant Gee stated that his grandfather and uncles were in the War of 1812. This would probably have been Wilson, as a Wilson Gee is listed in the war records as well as a Charles Gee and a James H. Gee.

There is a record in Brunswick Co. that Wilson and Rebecca were paid $60 as her part in the settlement of her Uncle John's estate who was likewise a son of William[3] Gee (BC DB 25/54), brother to James[3]. On examination of the 1820 census no Wilson Gee was listed as head of household nor was there a Rebecca Gee. This would have been about the time of his death for an inventory of the Wilson Gee estate was recorded Feb 22, 1821 (LC WB 8/222) with a value of $1867, including 4 slaves: Peter ($500); Silvey, a woman, ($300); Aneed, a girl, ($400); and Ralph, a boy, ($180). The estate was viewed and appraised by Washington Maddux, Peter Ragsdale and Jesse Gee with Rebecca P. Gee and recorded Apr 8, 1822, by William Taylor, clerk of court.

By the census of 1830, Rebecca P. Gee was listed as the head of a household with two young males. We know that her husband left two sons, Peterson P. Gee and Wilson Parham Gee. Peterson was no doubt named after Rebecca's brother, Peterson G. Parham, and Wilson after his father. Since Rebecca was listed just two entries above Charles Gee, it can be assumed that the extended family continued to be close knit.

By deed dated March 21, 1837, recorded April 14, 1837 (LC DB 30/565), Edward W. Gee (no doubt this was Everard W. Gee) bought 100 acres of land from his father. A Wilson P. Gee was listed as one of the witnesses along with James H. Gee and R. M. Gee. This would have been the son of Wilson Gee and Rebecca.

From this point forward all information about this family can be found in The Gee Family of Union County, South Carolina by Wilson Gee, © 1935 and The Gist Family of South Carolina and Its Maryland Antecedents by Wilson Gee, © 1934.

From these sources it can be determined that Wilson and Rebecca Parham (Turbyfill) Gee's descendants were: (2 children)

Peterson P.[6] Gee (b. c1812) married in Virginia (name unknown) and had two daughters. His wife died and he then married a widow, Mrs. Murrell, who had two children. No further record has been found of this family. Issue: (4 children)

Tradition holds that she was a Williams so this entry indicates that she may have been a widow. They had a son, Peterson Williams[7] Gee. (It would be interesting to know why the name Peterson was such a favorite in this family.) After her death, her husband and son moved to Union Co., SC. Peterson was listed in the 1850 census as 8 years old. Oral history says that he died at about 16 years old. Wilson P. Gee married the second time (c1842/3) to Drucilla Elizabeth Gilliam (b. He was also a genealogist and published The Gist Family of South Carolina and Its Maryland Antecedents in 1934 and The Gee Family of Union County South Carolina in 1935. These two books are the source for the information on this family after its migration to Union Co., SC. His supplemental application to join The Virginia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, Nat. # 57022, State # 1046 is on record with that organization and establishes his membership through William Gee who was born in

Sussex Co and died in Brunswick Co. (See William[3] Gee, son of Charles[2] Gee and Bridget Nevill in Chapter 3) Issue: (2 children)

Mary Wilson[9] Gee (b. Apr 30, 1922).

Williford Gaston[9] Gee (b. Oct 12, 1923).

(In 1976 Virginia Gee Tuthill Allen (b. Jan 6, 1947) ordered a copy of The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee. Her husband was Allan T. Williams, County Administrator of Buckingham Co., VA. They visited with Richard and Louise Thomas in Lunenburg and showed much interest in the family history. Subsequently they divorced and moved elsewhere. Efforts to locate her have been unsuccessful.)

Drucilla Elizabeth[8] Gee (b. Oct 17, 1890) married Aug 15, 1917, Bert Cecil Chandler, son of William Shaw Chandler and Mattie Sommers. She was a schoolteacher and Bert was a farmer. Issue: (1 child, adopted)

Elizabeth Jeter[9] Chandler (b. Jan 5, 1922).

James Munroe[7] Gee (b. Mar 22, 1852; d. Dec 19, 1928).

CHARLES[5] GEE

Charles[5] Gee (b. c1793) can be placed as a child of Charles[4] and Sally (Wilson) Gee only because Everard Wilson Gee mentioned him once in his diary. Everard wrote: "The idea struck me of travelling to get rid of my disappointments, and should have gone to Mississippi, if my brother Charles had waited one week for me to get ready, it was impossible for him to wait, --- so I relinquished the idea, and returned to my occupation as constable." (p. 12) Based on the surrounding events it would appear that he left for Mississippi in 1824 or 1825.

As noted previously, Robert P. Gee reported to the author of Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia, ©1883; that his father, Everard W. Gee, and two brothers (of his father) were in the War of 1812. A Charles Gee from Lunenburg Co., VA is listed there.

Nothing further has been found regarding him.

EVERARD WILSON[5] GEE

Everard Wilson[5] Gee is our direct line ancestor and his story including his own diary will be related in Chapter 6, but it is closely tied to his brother, whose story follows.

EDWARD BONNER GEE

Edward Bonner[5] Gee (b. 1801, d. c1873) married Rebekah Maddux (b. Nov 15, 1795, d. Jan 15, 1862).

A bond was first granted to him to serve as Constable on Mar 10, 1823 (LC DB 26/22) by the then Governor of Virginia, James Pleasants, Jr. This was renewed again July 12, 1824 (LC DB 26/295A). No further record has been found that he continued this position after completing the term granted in 1824, yet it is very possible that he did.

In 1829 per LC DB 28/443, he and Rebekah were conveyed land by her father, Samuel Maddux. Probably they had married shortly before this time. It seems that they had no children through the years and this land, a gift from Rebecca's father, would revert to his estate at Rebecca and Edward B. Gee's death. Edward B. also received land from his father in 1837 (LC DB 30/565). Additional land was added to their holdings through the years. This was perhaps the beginning of the Gee holdings on Cedar Creek, land that figured prominently in the future of the Edward Crymes Gee family.

It is interesting to pick up the story at this point as it is written in The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee... by Samuel Edward (Ned) Gee.

"Brother Edward is variously listed as Edward Bonner, Edward B., E. B., and Ned (see Fiduciary Book 5, Lunenburg Co., among other places). All my life he was referred to as Uncle Ned. I will so continue. Uncle Ned married Rebecca C. Maddux, b. Nov. 15, 1795. She was listed as age 52 and Uncle Ned as age 49 at item #418, 1850 Lunenburg Co., VA Census sheet dated 24th day of October 1850. The Maddux farm joined that of Uncle Ned. Eventually the land was purchased by Edward Crymes Gee, and given to his son, Thomas Garner Gee. Today it is owned by Daisy Gee, wife of John S. Gee, 8-5D5, deceased, as part of the Dr. E. C. Gee, 6-5, home place. A cemetery is located about 150 yards north of the old house, now burned. Tombstones in the cemetery bear inscriptions as follows:

In memory of Rebecca Gee formerly Maddux, b. Nov 15, 1795, d. Jan 15, 1862, aged 62 years and 2 months.

In memory of Samuel Maddux, b. Nov 10, 1800, departed this life Jan 11, 1858, aged 57 years, 2 months, and 1 day.

Martha F. Maddux, b. Nov 4, 1810, d. Feb 20, 1882, a devoted wife, a trite (sic) mother, a cherished sister, a much loved friend, a faithful Christian, a priceless treasure of the children's hearts lies buried here.

Captain John W. Maddux, Confederate States Army, b. Feb 17, 1839, wounded at Battle of Stoney Creek, May 10, 1864, departed this life Jun 10, 1864.

George Edward, son of Robert B. & L. F. Brydie, b. Dec 19, 1859, d. Aug 21, 1867.

There are several graves marked with only fieldstones. One such adult grave is beside that of Rebecca Gee. It was always pointed out to me as the grave of Uncle Ned. I think it is. He died in 1873, most probably. The first entry in the Lunenburg Co. Fiduciary Book for 1874 concerns the settlement of his estate. I recall my Grandmother on many occasions talking about Uncle Ned living with them after his wife's death. Times were mighty hard for our relatives in Lunenburg following the Civil War. It is doubtful that a tombstone for Uncle Ned would have had priority over necessities for living at that time." (The Kin...p. 20-21)

Edward (Ned) Crymes Gee was the second oldest surviving child of Everard after the death of Thomas and James. Ned was named for Uncle Ned, brother of Everard...

The following is Lunenburg tradition. When Everard decided to move west, Uncle Ned begged his brother to leave young Ned with him. He promised to educate and leave his property to his namesake if he would stay. Nevertheless, Everard took his son, Ned, along with the rest of the family. Uncle Ned stated that the offer still stood if young Ned should return. I was always told that young Ned said he led a mule to West Virginia and walked home alone. The 1850 census was taken in Greenbrier Co. in September 1850. It lists all members of the family except Edward C. Gee. The 1850 Lunenburg Co. census, item #418, dated 24th day of October 1850, lists the following in the same household:

Gee, Edward B.	Age 49	Male	Farmer	Born VA
Gee, Rebekah	Age 52	Female		Born VA
Gee, Edward C.	Age 12	Male		Born VA
Skinner, John	Age 25	Male	Laborer	Born VA

The above, plus verified evidence that young Ned went to elementary school near Uncle Ned's, attended William and Mary and Jefferson Medical College with Uncle Ned's as his home address, and did inherit Uncle Ned's farm, appears to confirm the tradition as fact." (p. 22 & 23)

By the time Edward Crymes Gee had completed his education and returned to Lunenburg to set up his practice and then gets married, the Civil War intervened. When this was over, Rebekah, his aunt, had died and Uncle Ned was an old man in failing health. With his death, his estate was in the red.

JUDITH[5] GEE

Judith[5] Gee is known only because Miss Maude Gee included her on her chart as a child of Charles and Sally Gee. Sally had a sister, Judith Wilson, so she may have named her daughter after her sister.

MINERVA[5] GEE

Cissly Minerva[5] Gee (b. bef. 1810) married in the 1840's, Francis Rainey with Daniel Petty officiating. The return of the license was dated 8 February 1847, but the date of marriage was not shown. (LC WB 13/14). (Matheny..p. 99) Since Francis Rainey received land from the Charles Gee estate in 1842 (LC DB 32/372), they probably were married by this time. An acre of this land was reserved for a graveyard, so this may have been where Charles[4] (PF) Gee and Sarah "Sally" Wilson Gee were buried.

Everard reported in his diary that Francis Rainey and wife lived with him and helped to care for his young family for a time after Rebecca Crymes died. Further, Robert P. Gee, in a May 16, 1960 letter to his brother, Edward Crymes Gee reported that he had heard from Aunt Minerva. Apparently he and his new wife, Fannie, had visited in Lunenburg Co. shortly after they had been married (on Mar 6 of that year) and had visited with her while there.

Portrait of Everard Wilson[5] Gee?
This picture was supplied by a descendant of the Rainey family with the comment that "he looks like a Gee." It would be wonderful to definitively identify the portrait

VI: Everard Wilson Gee

Everard Wilson[5] Gee (b. Jun 12, 1798, d. Jan 31, 1859, bur. Brushy Ridge Family Cemetery, Greenbrier Co., VA (now, WV) is the ancestor to all those who are listed in the next four chapters. He married three times; first to Rebecca Crymes[5] Gee (b. Mar 23, 1811, d. Nov 5, 1843). She was buried Nov 7, 1843 in a cemetery on their Lunenburg farm in a small plot that has only two graves and adjacent to the grave of William Taylor, a Revolutionary Patriot of Lunenburg County and marked by the DAR. Everard had begun courting her at age 13. They were cousins. (See Henry[3], Thomas[4], Rebecca[5]) They were married Mar 27, 1828. After Rebecca's death, Everard married Martha B. Marable (b. Apr 9, 1824, d. Oct 7, 1852, bur. Brushy Ridge Gee Cemetery), daughter of John F. Marable. They were married in Lunenburg Co. by John C. Blackwell on Dec 20, 1844 (OFS, p. 423). Everard's third wife was Hannah Piercy (b. Nov 23, 1804, d. Mar 30, 1858, bur. Brushy Ridge Gee Cemetery), daughter of Christian Piercy of Greenbrier Co. They were married Mar 28, 1855 (GC MR p. 3). Everard relates in his diary that he and Rebecca lived in Lunenburg Co. This diary was discovered by Samuel Edward (Ned) Gee, the author of The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee..., , as he was gathering material for his book. At this point Everard's account will be inserted, adding new findings and paraphrasing where appropriate to update and moving information to other chapters where the information seems more applicable.

"Dear Children. I have always had an inclination and felt that it was my duty to leave some written memorandum of my transactions and tryals in this world of troubles and my advice as a parent and well wishes to his children. Yet I feel my inability in part to perform the task in the way I wish to do it. Though when you consider my limited education, you will then allow for it. While the rich and the great were of their abundance putting in the treasury, the poor widow cast in two mites being her all. Examine and see what our Savior said in reply to it. I was born in the country of Lunenburg on Bear's Element Creek, the 12th day of June 1798, being the sixth child of Charles Gee and Sarah his wife. My mother was a daughter of Robert Wilson, his wife a Stone. My father was a son of James Gee, and his wife a Williams. My parents had eleven children, 7 sons and 4 daughters; and raised ten to maturity. They had the misfortune to loose a little daughter about two years old. My parents were respectable people; and uncommonly industrious, which they maintained to the day of death. My father was a man of quick temper and at all times spoke his sentiments freely. My mother had plenty, but was more reserved in it, and by that means I think she had more friends. They had the misfortune to have nearly all of their Negroes poisoned. The Doctors bills to try to cure them were very hard on them, and at the time we ought to have been going to school, which cropped our education very short. I thank them cheerfully for what I got. I do believe they done all they could and must acknowledge in this place that I did not apply myself in the way that I ought to have done. I feel the want of it now when it too late. I think they sent me first and last about six years, sufficient to have learnt more than I did. I was from my earliest recollection industrious. I had rather work than go to school. I was aiming for a patch of my own. I delighted in raising hogs, and having something I could call my own. They sent me to school to James Sanford in the year 1807. The distance was rather upwards of 3 miles. I was small and learnt but little, but out of that little I found there something I liked better than my patch and hogs, a little cousin by the name of Nancy Gee. I really thought I loved her first rate. I went part of the next year to the same teacher. The year 1811 I think we went to Edward Simmons, distance about 4 miles, the most of our time spent in mustering, and fixing for exhibitions. We had two public exhibitions, and every Friday evening we had to speak, company or not. In the year 1813 seven of us went to school to William Binford. He was an excellent teacher. Here I began to learn very fast; a task to get every night. He was very bright and attentive to his school. I learnt more in two months than I had learnt in all before, but must say I learnt a little more of that of that little I learnt the first year I went. There was a girl from Brunswick by the name of Tobitha Powel, which I knew I did love. She was pretty, and I had every reason to believe she loved me. We were writing on the same bench side by side. She wrote on a small slip of paper and handed me, "The rose is red. The stem is green. The days have passed we have seen. But I hope there is a day to come when you and I may be as one." This I tell you with what I had before kindled it to a flame. I loved her with all my mind. I never saw her after she quit school. She sent for me several times, once by my brother. He asked if he would not suit as well. She told him, no. One of her cousins courted her and because she would not have him, he started some scandalous tales on her, which was the cause of my not going. The next teacher I went to was Sack P. Gee, part of two years to brother James H. Gee and then to Anderson Bagley. I had the good luck to escape the lashings in all cases and not even an angry word. I even felt willing to submit to my rulers and by that means obtained the friendships and avoided their frowns. I had now finished my education and I began seriously to consider what I must attend to get a living. The girls occupied a large portion of my thoughts. I loved them because they were pretty. I loved them because it was my duty. I loved them because I could not help it. God decreed in his word that man should not live alone, and made him a helpmate, and commanded them to marry and replenish the earth. My early impressions were to serve God, believing it to be my duty and right that I should be dammed if I did not. My first impressions of love from absence had nearly subsided, and a new one out of an old case about to burst forth. A girl that frequently attended our Friday evening's exhibitions when going to school seems to be fixing one of Cupid's darts. The thing was procrastinated and rather wore off. I became acquainted with her sister, often in company, and at last Cupid bolted me with a double charge. I had every reason I could get her. I was poor, her father was dead. She had received her portion in part and had the misfortune to loose it. The other was very well off. I loved the one that had none the best. I finally concluded that it was easier to work for love than money. I went to see her with the property. She was living with her Grandmother, and she was blind, a fine time to court and not be seen. I went one Saturday evening with a feint heart as it was my first attempt to express my sentiments on love matters. I lay all night and sweated as it was in August and in a close room, and did not sleep one minute. The next morning, I arose very much weakened from my sweat and hard study the night previous. The next morning after breakfast we were seated in a large cool piazza perfectly alone. I could talk about anything but my business and as soon as that entered my mind, I was taken with the dry swallows. I stood thinking and wishing until 10 or 11 o'clock and could do nothing. I then called for my horse and while catching, I finally concluded that if I could not tell my business under existing circumstances that I could not at anytime, so I summoned resolution and told my business, after the first word or two in fine style. I felt much gratified in my trip and thought my chance very good. The time was set for a final decision of the matter was something less than a week. I went promptly to the time and soon received my walking papers. She told me I was too late and asked why I had not framed it sooner. She told me to go and see her sister. She was married to a man in two weeks that had courted her seven years. I was then out. I wanted to travel to drown my disappointment. I often thought of what she said "Go see my sister." I loved her it is true, but could I suppose she would marry me now after being turned off by her sister. I waited two years and then addressed her. The first pop she discarded me. I tried several times in the course of three years. She always discarded me though in the mildest terms. On my way home the last visit I paid her, I composed a verse I thought suited her to a fraction. I had never seen the verse at that time, though I have seen it since in small print, "Favors to none, but smiles to all. Oft she rejects, but never once offends." She was married shortly after to a man evidently her inferior and lived a very few years. In the year 1825, I took the office of Constable, which I kept until 1841 or 1842. The first five or six years, I got as much as I could do. I was prompt and attentive to my business, which enabled me to get the largest share of business. I showed a man acting underhandedly, I then screwed him to the full extent. In the commencement I took great pains to make all executions that were returned no effect and in sundry instances succeeded. I had one against Daniel H. Jones. On application he informed me to make, and be dammed if I could, which in a very short time I completed, and could not rest satisfied until I gave him a genteel flogging, which was the only fight I had while acting as constable. I will mention one case more which occurred between me and a preacher by the name of Robt. Peoples. He had the misfortune to loose his wife. Samuel Ragsdale made his wife's coffin. Upon the resignation of E. B. Gee constable, the account fell in my hand. The first time I saw S. Ragsdale he ordered me to make it if I should meet with an opportunity. He had then gone to North Carolina. I had at that time made but little examination of the papers received of my brother E. B. Gee. He handed me an account favor of said Peoples' against Daniel Taylor for $25 with instructions to pay sundry other debts against R. Peoples' and when collected I immediately done. This of Ragsdale's not being mentioned in the catalogue. Shortly after this I heard that he had an appointment at the Fork meetinghouse to preach on Sunday. I went up to find how I could serve the warrant on him. I found that he intended to return to N. C. on Monday. Other pressing business in hand, I was compelled to hand it to John A. Smith Const. To execute before he left. In a few days I received a note from him, which reads as follows.

Sir-I was very much astonished to find that you had yesterday given Mr. Smith an account of Sam Ragsdale against me, arrangements for the settlement of which were made previous to my removal from Lunenburg by the consent of Ragsdale. Robert Garland assumed the payment of eight dollars, the other two were to be paid out of the demand which your brother had to collect for me against Daniel Taylor but falling into our hands you took the unwarrantable liberty of retaining and distributing as you pleased without my instructions or rendering me any account of the disbursement of it. As I find that tacit submission to one imposition, but subjects me to another. I am resolved to make no other arrangements concerning the account alluded to above that what years ago acceded to by Ragsdale as satisfaction. I can believe nothing else than the matter has been long ago settled and that an account of that nature has been handed from me to another with an evident design to wound my feelings, if not with the intention to receive the money twice. Yours & etc.

Upon the perusal of the above note, my mettle was raised to the highest pitch. I felt perfectly clear of his charges, came on me like a clap of thunder in a clear sky. His note was handed me at a sale by Colonel Richardson. I told him I should reply to it. He advised me not. His conversation seemed rather inclined that he did not think I was hardly capable to combat with a man of letters and a preacher. I told him the race was not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong; truth and justice I will ever maintain to the day of my death. When man attempts to slander me without a cause he will find every faculty wide awake and ready to oppose in anyway, shape or hazard. Sooner would I cease to live than remain silent under the dogmas of the pretended preacher. My answer to his note will read as follows-

Lunenburg Co. Va. April 19th, 1827

Sir-This day I received a note from you bearing no date and should do injustice to myself if I were not as fare as in me lies return you a suitable answer. The content was extremely irritating to my feelings to come in contest by letter with a man that ought by profession to patronize friendship between citizens rules by the same laws; the emotion which you have excited by your fragile note to me you must indubitably expiate or that friendship which has subsisted is irretrievably lost. That hateful manner in which you accosted is completely illogical. The maxim that induced you thus to try to contaminate my reputation I am at a loss for. It is absonant to my disposition to have a contest with any person and more especially with a pretender, which might excite the feelings of the ignorant. In this essay which I turn the immutability and truth, I shall be explicit. I cannot tolerate your former prerogative and shall without any further delay call you to a retrospective view your note to me.

In the first instance I find an insult by it's coming open. This I will look over and compare the same to ignorance. It might be to let people see in what a brilliant light you had displayed my character and to infuse that stigma which I find you so zealous to establish, permutes this malady for genuine principals consocial with virtue and pray to Almighty God to pardon you for the blood thirsting assault made on me by letter, and I will do you the favor to show your note to the people in this vicinity together with my answer to it.

As for the distribution of your money without your consent is true in part. Was it compatible with the rules of reason that I should ride to Carolina to get your consent to pay executions that I held against you when I had of your assets in my own hands. Does not the law of the State compel me to settle and pay debts in that way. I paid Beeth and Shaw it's true, though I should have done it if I had not received instructions from Edward so to do. Can this be an imposition. I say it is not but justice and equity. If I have transgressed the law is open. I am a subject under the controlling powers but will not suffer myself as it were to be trodden under foot by the overflowing of bigotry and superstition.

This leads to my third consideration that is "tacit submission." This I confess but for what cause. Were you not one of those invisible beings-did I see you at any time after I collected your money from Taylor before last Sunday at the place of appointment for divine service. Was I to accost you in the sacred hall where I have heard the Arieles of God displayed in the magnificence of correctness, which of all professions the most essential and many times made sport of by babblers. I will stop this as we have a righteous Jude that will consolidate the hypocrite and its colleague and consign them to the place, which their conduct merits. The tree is known by its fruit.

4th. The account being handed from one to another to collect the money twice. In this case I will answer for myself and say this is false and a charge of the deepest lye, malignant and contemptible. You ought first to combat with Ragsdale. I done nothing more than I was ordered to do by him, and if any person is to blame concerning the account it must be him. I never looked at the account until he ordered me to make it, if I should meet with an opportunity. I them examined and found it to be for $10 for making your wife's coffin, which I thought of all the debts in existence this ought to have the preference; for a man that will not pay for his consorts coffin, I pronounce him worse than an infidel,. I collected from Daniel Taylor $24.50¢ and paid as follows. Robert Chappell $8.88-3/4 cents, William Davis $4.81¢. Josiah B. Wilson $1.15¢. These were executions hanging over your head before I collected your money of Taylor. Paid Beeth and Shaw $8.88¢. This leaves a balance of $1.1¼¢ I am due. You can have the same on application. Or your agent legally authorized to settle with me, as I am anxious to close the business and never to have any for or against you.

As I am conscious that you have irked and think by due reflection, you will recoil your assertions by letter to me for collo------ reflection will go hand in hand with you to the awful tribunal of God, where the secrets of all hearts shall be disclosed, and each of receive according to our merits. And if you receive for this controversy much good, I will then confess I am wrong, and you a clever fellow. I have got through the heads of your note to me after my feeble manner, and shall omit saying anything more, until I see or hear from you, and shall plead no apology for the above manifestation of my sentiments but rather that my feeling would not suffer me to chastise you according to your merits. I am done with the subject account.

I only saw him once after this correspondence. I met him in the road, our stirrup irons struck, not a single word said, but passed in silent contempt. I felt willing to meet him in any way or shape, knowing as I did that he had grossly insulted me without a cause. I think him more culpable as he called himself set apart as a preacher of righteousness. The injunction rest more heavily on him than me to pray for them that disrespectfully use you. Judge not my brethren that ye be not judged for by the same judgment you shall be judged again. And I know that his judgment in this case is erroneous and groundless. When I set myself as a teacher or judge I will confine myself to the truth and well founded Judgment. I do not pretend to say I am right in all cases, but I do propose to be honest and to carry the truth to love mercy and wish to walk humbly before my God, and then our sentence will be correct and one that our conduct merits. You may well suppose that I had to encounter many difficulties in acting as constable 14 years. Though they were few, when you take into consideration that I had to mingle in all sorts of company with the highest to the lowest vagabond. It taught me a lesson that I shall not easily forget." . . ."I purchased 100 acres of land from my father, where I erected a cabin on, as Bachelor. It seemed rather lonesome to me to leave a large family and live alone. I only tried it about six months. While in that retired spot I was frequently visited by the girls who would accompany my sisters over to that solitary spot; after amusing ourselves in the best way we could, I would then see them safe home, and upon my return, things would seem more desolate than usual. I did not think God had made me to live alone, for I had read in his book to the contrary. There was a girl though young had caught my heart. I was waiting patiently for her to arrive to years of maturity, which I thought would come up to my wishes to a fraction. The first time I saw her to know who she was, the thought struck me that she would be my wife, and at that time I do not think she was more than eight years old. She paid me a visit in company with some other girls while I was bachelor. It was gratifying in the extreme to be visited by one in which I had placed my hope for happiness in this world; and at that time I am conscious that she did not have the least thought of my intentions. When about 13 years old I addressed her on the subject which long occupied my mind. I knew I was old enough and I thought she was too. I got little or nothing out of her upon the first interview. But upon our next meeting, I got exactly what I did not want, my walking papers. They came so mild one might suppose they were not bad to take, but I do assure you they were. It disarmed me of everything like resolution. The idea struck me of traveling to get rid of my disappointments, and should have gone to Mississippi, if my brother

Charles had waited one week for me to get ready, it was impossible for him to wait, --- so I relinquished the idea, and returned to my occupation as constable. I had as much business in that line as I could attend to. The pressure of business did not expel the disappointment. I was determined to try absence, t see what effect that would have. I tried and evaded her sight and company nearly 12 months. I could wait no longer and went again. She was not at home. I found her at her grandma's , glorious to behold as sweet as usual, it seemed that absence had created new charms; her looks and connection seemed to bespeak my kind reception. Her grandmother met me at the door with a hand of friendship, as I verily believe. Mrs. Mary Chrymes is her name, which will be reverenced by all who knew her. Her body now rests in the bowels of the earth, and I am fully of the opinion her spirit in Paradise. I think she was rather upwards of 100 years old when she left this world of trouble. When they left that evening, I was invited by nearly all of the family to accompany them home. I told them to go on I should come shortly. It turned into raining, and I did not go until next morning. The time seemed tedious until we met again. She told me afterwards, that she sustained a very heavy shock at my appearance the evening before as I came so sudden and unexpected. When we met next day, I was as full as necessary, of what I conceive the luggage of a young man going to see his sweetheart, "and that was love." I got through this visit very agreeable, and did not say anything about the old suit. Some short time afterwards I went to see her again, and met with the same as at first. I loved her because I had reason to believe she loved me. I loved her because I could not help it. It was not a feigned shadow, it was interwoven throughout the whole system and I felt at a loss how to extricate myself from it. I was determined to hold my head high if I was pierced to the heart. There was a girl in the precincts who seemed to be the rage of the day, she was likely and rich. I concluded to give her a hitch, as it might pass off the time, and if I got my papers—I did not think they would be anyways as bad to take as some I had taken. So I set my determinations and soon met with an interview, and unfolded my mind to her. It seemed to strike as forcibly as I could have wished it. We parted at that expecting to meet again shortly. My mind seemed irrevocably led back to my girl of 13. One other case started, and my notion always was to do one thing at a time. So I was determined to get through with this as soon as possible. She was going to school to Mrs. Watts, and she suffered no young man to address one of her students. I went to every preaching around, but was unable to find her at any. At length she returned home. I was in readiness, and quickly repaired to her house. I soon found out if I courted her again, that I should have to do it almost to the whole house; at length a small chance happened, and I seized the moment, unfolded my mind again, and to my great astonishment received my walking papers. After we had commenced our conversation, her cousin came in the room, and seated herself near at hand. I continued talking on my business, our loud. She then retired, and in a few minutes returned, seated herself composedly to listen to what was going on. Then her stepfather came in but stayed a very short time. I had then gotten through this case. I called for my horse, started on my business, perfectly undisturbed at my disappointment. I always of the opinion to be engaged in a laudable undertaking was not grievous. There was a girl recommended to me by some ladies as No 1, and rich. I made it my business to fall in her company and get acquainted with her. She was not likely, but agreeable. I was frequently in her company, but did not love her enough to marry her. The girls that had recommended her, had informed her of my intentions. I happened there at a time when she and the family were invited to a quilting. They tried to get me to go with them. I told them it was out of my power, and for them to go on, for I was then ready to leave. The girl then said, she was unwell, and that she did not intend to go. So the rest started and left us alone. The thought then occurred, that she stayed because I did not go with them. Thinks I to myself she expects something from me, and it seems hard for her to be disappointed. I then concluded to court her a little, and I do assure you it was a little. For I found that it would not take much to fasten me faster than I wished to be in that case. I am fully of the opinion that I could have engaged her upon the first pop. So we parted to see how things might terminate. I viewed it in all its colors, thought upon it time and again. I did not love. I concluded to go and apologize, and get off on the best terms I could. I went with her from preaching and after we got composed to make the excuse, but before I had the chance there came in a parcel of wild fellows and disappointed me. So I was forced to leave with my business unfinished. I only saw her once afterwards and then I assure you I felt bad. I felt guilty of what I conceive to be the worst thing I ever did, to sport with the feelings of the fair sex seems to me to be almost a curse. I then turned my attention to my girl of thirteen, which in a short time agreed to comply with my request. We were united in matrimony on the 27th day of March 1828, by the Rev. Thomas Jeffries. She was the only daughter of Thomas Gee. Born the 23rd March 1811.

In a few days after we moved to a place that I had rented of Charles Gee, Jr. where we remained until the Fall. We engaged ourselves well and all things seemed to prosper, in our hands until the affliction of her Brother Joshua, which finally terminated in his death. My wife at that time was in a delicate situation & when fairly seen that he must go she was advised by Mrs. Nancy Street, a near neighbor to go to her house and also by Dr. Henry May for her own safeguard, and would have went if she had not been prevailed on by her Mother to stay trying to make her believe that it would do her no harm, and that she would keep the door shut that she might not see him. But as soon as all things were straitened the door was stretched wide open and the corpse lay in full view until interred. I was much opposed to her staying there but could not hinder, unless I had used harsh means and that I could not do under such circumstances. My wife as usual went to stay with her with her first born which took place the 29th February 1829. The midwife could do nothing. I sent for Dr. Henry May and Dr. Joshua Smith. The infant presented itself feet foremost, and in consequence of its being very large it suffocated before it could be delivered. May stated as soon as he came that if it was large that he could not be able to save it. It tuned out to be very large, and expired as predicted. He stated that he thought it to be the finest looking child he had ever seen. It was a girl. Smith came after the case was over and ought to have gotten there before May did as he ought to have done in a case of the sort. May came as fast as his horse could run and discharged his duty faithfully and charged me a good bill and I paid it cheerfully. My Drs Bill in cash next morning was $33. My wife was very low though she mended as fast as could be expected, and as soon as able we repaired to our residence with the determination if it happened to be so again to stay at home; as it turned out to be no satisfaction to either party. I am fully of the opinion that the loss we sustained was occasioned by seeing her Brother after death, this is and ever will be my notion until otherwise convinced.

The land I first purchased of my Father I sold to my Brother Edward, and bought of him an hundred acres of much better land for which I gave three hundred Dollars, it had but little fence & no house on it. My chance to improve it was bad, as I only had a woman & child to assist me. I hired a boy and it took nearly what we made on it for several years to pay his hire though what I did at home an as Constable we got along finely or at lease clear of debt. I scarcely ever had my name in those days put on a slip book much less a store account. I always had a desire to owe no man anything but good will.

Our second child was born the 4th of Nov. 1830, which was a son, the name selected for him was James H. Gee after his Great Grandfather's. He proved to be a very cross child and not very healthy. Myself and wife, perfectly united in our bond and done what we could for our offspring an advancement in life. God thought in his good pleasure to bless us with other children as follows— Thomas W, Gee Born 30 Sept. 1832; Robert P. Gee the 9th July 1834; Edward C. Gee Born 15th April 1837; Josephus W. Gee 9th Oct. 1838.

One might suppose that these were sufficient to fix a poor man's nose to the grindstone. Yet we felt more than ever determined to do all we could for them in raising, educating and bringing them up. We felt that we had thus fare complied with the injunction "Marry and replenish the earth." Our black woman had not been backward in the business. She had in that time brought forth five other children with the one had before numbered six. Our family when we moved home was four in 1828 and in 1838 thirteen. At the death of Drury Gee my wife's Uncle we got a small legacy, a Negro boy valued at $550 and a old woman at $75 and about $45 in cash. I sold the old woman to Nathan Gee to go with her husband for $80. The boy I kept at home one year and hired him out part of two. Then I sold him to Joel M. Ragsdale for $1500. I made the boy and woman with interest & hire net me $2150. The land we lived on was not sufficient for a growing family. I could not purchase land joining me, I tried but failed in every attempt. I then swaped my land with Jacob White for a tract of 288 acres on Beaver Pond Creek. I gave him my land and one thousands dollars for it. I moved there in Dec. 1838. It had been a fine plantation, and produced finely for the first few years. I made some splendid crops for five or six years.

In 1841 I bought a Negro woman and 2 children at my Father's sale, and for which I had to pay $800, which was thought to be very high at that time. I then took a notion to buy her husband. He was between forty and fifty years old. I got him of Susan Jones for $200. I was then able to pay for all that I had purchased, which took all I had in store. I then had sickness in my family and Dr's Bills to pay and my health very much on the decline. I did not think I should live long. I was troubled with a nervous affection , and almost a constant sick stomach, which would reduce me until I could hardly walk. The woman I had and the one I bought had another child each. I felt that I had still more on my hands daily, but was resolved to do all I could for my rising family. There was a doom awaiting me that I did not anticipate. It came at last and overwhelmed me in despair. It was one of the most denting strokes that ever befell me—the death of my wife. She died the 5th of Nov. 1843 leaving me comfortless with a parcel of young children. God sustained me or I never could have stood it. It was a great consolation to know that she was prepared for death. Previously she had chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her. The sacred pages were her delight for years previous to her departure. She was baptized by Silas Shelbern though she never joined any church. I think she would have joined the Episcopalians if she had lived, as she told Parson Thomas Lock she intended it but would wait until I got ready, as she did not think it would be long and knew that would be my church. Her disease was Billious Congestive Fever. She was sick twenty-eight days. Attending Physicians May and Bagly, they did all that could be done but to no effect. She bore her affliction with a Christian's fortitude and now rests in Abrahams bosom. Her remains were committed to the earth the 7th. The Burial read by the Rev. Thomas Lock our Episcopal preacher. My situation now you may suppose was bad. Nearly all I held dear upon earth was gone. No soothing hand to uphold my drooping spirits. No throbbing heart in unison with my own. All seemed darkness and despair. My earthly comfort seemed almost at an end. Something seemed to insinuate there is work for you to do. You have now become Father and Mother of five little children requiring all your energy to raise and instruct in a religious manner. My wife requested that I should raise them up in the fear service of the Lord. I have done all for them that I have been able. I have time and again admonished them to fear and love their Creator in the day of their youth. And I hope the time is not far distant when the prayer of their dieing Mother may seal consolation and true conversion to their dieing soul. And to make the misfortune more gloomy I was entirely discarded by my wife's Father & Mother, the latter denouncing me worse than a vagabond. I will here remark that she was the mother of a woman I sincerely loved and for her sake I will not expose her mother. There are living witnesses, not a few, who could attest to my innocence as to what I am accused and least of all we have to meet our Maker face to face and I know her assertions will not do. My Wife asked me to let her Mother take the two youngest children. This I declined in consequence and her hard sayings and heavy had threatened me with. I got my Brother-in-law and wife Francis Rainey to come and live with me. He got displeased and left before the year was out. I was again left in a bad fix. I could manage business out of doors, but in the house was out of my line of business. I could, and did make plenty to live on and it required some one in the house to manage it. I then determined to marry again if I could. I had my eye on Martha B. Marable. I made the proposal and was discarded. This seemed to me hard luck and more of it. I waited some two or three months and renewed my offer. She parried my offer a few times but at length submitted to my wishes. We were married 24th Dec. 1844. I then felt like I was again reinstated in life. The kindness manifested towards me when in a desolate situation seems to draw forth my warmest feelings towards her. My destiny was again fixed and that to a woman of my own choice, and one too that I sincerely loved. I was then looking forward for better days.

I had the misfortune to loose a Negro child and the Negro man that I bought. I am fully of the opinion that the man was poisoned. My Son Thomas was, and had been in a lingering way for some time. I began to fear that I should loose him. My oldest son James was living with his Uncle. I went down to see him and found him very sick. I did not approve the course Dr. Organ was pursuing, and I brought him home, and send for Dr. J. E. Hazelwood. He came forthwith and soon got him up. Organ pronounced his entirely a diseased mind. Hazelwood Liver disease, which I believe to be correct for he soon cured the mind and body too. He then commenced on my Son Thomas he mended very fast and I felt in hope that he would be able to cure him entirely. He mended on for some six or eight months and I thought he was as good as well but at length the disease returned and he seemed to sink very fast. And deceased the 17th April 1849. Somewhat unexpected to us all. The Dr. seemed astonished when he came and found him dead. His disease was Dropsy. He asked me the day before he died where I intended to bury him. I tried to comfort him with the belief that he would outlive any of us. What I presume gave rise to this enquiry was the wall that I made around his Mother. I only left room for myself by her side. I have often been sorry that I did not tell him that I should bury him in that place by his Mother, where he now lies. I feel no hesitancy in saying that I think him to be the best child that was ever born; young as he was he had the care and attention of an Old Steady person.

My wife was raised chiefly by her Grand Mother, Martha Hazelwood. She was much younger than myself and some vainly supposed it to be an unequal match, but in this opinion they were subsequently bound to confess their error. Time showed to him her devotion to companion and family, and what all men should crave, a good wife.

Our first child, Rebecca Caroline Gee was born 20th of October 1845 and a fine child it was. Ripe seed in a virgin soil will produce a good crop. I must confess I had some dread on my mind as regards her devotion to children, she always expressed an aversion to having any. In this, I was most agreeably disappointed. Her attention was indefatigable and indefeasible. Nothing was left undone that would promote their ease and comfort. Her knowledge in sickness surpassed many of her sex as young as she was. Her attention as a nurse far surpassed anything that approached me when sick. She seemed to sympathize and would render any aid that her strength would justify. It seemed that God had fitted her for my comfort.

Our second child, a son, was born 6th of July 1847. We named him after my Father and Mother's family, Charles Wilson Gee. This was another fine healthy child and I cannot say any ways inferior to the first. My family had now increased, of those living to twenty-two in Numbers. My Dr. Bill's, and other unavoidable expenses had somewhat placed me behind hand. My inclination led me to advance my income rather ahead of my expenditures. In this I was disappointed. Tobacco was, and has been for some years, been selling very low. My land was declining in producing very fast. My health still on the decline, and I felt determined to make some exertion to reinstate myself again. The loss of my son Thomas seemed to depress my mind. I loved him because he was a good child. I loved him because I loved his Mother. Those that have had children will here sympathise. I doubt not with a bereaved Father. It brought to bare on my mind at once all my misfortunes, which nearly overwhelmed me in despair. I rather gave way to intoxicating drink for relief. I had previously chosen that good part which I ought to have stuck to closer than a son, yet I was tempted by the Devil to get intoxicated several times. God knows my feelings then and the bitter remorse felt for my conduct since. Before, and after my immersion the light and comfort then received seemed almost impossibly arrested from me but alas; man knows not what may befall him. I felt condemnation in every breath and that there was a performance as well as a promise to obtain his blessing. I then turned my back upon its use entirely. I found that it was an instrument in the hands of the Devil to delude Christ's followers. I want you, my Children, to learn this lesson, inwardly digest its operations, and you will see clearly that it is a monster in our land, that should be entirely arrested from our borders. It is well calculated to render you miserable here, and destroy your soul hereafter. Put your veto on its use with a firm compliance."

This diary comes to an abrupt stop and is not signed which leaves one with the feeling that he meant to continue but never got back to it. Since he tells of the death of his son, Thomas, we know that his last writing was shortly before moving his family to West Virginia, therefore he possibly never found the time to add to/complete his biography. As a result we are left with many unanswered questions.

Ned, the author of The Kin..., was, indeed, quite correct in concluding that earlier accounts designating Nevill as the forefather of our branch of the family were incorrect. The basis for this conclusion is presented in detail in Chapter 4 of this book.

Some additional facts have come to light regarding Everard that for the most part confirm his diary. A few bonds, which were necessary to appoint him a constable, have been found in the LC court records (LC DB 26/448, 18/128, 30/17, & 30/300). It appears the appointments were made from year to year; however, not all bonds are found recorded. He stated that he was constable from 1825 until 1841 or 2 which would mean he held the post for 16 years.

He included in the diary that he and Rebecca, "Swapped their farm with Jacob White for a tract of 288 acres on Beever Pond Creek." (The Kin...p. 15) The deed is indeed recorded Jan 14, 1839 (LC DB 31/114). They moved there in December of 1838. This is certainly the location of the graveyard where Rebecca was buried in 1843 and the son, Thomas W. Gee was buried in 1849.

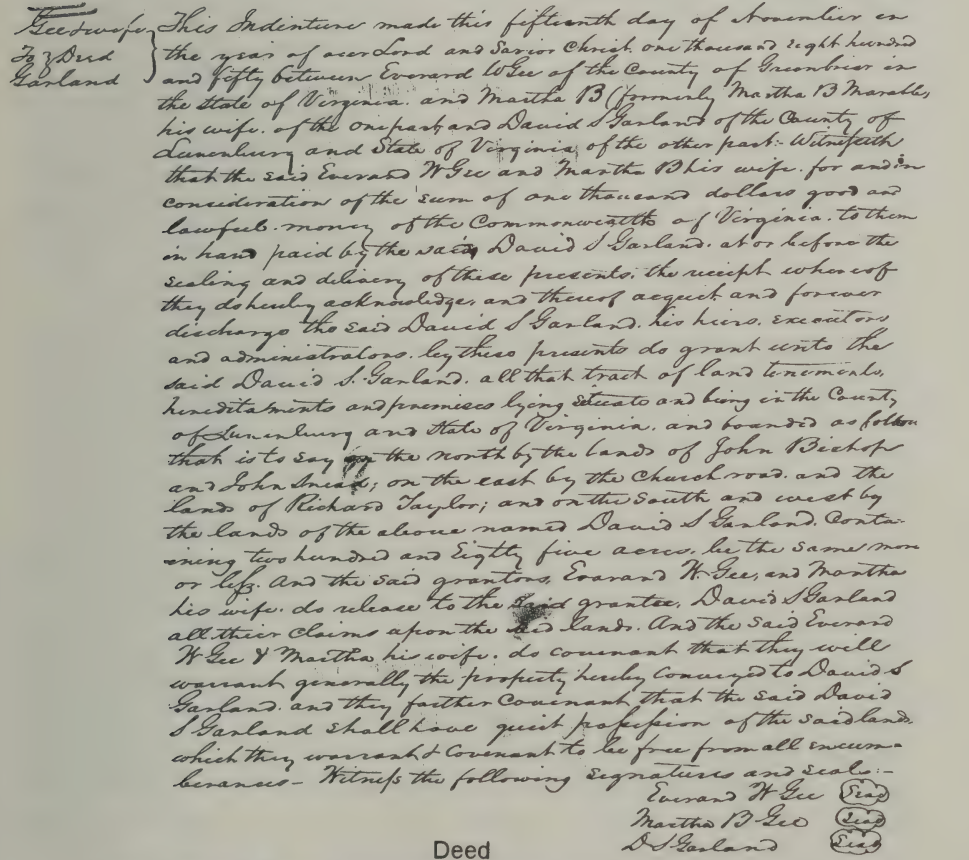
The last event reported by Everard in his diary was the death of his son, Thomas. Shortly thereafter and most likely before the end of the year, for son, Robert Pleasant, later noted that they came to Greenbrier County in 1849, the family packed up their possessions and started the migration west. It would seem fairly certain that they finished the crops of 1849, made arrangements for someone to oversee (maybe renting with an understanding to buy with David S. Garland) the farm and then started the trek.



Deed
from Everard W. and Martha B. Marable Gee to David S. Garland

Tradition among his descendents in WV states that Everard W. Gee was moving his family and worldly goods from Lunenburg Co., VA to Kentucky. This is tradition among the Lunenburg descendants, also." (The Kin...p. 21) We do know that the period after the Revolutionary War and especially after 1790 saw a full scale migration of families to points West and Kentucky and Tennessee seemed to offer many opportunities. This was bounty land after the war. The government of this new country was short on money to compensate those who needed to be reimbursed for their losses or remunerated for their services to the country; therefore land, being in great supply and as yet unexplored, became the currency for compensation. Also, the Louisiana Purchase had been negotiated and the government was anxious to have the area settled.

Regarding Everard's journey, the route they took is unknown, but looking at maps of that era a turnpike, probably following the midland trail and paralleling present Route 60, did exist and that could have taken them through Greenbrier County. Somehow they worked their way from Lunenburg County to this trail. Today going west from Lewisburg, US Route 60 traverses fertile cattle and grain country with imposing country homes. Then the road starts upwards. This is Brushy Ridge. At the summit, about seven miles out of Lewisburg and on the south side of the highway is a historical marker denoting the foaling of Traveller, the famous horse of General Robert E. Lee. North along this ridge for about two miles and visible from this spot is the Everard W. Gee home place

The family legend recounts that near this spot the family lost a horse. Information reached them that a horse could be bought from Mr. Blake, a local farmer. So, Everard went up the ridge to buy a horse and bought the Blake farm instead! Although the accomplishment is simply stated in the legend, it was certainly a bit more complicated to actually negotiate the deal. We can relate in truth the farm that he purchased contained some 700 acres and a Blake family sold it to him. Here he settled his family, consisting of some 22 people, including slaves, and spent the remainder of his life.

Gene Wilkinson, who accompanied Ned on his first visit to this site, stated that he was born in the old house and spent much time there during his young life. He described an ample orchard, vegetable garden, barns, and a rather large and comfortable house. It began as a log cabin and rooms were added as necessity dictated. The house and yard were enclosed with a paling fence. (These paragraphs are paraphrased from The Kin..)

The purchase of the farm was actually recorded May 27, 1850 (GC DB 18/328). The acreage was 700 acres; no price was listed, however, the legal consideration of $1 was indicated. It was purchased from Lina M. and Margaret A. Blake and described as adjoining property of Stuart McClung, Robert McClintic and Benjamin Sammons. Sinking Creek crosses the boundary twice. Everard W. Gee and Martha B. (formerly) Marable, his wife, sold the Lunenburg farm to David S. Garland for $1000. It was recorded Nov 15, 1850 (LC DB 35/114-115) and described as adjoining John Bishop and John Snead (north), Church Road (east), Richard Taylor (south), David S. Garland (west). With these transactions in place, the family was again settled.

Plat of Farm Purchased by Everard Gee from Lina M. and Margaret A. Blake

Unfortunately, a family cemetery was one of the first requirements, for tragedy struck almost immediately after the purchase. James H. Gee, Rebecca and Everard's oldest son died on Jun 7, 1850.

Another change occurred in the family, also, decreasing the number. By October when the census was recorded, Edward Crymes had returned to Lunenburg and was now a part of the Edward B. Gee household. He had made his choice--to live with his uncle. There is a good possibility that he had spent a great deal of time prior to the move in this home. He was only age 6 when his mother died. His aunt and uncle probably reached out to him and offered a warm relationship that he chose to accept after going with the family and seeing them settled. There was the sadness over the death of two brothers to factor in, as well as that of his mother.

Rebecca Caroline, born in 1845, and Charles Wilson, born in 1847, were still quite young when the move was made. Another child was born in 1852, Sarah "Sally" B. Gee, no doubt named for Everard's mother, Sarah "Sally" Wilson. (She was not included in The Kin...) The exact date of birth is unknown.

The Brushy Ridge family cemetery tells one phase of the story of this family for the next years. While Sally was still an infant, her mother, Martha, died on Oct 7, 1852, cause unknown, and was buried there.

The oldest living child, Robert Pleasant Gee, who apparently lived with his father, married Jannette J. Hick of Lunenburg Co., on Oct 15, 1856. She was the daughter of Balaam Hicks and Elizabeth Jane[5] Gee (Charles[4], Jesse[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]). [See Jesse[3] Gee.] They went to live in Greenbrier Co. and she lived only a short time, departing this life on Apr 27, 1857. She was, also, buried in the Brushy Ridge Cemetery.

Everard married Mar 28, 1855, for the third time; Hannah Piercy. Just three years later, on Apr 1, 1858, she died of consumption (probably tuberculosis) at the age of 50. (See Register of Deaths, No. 1-A, page 16, line 50, Greenbrier Co., WV.)

Ten months later, on Jan 31, 1859, the Old Warrior himself gave up the ghost. He was 60 years, 7 months, and 19 days old.

As the years passed, others are buried there. It is located in a small grove of sassafras trees high on windy Brushy ridge overlooking Sinking Creek about two miles south of the village of Williamsburg. The cemetery is in a cow pasture about 200 yards south of the site of the old Everard W. Gee home. Another area has been described as the slave cemetery. It was about 50 yards south and down the ridge from the family cemetery. No stones are visible, however, there is a family memory of about 20 field stones there at one time. The land was cultivated after it passed out of the Gee family.

Today, Ben Gee with the help of his family and others, has fenced in the family plot, seeded the ground and placed new individual stones where there were none for these original graves. Today it is a lovely, peaceful spot to stand and look out for miles at the countryside and reflect on the family who called this place home.

Court records put together the events after Everard Wilson's death in 1859 for the next few decades.

The Appraisement Bill of the Estate of E. W. Gee, deceased, was returned to court and recorded by order at the June Term, 1859, Greenbrier County. This included 15 slaves giving their names, a list of people to whom he owed money, household items, farm equipment and domestic animals. It was presented by W. Wallace, Bollar McClung and Jos. McClung and recorded by Joel M. Therson, Clerk. They had been appointed at the April Term, 1859 and returned the report in May 24th 1859. (GC WB 3/322)

At the same court, the Bill of Sale of the estate's material goods was recorded (on May 25, 1859). Robert P. Gee was named as the administrator and Josephus W. Gee was listed as purchasing all but 8 of the items. (GC WB 3/360 & 361). This appears to have been a formality that was observed to keep the property of their father intact for the benefit of the whole family.

June Term 1859.

The Sale Bill of the Estate of E W. Gee deceased was returned to Court and ordered to be recorded.

Partial Bill of Sale for Everard W. Gee Estate

In 1859, there was also a division of the slaves, recorded on Sep 1, presented by W. H. Shields, Bollar McClung and W. Wallace. Robert P. Gee received Richard & Isaac; Edward Crymes received Willis, Frederick & Solomon; Josephus received Tercy and Griffin; Charles received Chaney and Ryland; Rebecca received Sandra, Eliza, & Mery Ann; and Sarah B. received Duncan & Littleton.

Reference in the Greenbrier County Land Books in 1860 (p. 130) discloses that the estate of E. W. Gee contained 700 acres. This continued with only small changes in the value of buildings until 1877. There was also a change in township. In 1865, the farm was in the Falling Spring Township; and then in 1866, it was in the Williamsburg Township. In 1877 one hundred forty-three acres was sold to James Hickey (GC DB 29/359. All siblings with their spouses were named except Robert P. Gee. This left 557 acres in the E. W. Gee estate, valued at $2.10 per acre. In 1878, 150 acres were sold to Edward Hanna described as land laid off for Rebecca Gee Barnes. In 1883, ninety-five acres were sold in a chancery sale. In 1879, 65 acres was transferred to Sallie B. Gee's name (GC DB 35/505, again listing all siblings and their spouses). Edward Crymes Gee sold his 65 acres to J. W. Gee in 1879. By 1886, the remainder of the original farm was held by J. W. Gee. It was necessary to sell the rest of the farm in 1895 (GC DB 50/306) and then in 1896 Sallie sold her 65 acres to Alex Jeffres. It appears that the land on Brushy Ridge was owned by the Gee Family for about 50 years and even today about 50 acres is still owned by Ben Gee.

A possible scenario for the family after Everard's death: The younger children, Sallie, Charles, & Rebecca were 7, 12 and 14 years of age. Also, there were, the 15 slaves. Robert P. and Josephus, not wanting to disturb the home environment where they also lived, probably agreed to continue to administer the farm as it had been under their father. Robert, by another year, married and he and his wife, Fanny, daughter of an adjoining neighbor probably did not live with the family but lived near by. Within three years the Civil War was raging, the slaves were freed, and the two older boys were away involved in the Confederate Army. Who was making a home for the three younger children during those years is uncertain. No record of the appointment of a guardian has been located. Apparently the family worked out an arrangement allowing the children to remain in the home while they were under age.

(Beginning at this point, we will revert to the numbering system used in The Kin.. by Samuel Edward Gee. The exponent used until this point corresponds to the first number in this numbering system, that is, the generation in America. From this point forward we know all issue and their birth order. This has not been true in the earlier generations. Example: Everard & Rebecca's 2nd son James H. Gee is numbered as 6-2 (that is, sixth generation in America and the second child in his family).

To recapitulate: Everard Wilson[5] and Rebecca Crymes[5] (Gee) Gee had issue: (6 children)

6-1. Daughter (b. Feb 29, 1829, d. Feb 29, 1829)

6-2. James H. Gee (b. Nov 4, 1830, d. Jun 7, 1850, buried in Brushy Ridge Cemetery)

6-3 Thomas W. Gee (b. Sep 30, 1832, d. Apr 17, 1849 of dropsy disease, buried beside his mother.)

6-4 Robert Pleasant Gee (b. Jul 9, 1834, d. May 3, 1906). See Chapter 7 for family.

6-5. Edward Crymes Gee (b. Apr 15, 1837, d. Oct 1,1893). See Chapter 8 for family.

6-6. Josephus William Gee (b. Oct 9, 1838, d. Jul 22,1922). See Chapter 9 for family.

Everard Wilson[5] and Martha B. (Marable) Gee had issue: (3 children)

6-7. Rebecca Caroline (Carrie) Gee (b. Oct 20, 1845, d. Feb 2, 1920) See Chapter 10 for family.

Charles Wilson Gee

6-8. Charles Wilson Gee (b. Jul 6, 1847 in Lunenburg Co., VA, d. bef Apr. 28, 1919 in Greenbrier Co., WV) married Apr 5, 1888, Sarah R. McFerrin (b. c1853, d. bef 1919--most surely, the Sarah B. Gee listed in the Death Index, p. 129, line 28--buried in Brushy Ridge Gee Cemetery). "Gene Wilkinson stated that he knew personally that the wife of Charles Wilson Gee, 6-8, was buried in this cemetery" (The Kin...p. 23). He was buried in Andrew Chapel UM Church. His will was probated Apr 28, 1919. (GC WB 9/292) After debts were paid, all property was left to R. E. Gee, his nephew. There were no children.

Uncle Charlie, as he was familiarly known, owned and operated a general store in Williamsburg, WV. The building, now demolished stood on a lot adjacent to the home of Eugene B. Wilkinson, decd. Dwain Wilkinson (8-614) told of his Uncle Charlie, "He ran a store in Williamsburg. I've heard it talked about—when these Lincoln pennies came out. (You could go in the store and buy a sucker with a penny then.) If the kids came in to buy candy with one of these pennies. He'd look at it and throw that penny down on the floor and say, 'Dadburn them ole Lincoln pennies!' He didn't want anything to do with them. His brothers had fought in the Civil War on the Confederate side. So he had some strong feelings."

Sarah "Sallie" B. Gee

6-9. Sarah "Sallie" B. Gee (b. 1852 in Greenbrier County, d. Fri, Feb 3, 1922 in Greenbrier County of Bright's Disease, bur. in Brushy Ridge Gee Cemetery) apparently spent her adult life living with either the Skaggs family (Mrs. Skaggs was one of the McClintic sisters along with Fannie Gee (Robert P. Gee's wife) and Maggie Gee (Josephus W. Gee's wife) and the Wilkinson families, helping with the children and household work. Dwain Wilkinson shared: "She stayed with us when we were young. Then, she went and stayed with Sandy Scaggs and his wife, Aunt Eck. Sandy Scaggs was Mom's first cousin. Aunt Sallie wrote Mom (Emma, 7-61) a letter and wanted to come back and stay with us. She came back and she was at our house when she died. Mom took care of her until she died. She was a sweet person. She helped to raise me. Dad ran that old store. Aunt Sally always had his meals on the table when he came to the house to eat. She was a faithful person to Dad and Mom." (recorded conversation with Dwain Wilkinson, 8-614, on Oct 10, 1996 in his home at 602 Ronceverte Avenue, Ronceverte, WV.)

VII: Robert Pleasant Gee

6-4. Robert Pleasant Gee (b. Jul 9,1834, in Lunenburg Co., VA, d. May 3, 1906, in Greenbrier Co., WV) was the fourth child of Everard Wilson Gee (Charles[4], James[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]) and Rebecca Crymes Gee (Thomas[4], Henry[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]). At age 16, he moved with his family from Lunenburg Co. to Greenbrier Co. in 1849. He was married twice: first, on Oct 15, 1856 to Jannetta J. Hicks (b. Feb 6, 1836, d. Apr 26, 1857), daughter of Balaam Hicks and Elizabeth Jane Gee (Charles[4], Jesse[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]) of Lunenburg Co. Her father Charles[4] married Rebecca Gee[4] (Henry[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]). Robert Pleasant and Jannetta were married at the bride's home by Rev. Henderson Lee. Jannetta lived only a short time after the marriage and was buried in the family cemetery on Brushy Ridge in WV. No issue.

Robert's second marriage, on Mar 6, 1860, was to Frances (Fanny) Louise McClintic (b. Nov 14, 1836, d. Mar 3, 1901), daughter of Rev. Robert McClintic, ME Church (South) and Mary G. Leonard. Fanny was sister to Margaret Virginia McClintic who married Josephus W. Gee (6-6). The Everard W. Gee Brushy Ridge farm joined the lands of Robert McClintic on the east. When Everard died in Jan 3, 1859, there was no will; it was necessary to inventory his property and sell everything. Since the family consisted of young children, the farm acreage was left in tact. (May 25, 1859, Greenbrier Co Court)

Robert apparently agreed to farm the land and did so for some years; perhaps he and Josephus worked together on the farm. Robert married within the year and started a family; Josephus was still a bachelor. From a letter Robert wrote to his brother in Virginia dated May 14, 1860, he was still farming since he wrote, "We are nearly done planting corn. We would have finished the first of last week but Old Massa pulled down the gap and turned in some rain..." He and Fanny appeared to be living apart from the other family members. In the same letter he wrote that Carrie, his sister, came for a visit yesterday. It was very possible that Josephus, who had purchased most of the household items in settling the estate, and the three younger children, Carrie, age 13, Charlie, age 11, and Sally, age 6, were still living in the family home. There were also a number of slaves. The Land Books only addressed the Estate of E. W. Gee in the 1860's, suggesting that they were all still working together--perhaps to provide a stable home environment for the younger members of the family. Time has blurred most of the facts, but the surviving bits and pieces of memory suggest that Robert and Frances Gee lived near a creek, (Culberson Creek) and not too far from her home. The foundation of a house is still there. As her father aged and needed constant attention, Robert and his sons assisted with his care.

Robert's son, Arthur, took Anna, his daughter, when she was quite young to see where he was reared. It was not at the Brushy Ridge farm. He related that the slaves chose to stay on with the family, at least for a while, after they were given their freedom. There were fifteen slaves (listed in the Estate Appraisal on May 24th, 1859) and they were freed before Josephus enlisted in 1861. (This information came from a conversation with Cleo Simmons, 8-661 and her son Charlie Simmons, 9-661.1 on July 26, 1997). Arthur related that a black family lived near his home. The mother helped Fanny with laundry while he and the son enjoyed many adventures together including playing in the creek. This may have been one of the former slave families.

The Civil War soon interrupted whatever the arrangement was and Robert enlisted in June, 1862. An official source, Hardestry's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia, ©1883, recounts that Robert P. Gee served with the 14th Virginia Cavalry until the end of hostilities, participating in the battles of Gettysburg, Winchester, Culpepper CH, Kernstown, South Mountain, Droop Mountain, and many others. The National Archives have some records about those who served in the Confederate Forces during the Civil War. The records are not complete since they relate only to those who were captured or who surrendered at the close of hostilities. They have been microfilmed and catalogued by states. Roll #133, National Archives and Records Service, GSA-Washington 1961 listed "Robert Pleasant Gee, Williamsburg, WV.

Enlisted Jun 5, 1862 at Union, VA for period of the war. Appointed 5 Sargeant, 28 Oct 1862 in Kanawha Cty, VA, Co. A, 14th Regiment VA Cavalry. Assigned Headquarters 1st Separate [sic] Brigade, Department of West Virginia, Charleston, Jun 5, 1865. Signed his parole of honor. Age-31; Height-5'11"; Complexion-Fair; Eyes-Grey; Hair-Light." Entries are found also on Film #83 and #324.

These were hard times for all, but especially for those who had served on the Confederate side. Although at Appomattox the Union soldiers, as a fitting tribute to their opponents' valor, saluted the Confederate soldiers as they marched to lay down their arms in surrender, no such respect was in evidence when they returned to Greenbrier Co. Animosity was rampant. Much had changed. The state of West Virginia had been formed; but as a condition of its statehood, it was required to remain in the Union. Yet many citizens of the state had fought on the side of the South and had strong sympathies for the Confederate cause. They came home from the war to a hostile bureaucracy. They had no money except Confederate money and it was worthless. They had to take an oath disavowing any sort of service to the Confederacy in order to run for political office. Despite the strong memories of war, it was easier for those who took the oath to get possession of property. The bureaucracy used the excuse of unpaid taxes to confiscate land; but in the minds of the confederate sympathizers the land was 'stolen' by those in power. The bureaucrats were considered 'red hot Yankees'. (Conversation with Cleo Simmons and Charlie Simmons, July 1997).

After the Civil War, Robert returned to his family that, by 1865, included two small sons and to the farm. He apparently became disenchanted with farming; and by the time Arthur was 18 (approximately 1880) Robert and family moved to Ronceverte. Josephus had earlier worked for the sawmill in Ronceverte. In a sense, they seem to have traded places. Robert went to work there at the sawmill. Records (DB 35/437) show that Fannie L. Gee purchased ½ of Lot 91 fronting Pocahontas Ave. and backing Ronceverte Ave for $90 on October 2, 1883. They may have rented for a couple of years before making this purchase. At the same time Josephus bought the other half of Lot 91 (DB 35/438). In 1887, he sold his half of the lot (DB 39/50), which he had never developed, and moved back to Williamsburg to the farm on Brushy Ridge.

Robert P. and Fanny lived the remainder of their lives in Ronceverte. He was a member of the Masons. There was a framed certificate to this effect hanging in the Masonic Hall and it was given to the family when he died. It later hung in Arthur's home. Fanny and Robert P. are buried in Ronceverte in Riverview Cemetery. Issue: (4 children)

ARTHUR LEE GEE

7-42. Arthur Lee Gee (b. Aug. 2 1863, d. May 3, 1944). At the time of his birth his father was serving further south in the Confederate Army. The message was sent to him that there was another 'little rebel' up here at home. Arthur grew up on a farm near Williamsburg, WV. When he was 18 years of age, the family moved to Ronceverte, WV. Here Arthur worked for the St. Lawrence Boom and Lumber Co., a large saw mill, as a saw-filer for many years.

Lula Edna Dunbar, his future wife, had married a cousin, John J. Riffe, son of Catherine McClintic. John died after undergoing an appendectomy shortly after their marriage. John's brother, William, and Arthur paid a call on the bereaved widow to offer their condolences. Arthur liked to tell this story and always ended by saying, "And I went back."

One of the stories told about Arthur: When he wanted to apply for his marriage license, he could not get to the Greenbrier Co. Court House in Lewisburg during business hours. Knowing the county clerk, he asked him if he would stay a little later so that he could get the license. The clerk replied, "Good lord, man, if you are going to get married, I will keep the courthouse open all night!"

Arthur Lee Gee and Lula Edna Dunbar Riffe (b. Feb 25, 1880, d. July 26, 1927) married Sep 20, 1916 at Elmhurst, the home of Lula's sister and her husband, Mary and Ashford Caldwell at Caldwell, WV.

The DUNBAR family line: Lula Edna Dunbar was a daughter of Nicholas Augustus Dunbar (b. Jan 14, 1838, d. Feb 7, 1925) married Apr. 6, 1871, Missouri Anne Duncan, (b. Jul 7, 1847, d. Feb 11, 1927), daughter of William L. Duncan of Waiteville, Monroe Co. Nicholas Dunbar was the son of William T. Dunbar, (b. Jan 5, 1792, d. Mar 18, 1876), married Nancy Jarvis, (b. Mar 12, 1797, d. Apr 6, 1976). William T. Dunbar was the son of Robert Dunbar and Hannah Maxwell. (From Dunbar Bible)

Arthur and Lula bought a farm at Maxwelton, WV in 1919, where they ran a small dairy. Their daughter, Anna Louise, was born and Arthur's sister, Neta Mae, came to live with them.

Anna poignantly continues the family story: "In the middle of June, 1927, the family started to Lewisburg, the nearest town, to deliver the cream and do some shopping. Bible school was in session at the time and I, now seven years old, was to stop at the church and attend the school while the grownups went into town. Stopping in front of the country store at Maxwelton, my mother got out of the car to take me across the road to the church. At this moment she sort of crumpled against the car. She was taken to a friend's home next door to the store and the doctor was called. Neta took me on to Bible School."

Lula had suffered a stroke and had to remain at the home of her friend for several weeks, too sick to be moved. Finally the doctor allowed her to be taken home in a sled, across the fields so the ride would be as smooth as possible. She did not live long after going home and died July 26, 1927. She was buried in Amwell Church Cemetery near Rupert, WV at her request. Her father and mother were buried there."

Anna touchingly continues the story, "After my mother's untimely death, Neta took over the household and life continued on the farm. There was always a large garden at our home with a row of all kinds of flowers planted down the center. The summer of 1927, after my mother's death, my Dad would do the early milking, and then he would take me to the garden to pick fresh flowers for our home before going to the fields for the day."

1934 was not a good year for the family. Neta was diagnosed with cancer that year and would not live long. The same year, Arthur suffered a stroke in the fall that left him a semi-invalid for the rest of his life. It was necessary for him to sell his dairy herd and rent out the land for the next three years. Then in 1937, he sold the farm and moved into Ronceverte where Anna could better care for the household and finish high school. Arthur was always interested in education, having taken several correspondence courses as a young man. He read extensively; books, magazines and newspapers.

Arthur Gee died May 3, 1944, of pneumonia and was buried in Riverview Cemetery, Ronceverte where his father and mother are also buried . Issue: (1 child)

8-421. Anna (Ann) Louise Gee, named for her Gee grandmother, was born Apr 5, 1920 at Maxwelton, WV, where she attended grade school. She graduated from Greenbrier High School in Ronceverte, WV, and then went to work at Townley's 5 & 10-cent Store. After a few years she went to work at the Ronceverte National Bank. During World War II, she worked at the Ration Board and Ashford General Hospital. After the war she worked in the office of the State Road Maintenance Garage, Co. Division where she met Eugene Hayes May 6, 1946. Anna Louise Gee married on June 19, 1948 at the United Methodist District Parsonage in Beckley, WV by Rev. R. S. McClung, then superintendent of the Beckley District of the UMChurch, Eugene (Gene) Clyde Hayes (b. Jun 27, 1919, d. May 4, 1999 at Roanoke Memorial Hospital, Roanoke, VA, buried at Rosewood Cemetery, Lewisburg WV). Gene was a Navy veteran with the rank of Second Class Petty Officer. At the time of their marriage he was working in the State ABC Store in Lewisburg, WV where he was made manager in January of 1952. In 1957, politics changed and he left the store taking a job as route salesman for Greenbrier Dairy. After six years he changed jobs again and went with Greenbrier Beverage Co., a beer distributor. Here he was not only a route salesman but warehouse manager. The company grew from a one-man operation to having three trucks on the road under his leadership.

Don was born in Augusta Co., VA, but moved with his parents to Ronceverte at an early age. As a young man he was a quite a romantic expressing his love for Maude with a variety of his talents. He wrote poetry and demonstrated his love for her in a song he composed before their marriage along with a carved "love book". Don was a skilled carpenter and among other houses in the area, he built the ten-room house in which they lived and of which all the offspring have fond memories. [These items and the house are in the keeping of Frances (9-432.2) and her daughter today.] The family always had a large garden along with chickens and cows, supplementing their income by selling milk, buttermilk, eggs and garden vegetables. Maude enjoyed the out-of-doors best, but she also made 'crazy quilts', crocheted and did beautiful tatting. When the Greenbrier High School was constructed in 1928/29, Italian brick masons were hired. Some of them roomed and boarded with the Don Link family and enjoyed their off time by congregating at their home and entertaining themselves and others with their stringed instruments and vocal music in both English and Italian, as well as telling stories of their native land. These, along with other stories of good times, afford the family rich memories. Maude and Don lived all their married life in Ronceverte and are buried there in the Riverview Cemetery. Gordon graduated from Ronceverte High School in 1916 and earned a graduate degree in civil engineering. He was employed by U. S. Steel and worked extensively in South America. On his first trip there, he was assigned to locate a railroad to the coast from Cerro, Bolivar, Venezuela, which was a mountain of the richest and most extensive iron ore deposits in the world. The area where the ore was discovered is in an uninhabited region in the southwest of Venezuela. The survey was made largely by plane, but in parts by horseback, power-wagon, foot, and dugout canoe. The ore was to be taken to the coast, then, shipped to the United States. U.S. Steel was doing the development under the name of The Orinoco Iron Mining Co. After the survey was completed, he was assigned to position the railroad on the ground. Locating Engineering was not often applied in Venezuela, and for that reason it was difficult to find a Locating Engineer with sufficient experience who was still young enough to stand the rigors of the South American assignment. Lee received high commendations for his work there. Additionally, his work with US Steel, carried him to Canada, and parts of Africa. Memorial Card for Dr. E. C. Gee [6-5]

VIII: Edward Crymes "Ned" Gee

Authors' note: The information used to prepare the biography of Edward Crymes and Mary Frances Gee comes from several sources: first, some is copied directly from The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee by S. E. "Ned" Gee with the author's permission and includes his own retrospection and that of one of Dr. Ned and Mollie's sons, J. W. Gee , as well as information from the wealth of artifacts left in the home where he grew up. This house was earlier the home of J. W. Gee, his siblings and their parents. These quotes are interspersed where appropriate throughout the profile. Second, the information from lengthy notes made talking with another son, and our grandfather, Thomas Garner Gee. Finally, additional data was derived from researching documents such as artifacts, census records, deeds, wills, etc. Although Ned and Molly's lives are so intertwined at times that it is hard to separate them, they will each be addressed separately.

6.5. Edward Crymes "Ned" Gee was born Apr 15, 1837, Lunenburg Co. VA, near Flat Rock Creek, and died Oct 1, 1893 near Cedar Creek in the same county, perhaps within 10 miles of where he was born.

He was the fifth child of seven born to Everard Wilson and Rebecca Crymes (Gee) Gee. His mother died when he was six and a half years of age. Probably his Aunt Minerva and her husband helped their father care for the children until he remarried a year later. It is also possible that he spent considerable time in the home of his Uncle Edward Bonner Gee with whom he would eventually choose to live. We also know from The Kin: "He was named for his Uncle Ned and kept the legacy that he would be cared for by him and inherit his fortune when Uncle Ned died. This was an ace in the hole for young Ned all during his developing years. Without it, I doubt that young Ned would have been so brazen as to walk back alone from West Virginia to Lunenburg at the tender age of 12 or 13. Nor could he have gone to medical school in Philadelphia, financially speaking, or, more importantly, with a sense of confidence necessary to carry out such a formidable task to a successful conclusion." (P. 32)

No doubt he spent considerable time with his Uncle Ned and may have even gone to school from that home. He certainly developed a close rapport with him and his wife, who had no children of their own. From The Kin..."Everard W. Gee, in his diary, mentioned the unpleasantness with his in-laws following Rebecca's death and his refusal to allow them to take his two youngest children. Everard also related an incident about his brother keeping one of the children. He does not name which one. There is ample evidence that young Ned spent a considerable amount of time at Uncle Ned's even before the move to Greenbrier Co., VA. Family tradition has always related that Ned and Molly went to school together, beginning in the first reader and continuing until Ned went to college. This fact alone would have required that they lived in close proximity. Uncle Ned and the Webbs' lived within several miles of each other while Everard lived much too far away for the two to have gone to school together." (p. 32)

"Pertinent to the forgoing is the following letter dated Feb 20, 1951 from Rev. J. W. Gee, the eighth child of Ned and Molly:

'About one hundred years ago a little school house stood by the roadside in the North East corner of Lunenburg Co., Virginia, where all the boys and girls of the community gathered daily. They were of all ages from beginners to young men and maidens fair. The teacher, who was employed by the patrons, was a capable and patient man. He had many and varied experiences, but perhaps none more baffling than the following: he was having a class in spelling when he came to the word 'lose'; to his surprise every member of the class misspelled this word. In his despair he turned to one of the pupils sitting near and asked her to spell the word 'lose' for the class; to his amazement she also failed as did another near her. In his bewilderment he called the entire school to their feet and gave everyone a chance to spell the word 'lose'. When the try was over, and the fog had cleared away, he announced that only two pupils, 'Ned Gee' and 'Molly Webb' had spelled the word correctly.'

Whether this little incident was an omen of coming events one cannot tell, but it had its significance of what did come to pass, for after this their names were often linked together in school and social affairs; and in due time, as such things do, it ripened into friendship, courtship and eventually marriage. 'And they lived happily together ever afterwards.'" (p. 32)

We do not know exactly when Everard Gee's family left Lunenburg; however, we can calculate that it was after April 17, 1849 when the son Thomas W. Gee died and before the recording of the deed for the farm in Greenbrier Co. on May 27, 1850. According to the son, Robert P. Gee, in his information given to the author of Hardesty's Historical and Geographical Encyclopedia ©1883, he made his home in that county in 1849. Probably after the crops were harvested in Virginia in 1849, the family prepared to move from Lunenburg Co., VA and, by chance, settled in Greenbrier Co., VA. As plans were being made, Uncle Edward Bonner "Ned" Gee, asked his brother to let Edward stay with him in Lunenburg. He promised to rear and educate him. The offer was rejected but Uncle Ned left it open for a future change of heart.

Sometime before September 1850, Edward Crymes came back to Lunenburg Co. for he was not listed in the Federal Census of Greenbrier Co. with his family but was listed in the Federal Census for Lunenburg Co., #418, with Edward Bonner Gee and his wife, Rebekah, along with a John Skinner, listed as a laborer. His own way of describing the moving experience was, "I led a mule to Greenbrier and walked back alone." Apparently he attended school near this home for the next four years, most certainly at Miss Lou Marshall's at least part of the time, for this is where he knew "Molly" Webb whom he would later marry.

He later went to college as he was listed (Vol. V, P. 48, 2nd Series, William & Mary Quarterly) as a registered student at William & Mary College, Session 1854-55, as follows:

"Student...E. C. Gee,
Parent or Guardian... Edward B. Gee,
Post Office Address... Jonesboro, Brunswick Co., VA.
Where he lived in Williamsburg... Prof. Ewell

Church Affiliation... Episcopal."

After attending William and Mary, he enrolled at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa, #2858 and was graduated as a Medical Doctor in 1858.

Matriculation Cards at Jefferson Medical College of Dr. E.C. Gee [6-5]

Interesting to note is the fact that some of the faculty names listed in the catalogue of Jefferson Medical College and on the matriculation card for his classes bear the names given to procedures used by doctors today. At that time the college was located at Tenth Street, between Chestnut and Walnut in Philadelphia.

Also, the ratio of students at the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia in the session of 1858-59 from Lunenburg County was exceptional. Among approximately 570 students listed, there were 5 other area students: namely George W. Cox and Montfort Jones from Lunenburg Court House, William T. Elder and Samuel W. Hawthorn from Lochleven and Flavius J. Gregory from Plantersville. Edward C. Gee was actually listed with a Brunswick County address, Jonesboro PO, but we know his home was in Lunenburg County.

Returning to his native county, he began practicing from 'the Brydie Home" where he boarded. This was only for a short time for on November 9, 1859 he married Mary Frances Webb, the ceremony took place at her home. Tradition says the small, three-room building in the front yard at the Webb home was built by Garner Webb to be the doctor's office. If so, it was only used for a short while for they soon went to live in the house that was known as the Maddux homestead, later to belong to Thomas Garner Gee , their son. Then, when Uncle Ned's wife died, they went to live with him at his home just across Cedar Creek.

Dr. Gee participated in the Civil War as a surgeon in a Richmond hospital. Apparently he never wore a uniform and was allowed to come home often to take care of his practice and other matters in Lunenburg. One story told about one of these visits: a slave boy on the farm spotted some Union soldiers approaching the house. Knowing that they would want his master's fine horse, the boy quickly took the horse and hid out in the woods until the soldiers had gone.

In The Kin...we read, "The Civil War service of Dr. E. C. Gee is not fully documented as records there from are sketchy or non-existent. It is certain that he was in the Confederate States Army. J. W. Gee states that he was on the staff of Monroe Hospital, Richmond. The Historical Unit, Surgeon General's Office, Department of the Army, recorded that he was conscripted early in the Civil War, that he served as a nurse in Petersburg in 1863 and was then transferred to Richmond as a surgeon. Microcopy #331, Roll #105, Compiled Service Records of Confederate Soldiers who served in organizations from the State of Virginia, National Archives, Washington, DC, had two entries about Dr. E. C. Gee, Surgeon. One was from the Register of Medical Directors Office, Richmond, VA, dated, Jan 14, 1865. The other was from the Register of Jackson Hospital, Richmond, VA, dated, Jan 24, 1865."

As I learn more about the medical dilemma facing the South at the beginning of the war, it is apparent that when Dr. Gee was conscripted as a nurse in a Petersburg Hospital he was probably being trained (a crash course) to be a surgeon. He had graduated as a medical doctor, not a surgeon. There were only about a dozen surgeons in the entire South at this time and less than fifty in the whole US. Drastic action was required to fill the void. After a period of hands-on training, he became qualified and was sent to a hospital in Richmond. At that time, the only surgery done was probing for bullets/balls and removing limbs. In the final analysis, more men were lost to diseases such as dysentery and measles than to battle-related wounds.

Of further interest regarding his Civil War service is the following letter. The envelope bears a stamp of a Confederate flag. The left upper quadrant is blue with ten white stars. The upper right quadrant is divided horizontally in half. The upper is red and the bottom is white. The lower half of the flag is red. The stamp is cancelled "Richmond, Va., June 24, 1861." The envelope is addressed to: "Mr. Garner Webb, Blacks & Whites, Nottoway Co., Virginia." The letterhead contains the same flag that was used for the stamp.

"June 24th/61,
Richmond, VA.

Dear Mollie and Nannie,

[sic] I reached Richmond today about 1 o'clock. I found Edmund at Wm. Maddux's office. He is a good deal better than he was yesterday, but right sick yet. He has dysentery. Tell Mr. Webb that Edmund don't want him to send Loury down, as Mr. Maddux is willing for his boy to wait on him. I think he will be able to walk about a little in a day or two. Captain Jones told me he expected to leave Wednesday for Western VA. Edmund says he don't know whether the officers will let him go home or not. I will find out tomorrow. And if they will, we will be up to B'lks & Whites in a day or two, but Mr. Webb need not send to the Depot as there is most always conveyance at the Depot from that neighbrurhood.

My best regards to all the family, and kiss Nannie for me.

I am as ever your affectionate
Ned."

Uncle Ned's wife was living when this letter was written as she died Jan 15, 1862. Molly may have been living with her parents then or she could have been there on a visit while her husband was away." (P. 37)

After the war Dr. Edward Crymes Gee returned to his life as a country doctor and farmer. Although his Uncle Ned had owned a large acreage and a number of slaves, it was necessary after the death of Edward B. Gee in 1873 to take bankruptcy and then to buy back the home farm to clear up his uncle's debts. This should not diminish Uncle Ned's intentions to advance his nephew but needs to be understood in the context of that day. Immediately after the Civil War, life was extremely difficult for most people in the South. The ravages of war had taken their toll on all aspects of life and the wealth of the land was greatly diminished. However, he and Molly overcame these obstacles and bought surrounding land until he had a sizable farm—over a thousand acres of land. (Over a period of years, he purchased all of the land which is today the Clifton Bagley, Dick Thompson, Billy Gee, Hunter Gee and Armstead Watkins farms as well as the Tyler Hawthorne farm and the farm which later belonged to his daughter, Gertie Gee Bailey).

The house where Edward Crymes had lived with his uncle after his family moved to Greenbrier Co. and now was their home was in several parts. The larger section in front consisted of four bedrooms—two downstairs and two upstairs. A long hall went straight through the middle. Underneath was a cellar for storing food and a delightful place for a child to build a playhouse. In back of this section was a room and a half, separate from the front, but possibly connected at some time with a colonnade, and probably much older. This was used as a combination parents' bedroom and family sitting room. Here all of the children except Frank, the youngest, were born. (There is a discrepancy in this tradition because Nannie was born in 1861 and Rebekah Maddux Gee died about a year later in 1862). Probably three of these children also died there.

Out to the west was the kitchen where the food was cooked on a stove (rather than in a fireplace) and the family ate. Lucy Si and Jean Hazelwood were two of their cooks. Large fireplaces heated the rooms.

In later years, after the family had moved away, the living quarters were completely rearranged. It became a tenant home until Nannie married Willis Jones and they took possession of the property. The kitchen was torn down and the family room was used for storage. The kitchen and dining room were moved into the larger section and Armstead Watkins added an enclosed colonnade and five rooms to the front with a porch. At the earliest time a farm road ran to the east of the house and back to cross the creek as much as a mile from today's crossing. Eventually a state road ran just in front of their house and then across Cedar Creek connecting to the Jonesboro Road with this house sitting back at the curve of the road. Today there is again a farm road running to the east to take a person to the cemetery and to the section formerly owned by Milton & Eva Watkins.

Meanwhile back to the young family of Ned and Molly: In order to be more accessible to his patients and convenient for other business, Ned and Molly decided to relocate their home to their property on Jonesboro Road. A two-room tenant house had been located on the spot. That house was remodeled and then they added at this time all of the house, which is there today, except the room located above the colonnade. This was added, some years later by their son, Frank Gee . The timber in the house was cut and prepared on the place and the brick were made in a kiln there on the north side of the farm. A good well was already there. In November of 1882, they moved into their new home, the same house that is today the Billy Gee home occupied by his wife, Daisy Browder Gee, and daughter, Susanna. Through the years the house has been maintained and modernized. (An interesting side note: The first night the family went to live in their new home the plaster began to fall and in short order it was necessary to have the house replastered.)

Subsequently, a store was built in front of the house. The children tended it, for the most part. Their mother ordered the merchandise and several times a week a trip had to be made to Black and Whites (became Blackstone in 1885) to pick up merchandise at the depot. Some of the merchandise that was available in the store was white sugar and brown sugar, which came in 300 pound barrels and sold for five cents a pound. It cost about three cents to get it in the house so there was two cents profit to be made. Customers had to bring their own containers for whatever they bought. Baking soda, packaged in one-pound boxes and larger, sold for five cents a pound. As much as 25 pounds came in a barrel. (There was no baking powder at this time.) Molasses came in barrels and also sugar cakes which sold at one cent each or ten cents a dozen. They might sell a barrel a day when a big meeting was going on at Cedar Creek Church, the black church just through the pines from the house. Also, shoes were available @ $1.50 to $4.00 and cotton goods were stocked that sold for ten cents a yard. It took about ten yards to make a dress. Woolen fabrics had to be specially ordered.

All of the farmland was in pines when the family moved to their new home and had to be cleared. They had grubbed and prepared for planting about a hundred acres. Tobacco was their largest money crop. Light tobacco was cut and cured like dark tobacco during those times.

When big meeting was going on at Cedar Creek Church, Clabe Johnson, the Negro preacher who held the services there for many years, came by to talk to Dr. Gee. He would get permission to run off anyone who tried to sell anything (wine, etc) around the church. He also promised that none of Dr. Gee's watermelons would be stolen. Sometimes there would be as many as a thousand to come to a protracted meeting which lasted a week. They would come from as far away as New York and Florida. (See the article in Appendices on Cedar Creek Church)

Dr. Gee, along with Mary Frances and the children, enjoyed a lucrative medical practice. It was more or less a team effort. Mary Frances was just about as much doctor as her husband. She was often consulted about illnesses and she pulled many of the teeth. The children might help with getting medicine ready. (Quinine, Brismo and Calamine were about the only available medicines.) For those patients who 'thought' they were sick, Buddy and/or Tommy , the two sons most interested in doctoring, would make up a pill of cornbread sprinkled with a little quinine and rolled into a ball. One of the other children would entertain the 'patient' while the bread pill was being made up. (One interesting story: Dr. Gee apparently thought very little of the thermometer, which came on the market during the years he was practicing. He purchased one and used it once. Josie picked it up from the mantle and dropped on the hearth, whereupon he jestingly declared, "I wouldn't have bought it if I hadn't known Josie would break it." This was his first and last thermometer.

Bill for Drugs Puchased by Dr. E. C. Gee [6-5]

In his work as a medical doctor, he was known at times to practice a bit of mind play. When certain patients whom he knew suffered from hypochondria called for his services, he would go in, join the family and stretch out his feet to the fire. Then, he would proceed to talk about whatever was the news in the community in his relaxed way until, when he asked about the reason for his call, the patient would have 'recovered' from the ailment.

"In addition to the practice of medicine he ran a large farm, where he was successful. He was heard to say more than once that he practiced medicine because he liked it and farmed to make a living. During the whole time of his practice he was never known to refuse to go when called or to ask who was going to pay the bill, he showed no favors to any white or black, rich or poor. He never pressed for the collection of bills, many calls were never entered on his books because he knew the parties were not able to pay, and of those entered about 50% remain unpaid." (p. 33)

A simple splinter in the hand was to strike Edward Crymes down at the early age of 56. His hand became infected and developed into blood poisoning. He refused to have his hand amputated. Despite the fact that he seemed to be getting better, he died suddenly in the front yard of his home on October 1, 1893. His body was buried in the garden there.

Mary Frances Webb

In the same county and year that Edward Crymes was born, another birth took place: that of Mary Frances Webb (b. Oct 30, 1837, d. Mar 16, 1915).

WEBB/WINN FAMILY

Molly was the daughter of Garner Webb (b. c.1811, d. c.1862) and his wife, Harriet Hardy Winn (b. c.1812). Garner was the son of William Webb (b. c.1772, d. c.1813) and Mary Ligon, daughter of Richard Ligon and Mary Bagley of Nottoway Co., VA. William Webb probably was the son of John Webb and Winifort (surname unknown). See item 513, Lunenburg Co., VA Wills, 1746-1825, Landon C. Bell, 1972. Harriet Hardy Winn was the daughter of Edmund Winn and Elizabeth H. Cousins. They were married in 1782 according to a sampler made by Harriet Hardy Winn in 1823 when she was 11 years old. It also lists her siblings, their birth dates and marriage dates with name of each spouse. For further genealogical information on the Winn (Wynn) family including the Lunenburg line, see Southern Lineages, Records of Thirteen Families, by A. Evans, published by the Author, 1940. This book is in the NSDAR Library. Also, see The Winn Family Story, the ancestors and all identified descendants of Llewellyn Parks Winn 1841-1923 with historical, social and geographic background by Art Danforth. © 1986.

(See the Webb Family in the Appendices)

Garner and Harriet Webb were farmers owning and operating "Liberty Hall", their farm near Fletcher Chapel Church in Lunenburg Co. (see information on this farm with Helen Gee Bailey, 99-571.2) "Molly" as she was called, grew up in a large family, the fifth of ten children. As a young girl she probably went to a day school close to her home and then as a young lady she boarded and went to school at Miss Lou Marshall's on the Jonesboro Road (across from Dick Inge). Miss Lou lived about 200 yards northwest of the intersection of State Routes 645 and 604 (or the Jonesboro Road and Sugar Hill Road), on the Jonesboro Road in Lunenburg Co. There she would continue to cultivate her friendship with Edward Crymes Gee.

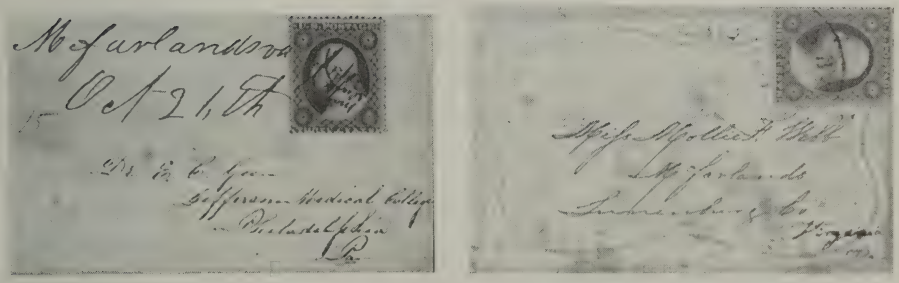
During the years he was away in school, there are a few envelopes with postmarks from Philadelphia and one postmarked from Blacks & Whites, all of which supports their continuing relationship even when he was away. By the end of 1859, he had completed his formal education and they were married on Nov. 9. There is a letter dated 1860 which has survived from his brother, Robert P. Gee, in Greenbrier Co. with 'newly-wed banter'...[sic] "You said that Mollie told you to ax me if I have quit laying my head in Fannie's lap bless...bless 'er heart. No Sir not a bit of it no never, never no madam..." Apparently he and Fanny, also newly married, March 6, 1860, had just returned from a trip to visit with Ned & Molly. They had become acquainted with the Webb family and he wrote, "Give my best love to Mr. Webb and family. Fannie talks a great deal about her Lunenburg Papa. She would send her love to him I know but bless 'er heart she has taken it all but what she left me and gone to bed with it...and she and her love are both gone to sleep..."



Correspondence between Dr. E. C. Gee [6-5] and Mary Frances Webb

In The Kin, we read, "From the first she entered wholeheartedly into his work, both giving themselves unreservedly to the task. In time she became expert in many cases and often, when he could not be had immediately, having a large practice, she would render first aid; pulling teeth, setting broken arms or most anything that needed fixing. She became a general favorite with all, known to most of her white friends as "Cousin Molly" and to the black people as "Miss Molly Gee". On one occasion she received a letter from a girlhood friend who had not heard from her in a long time. She said that she had been wondering what had become of her until a few days before when she heard two black girls standing out in front of her home talking. One of them said something was true "Because she heard 'Miss Molly Gee' say so and she knew it was right". She called the girl in and asked her what she knew about "Miss Molly Gee". She answered that everybody knew "Miss Molly Gee" where she had been living all her life. Following this they revived the old friendship, which continued as long as they lived. She became so proficient in the treatment of sick children that the Doctor would often say to her, "Mrs. S____ has a very sick child and I want you to go with me to see it". After his death she was considered the "Chief Medical Advisor". Many cases were referred to her before calling a doctor. This continued until her death."

S. E. "Ned's " personal account of his grandmother gives us a close look at the person she was.

"My earliest recollections in life were that of sitting on Grandma Gee's lap and my brother, Frank Rives, sitting on the arm of her Morris chair. This chair has come back home.(It is listed in Molly's Will going to Nannie). It is now in my brother, Billy's living room—the parlor in my youth. Grandma's authority and our respect for her were omnipotent. Things were true because she said so. Molly Gee ruled the family and, in many respects, the community."

"She was a dominant character and center of activity. I recall her raising her voice only once. That was, on April Fool's Day, when Anna filled the sugar dish with salt and Grandma took a big swallow of salted coffee. The family and community looked to her for guidance and direction. She was a good 'doctor', having learned from having a doctor in the house for 40 years. They were her husband, her son, Buddy, and Dr. T. C. Harris, who married her daughter, Josie. She ran the Lochleven Post Office in the front hall from a table beside the medicine cabinet. This was after she closed the store in the front yard several years after the death of her husband. Mr. Hall was the mail carrier. He started his daily route at Gig Post Office in an open buggy. This post office was in Mr. Ned Moore's store located in the yard of Perseverance Church; Lochleven Post Office, in our home, was the next stop, where he always had coffee, eggs, and hot biscuits. He then made stops by Brydie Post Office and Tree Post Office, arriving in Blackstone shortly before noon. On the way, he had stopped at all the mailboxes and taken shopping lists from many families. After eating, gathering his mail, doing his shopping, he retraced his steps completing the journey hopefully before dark. Also, he was the means of transportation for many people. All the neighbors dropped by daily to check on the mail. The home was a mecca for preachers and travelers in general. No funds were ever offered or expected for meals, lodging, or other services. Some of the family was always visiting there on Sundays. It was most natural that the world there revolved around Ma, Grandma, Aunt Molly, Cousin Molly, or Miss Molly—depending on relationships."

Molly had gone to Fletcher Chapel as a young girl. Her father, Garner Webb, was one of the founders of Fletcher Chapel according to old church records. Molly joined Providence Church shortly after her marriage. It was located at the intersection of Jonesboro Road and Dundas Road, but was moved in the first decade of this century when the Virginian Railroad usurped the site on which it was located. (It was moved to a site on the South Hill Road, approximately two miles south of Lafoon's Corner. At this time Molly moved her membership back to Fletcher Chapel where it remained the rest of her life. She would drive via Route 714 (no longer a through road) to go to church in her glass enclosed, coupe-type buggy. She would take the young children and Anna and Frank would follow in their buggy. She also used this route to visit with Gertie and her family.

She was paralyzed in her right side while visiting her daughter, Etta, in the fall of 1911. She left home in August and was stricken in September at Pleasant Grove, the home of Etta and Wash Winn near Keysville. Her son, Buddy (Dr. E. W. Gee), came out by train from Richmond and took her to his home there. When her condition stabilized she was brought via train, sitting in her wheel chair, which was placed in the baggage car, to Blackstone. There the wheel chair was placed in a covered delivery wagon and carried 14 miles to her home. She was a happy soul to be back and continued her interest in her home, the family, the farm, and the neighborhood. Her days were spent minding children, entertaining visitors, and performing such household chores as shelling peas, beans and stringing snaps. Her performance was amazing considering the fact that she had no use of her right hand. She was never idle. Her mental facilities were never impaired while she lived.

After Dr. Gee died, Molly began to write her will which is as follows"

WILL OF M. F. GEE, (deceased)

Written in 1894

I, M. F. Gee, being of sound mind, and in the fear of God, and also through the love and desire to carry out my dear husband's wishes, as near as I can, do make this my last will and testament:

1st. I desire all of my debts to be paid.

2nd. I wish my sons to be my administrators and trustees without bond, or security, and wish them to carry out my last requests in the fear of God, and reverence of their father and mother and to act as guardian for my younger children.

3rd. I wish all of my children to have the amount of $375.00 in land money, or other property, also a bed & cow and calf, from their father's estate, and also the same amount from my estate. While I am living, if I can give it to them, if not, make them equal from what I leave.

4th. I wish this, my home (1894) to be the home of all my dear children who may remain single and wish to stay here until Frank is twenty one years old if I should not live until then. I give this my home with one hundred acres of land attached, as his Father requested me to do, which will make his portion $375.00 of his father's estate and an equal share of what I have already given some of the children and charged them with. (found in a note book)

1902 addition:

4th. I give this my home to Frank, my youngest son as his Father wished, with the portion of land adjoining, commencing at the northwest corner of the lot on the right of my house; running along the road to Eddie's line, on the south; then east, to end of opening; then, north to the road at big gate; then east down the road until even with Tommie's line; in the lots straight across, running north until opposite the corner where it started. This will make Frank equal with others of my children who have had $375.00 of their father's estate and also the amount I have given to the most of them of my own. If Frank should not live to be twenty-one, I wish one of my dear children to take this place and pay all the children an equal part of what it is worth.

I also wish my daughter Etta, to have the place Sam Edmunds now lives on, Oct 1st 1902, with fifty acres of land running from the road along Frank's line on the west to Eddie's on the south and on down Eddie's line and on the road in front (or north toward the Creek until the 50 acres is included, provided she is still single and has no home of her own, and if so, let this go with the balance of my land that has not been disposed of before my death. I wish it valued, and equally distributed with all the children by buying or selling to each other.

5th. I wish all deposits, bonds and a/cs that I may have in possession, be collected and equally divided with each one of my children, each one giving an account of what they have received, of my estate. I have all charged in a separate book from this.

All this, I do in accordance with my dear husband's request and in love for my precious children and in the love of God for his goodness to me, praying Gods richest blessings on each one of you, now and ever more.

Your loving Mother,

M. F. Gee

Nannie Elizabeth Gee

7-51. Nannie Elizabeth (Nannie Beth) Gee (b. Feb 23, 1861, d. Jun 24, 1928) was married twice: first, Feb 27, 1884, to Willis Armstead Jones (b. Nov 6, 1859, d. Jul 5, 1896), the son of Benjamin Stephen Jones and Rebecca Annjulina Browder. (See "The Family of Thomas Jones of "Crooked Run" a Colonial Family Settling in Brunswick Co., Virginia" by Clarence Porter Jones, of Newport News, Virginia, 1906 in TGF...p. 87.) Willis was a farmer and died when they had been married 12 years.

Nannie Beth Gee [7-51] as a Young Girl

After Willis' death, Nannie married on Apr 7, 1898, Samuel Armstead Watkins. He was a farmer, also. Nannie was born and she and her husbands lived, died, and were buried at the old Ned Gee home place located just east of Cedar Creek on Route 603, Lunenburg Co., VA. Part of this property had come into the hands of Ned Gee, uncle to Edward Crymes as a dowry from his wife, Rebecca Maddox. Part of it was deeded to Nannie and Willis and her brother, Everette W. (Buddy) by their parents (WB 42/153, 1885, 268 acres). Subsequently, Nannie and Willis bought Buddy's half of the property.

Grandma Nannie Gee Jones Watkins [7-51] Feeding the Chickens

In 1906, when daughter, Mary, married, Armstead purchased her share of the property. Then in 1916, he purchased the rest of the farm from his wife and the other girls, Carrie and Laura, Josie, her husband Eddie Jones, and Eva and her husband, Milton. When Nannie died, Armstead invited Carrie and Laura (who had remained on at the home) to make their home with him and they did. At his death, he left them a life right to the farm. Eventually, they chose to go into the Baptist Home and the property was managed by the Home until their death. It then passed, as stipulated by Armstead's will, to Winston Watkins (9-513.2) and Armstead's niece, Eva Branch Chiles (8-519), who lived with the family from age 3 until she finished school.

The one memory that rings clear with almost everyone who visited in this home was the immaculate bedroom to the left on entering the front door with the old fashion high back bed with a half high foot board with bolster pillows. It was always made up with a gleaming white counterpane tucked in so that the wooden side panels were visible. This was likewise the family room where neighbors were invited to sit for a visit.

Laura Ida Jones [8-515]

Carrie and Laura stayed and cared for the home until shortly after the death of their stepfather, S. Armstead Watkins. Their lives were so intertwined that the name of one was always added to the other in the same breath--Carrie and Laura. Carrie was deeply religious, highly industrious, and an extrovert; but she always suffered with poor eyesight. As a child she stayed in Richmond with her uncle, Dr. Everette (Buddy) Gee, and family and was treated unsuccessfully by specialists. Laura was an amateur photographer, at least within the family, and we are grateful to her for many snapshots of family in the early years--even of the family located in WV where she visited. She spent many hours reading to Carrie and discussing topics varying from current events to Genesis. Both were extremely happy and content at the Baptist Home where they remained until their death.

Eanes of Lunenburg Co. and niece of Molly Webb Gee. (See Webb Family in Appendices) An excerpt from his obituary in the Richmond Times Dispatch on June 7, 1933:

Dr. Everett W. Gee Dead

Dr. Gee was about fifty-two years old, and was one of the best-known physicians in the city, having been at one time a member of the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia. He was also a member of the Richmond Academy of Medicine and Surgery and the American Medical Association.

A native of Lunenburg, Dr. Gee came to Richmond about twenty years ago and has been identified with the activities of the city since that time. He was a member of Centenary Methodist Church and was active in charity, giving much of his time, despite a large practice, to medical services to the poor of the city...

Issue: (3 children)

8-531. William Webb Gee (b. Nov 12, 1892 at the home of his parents in Lunenburg Co., d. May 10, 1959 in St. Augustine, FL). He was employed by the Florida School for the Deaf. Webb attended VA Military Institute, served with General Perishing on the Mexican Border and in France during World War I. Following is an extract of his military service which is on file in the VA Adjutant General's Office, Richmond: "Enlisted in Company A, Richmond Light Infantry Blues, VA Volunteer Service on Jul 16, 1912, for a period of 3 years; reenlisted Jul 16, 1915 for 3 years; called into Federal Service for Mexican Border duty on Jul 5, 1916 as Corporal; assigned Troop A, 1st Squadron, Cavalry, VA National Guard; continuous service-Germany War Duty; promoted Sergeant May 8, 1917; assigned Company E, 104th Ammunition Train, Aug 5, 1917; served overseas Jun 29, 1918 to May 25, 1919; honorably discharged as Sergeant on Jun 1, 1919. Serial number: 1-296-439. Veteran's Administration Claim Number: XC1-800669."

Webb was an individual of rather unusual personal characteristics. To gain an insight therein I quote below two cards in my possession:

First, this card is postmarked "Onancock, VA, July, 1909." It is addressed to "Dr. E. W. Gee, 416 E. Grace St., Richmond VA." The message is, "7/22/09. Dear Papa, I am having a good time, and all are well. I wish you would send me (50) fifty cents. Your son, Webb. P. S. How are my chickens getting on."

Presumably, he was visiting Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Stiff. He was a Methodist minister who was assigned to the Eastern Shore of Virginia. Mrs. Stiff was Mamie Webb, sister of the mother of Webb Gee. Picture on card is the "Battleship Minnesota, 18 knots".

The second card is postmarked "Lexington, VA, Sep 10, 19--". It is addressed to "Mrs. M. F. Gee, Lochleven, Lunenburg Co., VA." The message, "Dear Grandma, I am here. Wish I had never heard of this place. Will write to you all later. Your grandson Webb." The picture is "Lexington, VA, Library of the Virginia Military Institute".

8-532. Margaret Gee (b. Jun 31 (Sic), 1897, d. Mar 27,1901 of pneumonia--per tombstone)

8-533. Mary Virginia Gee (b. Jan 31, 1903, 315 E. Clay Street, Richmond, VA, and died Sep 16, 1948 of cancer at St. Augustine, FL). She was employed by the city library. Virginia graduated from Collegiate School and received a bachelor's degree from Westhampton College, now a part of the University of Richmond. She worked many years for the Valentine Museum, then moved to Charleston, SC, where she worked in the library and finally to St. Augustine.

Dr. Everette Webb Gee [7-53] with son, Webb [8-531], wife, Jennie Webb Gee, and mother, Mary Frances Webb Gee

Mary Etta Gee

7-54. Mary Etta Gee (b. May 2, 1867, d. Apr 27, 1916) was a devoted daughter, a gracious and generous lady. She married

Jan 6, 1904, Washington (Wash) C. Winn (b. Sep 1, 1846, d. 1919) of Pleasant Grove, Lunenburg Co., VA. "Pleasant Grove being the name of his farm, home, and post office there. (See Arvin, p. 122.) Wash and Etta were distant cousins. Her maternal grandmother was Harriet Hardy Winn whose sister was Frances E. Winn. The latter married Edmund P. Winn. Frances and Edmund were the parents of Wash. To clarify or confuse the issue further, the father of Frances and Harriet also was named Edmund Winn (see 1810 Census, WB #13, pp. 137 and 187, also DB #35, p. 111, Lunenburg Co.). Wash had been married previously and had six children by that marriage (see p. 199, Vol. II, OFS. In this reference his middle initial is listed incorrectly as "E". It should be "C"). Art Danforth's A Winn Family Story, the ancestors and all identified descendant of Llewellyn Parks Winn 1841-1923 with historical, social and geographic background, © 1986 gives the history of this family. Llewellyn Parks Winn was an older brother of Wash.

Wash was a farmer, merchant, and dealer in horses and mules. For many years he was a member of the Co. Board of Supervisors and had been a delegate to the Virginia General Assembly in the session 1883-84. He and Etta had a lovely home and enjoyed extensive traveling. Both were buried in the family cemetery at Pleasant Grove. It is located on State Route 626 about a mile east of its intersection with Route 40.

Robert Edward Gee

7-56. Robert Edward (Eddie) Gee (b. May 8, 1870, d. Jan 4, 1936) married Nov 4, 1903 at Greenville Co., VA, Ella Randolph Harris (b. Aug 21, 1878 in Greenville Co, d. Nov 21, 1961), sister of Dr. T. C. Harris and Mary "Mamie" Ritcher Harris (see 7-55 and 7-57) and daughter of James E. Harris & Frances Ann Williams of Greenville Co., VA. Initially, Eddie was a farmer and lived just south of and on land adjacent to the home place. W. D. Tomlinson owned the farm for many years and today Eugene Marker owns it. Also, Eddie owned and operated a country store. It was located at the intersection of Jonesboro Road and the lane to his home. The building is still standing. The business operated under the name of Gee-Harris and Company. There are receipts from 1906 to 1909, but we do not know when it actually opened or closed. After his father's death, Eddie pulled the aching teeth (Louise Thomas, his daughter, now has these forceps) while his mother administered to the sick of the neighborhood. Judge William R. Barksdale appointed him as one of two Commissioners of the Revenue, Lunenburg Co. on Aug 30, 1907. He held this job for many years. Then when a reorganization consolidated the two into a commissioner and a deputy, Eddie applied for the latter and held the office until his death. He was, also, a vice-president of the State Bank of Kenbridge before becoming a director in the Bank of Lunenburg. Also, he was associated with the OK Tobacco Warehouse in Kenbridge. In 1916, they moved to Kenbridge and lived there for the remainder of their life. A letter that has survived the years, follows:

> Lochleven, VA.
> 10/30/03
> My dearest Nellie:
>
> [Sic] Your letter rec'd tonight and I was very glad to hear from you again. It is true I rec'd your letter on Tues. but it look like it had been a whole month since that time. I had began to imagine every sort of thing; was afraid you were sick and the rest would not let me know of it.
> Well Dr. H has everything in readiness to start early tomorrow for Greenville, so if there is nothing to come in tonight you will see him before this reaches you. Hope nothing will prevent his going as I am very anxious to him to honor us with his presence. I don't know of anyone that I would rather be there. Of course I leave out my mother when I say that but I know it is impossible for her to go. She could not stand the trip, even by rail it would be too much for her as she tires so easy. Today is her 66th birthday, hope she may be spared to us for many more. No one ever had a better one or a truer Christian never lived. I know we have fell far short of what she has tried to make us.

I am glad to know that Mr. Harris spoke to Mr. Short about getting our license and hope he rec'd my letter also.

I am sorry so many people are disappointed in our plans but wouldn't have them other than they are for twice the cost of a show, so they suit us and the others will have to be content with them as we have plan.

As Dr. H has decided to go I suppose you may expect Gertie on Tuesday night unless the weather is bad. She is very anxious to go and I know she will enjoy the trip. She was down here yesterday and I think her visit was more to see if Dr. H was going than to see any one.

I have gotten everything in the best shape I could around the house but it is for from what I had hoped for. Will leave it as it is and let you superintend the rest.

I am afraid I will have to have a well dug yet. Don't like the one I have as it takes too long to get a bucket of water.

I suppose you have seen Mr. Howie by this time and have arranged with him to bring your trunks etc. You and he can decide on the day and I will have them met on that day.

I told Bess not to go to any trouble about the supper but, just a plain one. Don't suppose there will be anyone there but Gertie, Garland, Bess & Tom (except Mamie & Willie) unless Dr. H. and Josie can be there.

I certainly hope we will have a pretty week for our marriage. Ma has just said, "Wish we had set this week" as it was such a pretty one. You may expect me down in due time no matter how the weather is. I am getting very impatient for the day to come for me to go and claim my little darling but it drags so slowly. Four more long days. You must try not to be excited and you will go through all right. I may make a blunder myself but others have done so.

Well I will have to bring my last letter to a close as there is nothing that will interest you.

With dearest love,

Yours truly

R. E. Gee

Virginia Louise Gee – Born May 30, 1920

Early life on the farm is quite hazy. Entered one room school on Jack Robertson's farm (Misses Judith & Loretta Robertson's father) in fall of 1914. Four mile walk each way and was allowed to go only when weather was good. Hence, poor attendance record. Miss Mamie Caffrey of Bumpass, VA was teacher. She later married Mr. John Wingold and died quite young – mother of Conrad, Raymond and Charles. The next year Woodrow School was built but was not ready in time so went back to old school with Miss Sara White as teacher. She later married Mr. Sam Inge and was mother of Virginia Eddins and Laverna Crowder. After a few weeks we changed to Woodrow School (between Billy Gee's and Cordles – much shorter walk). This was fall of 1915 and in December 1915 we moved to Kenbridge. Grandmother Gee had died in the 1912-14? era. During the last several years we were on the farm I remember Daddy getting up around 4 AM each morning and riding horseback to Kenbridge to work in OK Warehouse. Market ran from September to May during that era. In addition to Bob (the old white riding horse) we had a pair of mules, which in addition to farm duties, pulled a surrey with the fringe on top on Sundays to church at Fletchers (sic) Chapel and to visit relations and neighbors.

Daddy also rode Bob all over the lower end of Lunenburg County at list taking time and he knew all the back paths and short cuts from one farm to another. Of course he was able to get many of the lists as he ran into the people around the warehouse and other places in the town.

I entered school in Kenbridge in January 1916 (4th grade, I believe). Mrs. Harvey Crowder was teacher. About 1919 Daddy made arrangements to ride with Mr. John R. Edmonds to take lists. Mr. Edmonds was tax collector and had bought a Model T Ford. I got to go along occasionally and soon was driving and got quite proficient in navigating the unimproved roads. This arrangement lasted for a couple of years and then Daddy bought a Model T and we sold Bob. The mules, no doubt, had been sold when we left the farm as well as other livestock except one cow, which I pastured, fed and milked until I finished High School in 1923.

Meantime, Louise, you came along in 1920. About the same time we got electric lights and inside plumbing. Electric current from 5 PM to 11 PM only and water for plumbing, all hand pumped by me. As long as I could run the tank over each day it wasn't too bad but once behind for any reason, it was an ordeal. When it came time for me to go away to school, then we got a windmill, which was jointly owned by Daddy and our neighbor, Mr. W. D. Hardy.

GEO. E. ALLEN
LAWYER
VICTORIA, VIRGINIA

October, 6th, 1914.

Mr. R. E. Gee,
Gig, Virginia.

Dear Mr. Gee:

I have your letter relative to the pig which I ran over several days ago. I had not written the negro anything about the pig, because I did not know whose pig it was.

I do not think I am liable to pay for this pig for the reason that the accident was unaviodable, and was wholly due to the fact that the pig was in the middle of the public road, together with several other pigs of the same size. Had there been only one pig in the road, I could have avoided running over it, but there were several, I think something like a half a dozen in a bunch, in the middle of the road, and when I ran up they all scattered, and it was almost impossible to keep from running over one of them. If I had seen the pigs in the road far enough ahead, and had not been running quite so fast, I might have stopped, but I did not see them until I was close to them, and it was too late to stop. The pigs scattered as I ran up, and I undertook to go between them as nearly as possible. The pig that I ran over kept straight down the middle of the road, I undertook to straddle him, but after the car got over him, he evidently dodged to one side, and the rear wheel stroke him. I do not think I am liable to pay for the pig, but in as much as the negro lost his pig I am willing to pay a reasonable price, but I am not willing to pay $5.00, because the pig was very small, and was not worth certainly any more than half that amount. If the negro will accept $2.50, I will send him a check for it, and that is all I am willing to do, because I do not feel that it was my fault that the pig got killed. They were scattered all over the road, and there was no way to get around them, and I sometimes wonder why I did not run over more. That was porbably due to the fact that I tried to run between them as nearly as possible.

I appreciate your letter, and anything that you can do to settle the matter amicably will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,

Geo. E. Allen.

BARNES FAMILY

Gene is the son of Edgar Littleton Barnes (b. 1863, d. 1919), [son of Asa George Barnes (b. 1821, d. 1899) and Missouri Clarkson Bridgforth (b. 1825, d. 1881)] and Daisy Love Gregory (b. 1878, d. 1968) [daughter of William Henry Gregory (b. 1844, d. 1896) and Jennie Elizabeth Walker (b. 1847, d. 1896)]. William Henry was the son of James Craig Gregory (b. 1813, d. 1880) and Harriet F. Coleman. James Craig was the son of Richard Claiborne Gregory and Frances Craig. Jennie Elizabeth Walker is the daughter of Richard E. Walker (b. 1800, d. 1881) and Martha H. Phillips (b.1804, d. 1861).

Helen and Gene bought the "Liberty Hall Farm" in 1944 where they farmed, raising bright leaf and dark tobacco and specializing in the cattle business. Helen was in the Holly Manor Nursing Home in Farmville, VA, a number of years before she died. Gene visited her almost every Sunday until his death.

This a good place to break away from the listing of descendants to tell about this farm.

"Liberty Hall"
Also, known as the "Old Webb Plantation".

Although "Liberty Hall" has not been in the family continuously, this farm has played a role in the life of many family members. More research is needed to determine exactly when and who built the house. In any event, the Barnes bought the farm in 1944 and removed the old, drafty, pre-Civil War house constructed by our Winn or Webb ancestors and built a modern home on the site for their use. At an earlier date, this was the home of Garner Webb and Harriet Hardy Winn where Mary Frances Webb (born 1837), Grandma Molly, had grown up, where Edward Crymes Gee and Molly were married and probably where they lived for a short while. There was a building in the yard, always called 'the office' and according to tradition, was built to be Dr. Gee's office.

The last Webb to own the farm was John Armstead Webb (Molly's brother) whose children included "Dick Webb", a familiar and much loved figure on the streets of Kenbridge for many years. John Armstead Webb sold the farm in 1908 and moved into town—on 5th Avenue. (see the Webb Family in Appendix). A few years later, in 1914 Reason Carter Saunders bought this farm from a Mr. Hatchet. From this Saunders family of thirteen children there were two sons to marry Gee girls, Ellen and Ruth, daughters of Thomas Garner Gee (7-591). These Gee girls were granddaughters of Molly and Edward Crymes Gee. In 1939, the farm was again sold out of the family only to be bought in 1944 by Helen and Gene Barnes, yet another member of this family, a great granddaughter, (Mary Frances Webb, Carry Gertrude Gee, Percy Bland Bailey, Helen Gee Bailey). With the death of Helen Barnes the farm was again sold out of the family, to Tommie Hite, however not a complete stranger, since he is related to the Barnes.

He was released on Dec 31, 1918. His Veteran's Administration number is XC 26 831 945. No issue.

His associates can best tell Ed's character, personality, and achievements. W. E. Neblett, former Commonwealth Attorney of Lunenburg wrote, "I knew Ed very well at Washington and Lee, as a native of this Co., a returned soldier, and a member of the football squad of 1919. As I recall distinctly, Ed had the most perfect physic I have ever seen. He was about 6 feet, 4 inches tall, weighed about 220 pounds and one of W&L's outstanding football players. This was the year we defeated Georgia Tech 3 to 0 on a drop kick as a result of Ed's hitting the backfield man so hard that he lost the ball. At an earlier date, we defeated VPI by the same score. This was W&L's outstanding team over the years. Ed was cited as one of the outstanding linesman along with our good friend, the late Turner Bethel, of either the Atlantic or Southern Conference. I think he was also cited on one of the All-American Teams for that year. Some of the other outstanding players (as I recall) were the late Paul Sanford, linesman; Jimmy Maddox, quarterback; Monk Maddox, halfback and end; the late Hunter Barrow, linesman; and others. These men were almost worshipped by the student body and the citizens of Lexington, although these students always carried their successes with the humblest humility. Ed graduated in the class of 1920 as a superior student; later he married Miss Eggleston, the sister-in-law of our beloved, late Judge Robert (Bob) Hutchinson of the adjoining Circuit Court of Charlotte Co., and they resided in the city of Richmond, Virginia where Ed was most successful in the real estate and insurance business. Ed's biographical sketch, which appeared in the 1920 CALYX, the Washington and Lee annual publication, follows: "Among the Freshmen of 1915 there appeared a big, husky ministerial student by the name of Ed Bailey. Washington & Lee congratulated herself on having splendid prospects for another good football man, but Ed failed to show up for practice on the grounds that he thought his efforts in the beginning might be best spent in establishing his reputation with the Faculty. He found time, however, to go out for track and made the team his freshman year. He also made the football team in 1917-'18. On account of the war he found it necessary to leave the University for aviation school and served for several months as Second Lieutenant and pilot in the Aviation Corps. He entered the University again January 1919, and made his place as right guard on the 1919-'20 Generals. "Big" Bailey is famous for a healthy appetite, dancing, and extemporaneous football speeches in which he invariably says, "It seems to me the whole student body is behind this movement."

8-573. James (Jim) Garland Bailey (b. Apr 15, 1896, d. Nov 27, 1918). Jim was a happy, full of fun, young man who loved and was loved by all who knew him. Jim's flu developed into pneumonia that had in those days a fatality rate of about 100% among those so affected. Franklin Bailey, brother of Ruby (see 8-571), was a pallbearer at Jim's funeral—a cold rainy day. Exactly one week later, Franklin was dead from the same thing. J.W. [7-58] and Mamie Gee at Their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Upon graduation, he entered the ministry of the Methodist Church. He was ordained at Prospect Methodist Church. He retired after 48 years of active work in the VA Conference and lived in Norfolk until his death.

In the 1960 Journal of the Virginia Annual Conference, The United Methodist Church in the Memoirs (In Memory of Those Persons Related to the Virginia Conference Who Died During the Year), his life was acknowledged:

JOHN WILLIAM GEE
By Edgar A. Potts

For forty-eight years the Virginia Conference was blessed with the stalwart and effective ministry of the Reverend John William Gee. Tall—physically and spiritually—he exerted a beneficent leadership among his brothers of the laity and clergy. Twice, he was elected as a member of the General Conference; and for thirty years, he was a member of the Virginia Conference Mission Board. His executive ability and heart of compassion was clearly demonstrated as he helped to allocate and mail punctually checks of aid to fellow ministers on mission charges.

Brother Gee was born in Lunenburg Co., Virginia, March 3, 1875. He was the son of Dr. Edward Crymes Gee and May Frances Webb Gee. Theirs was a large family, with a warmth of hospitality generated from true Christian conviction and practice. The neighbors and friends were constant visitors. The proverbial circuit preacher made this his home headquarters on his rounds. Godly parents and the influence of these ministers made a timid lad feel the call of God. At the age of 21 he was recommended by the Lunenburg Quarterly Conference, and offered himself at the District Conference at Prospect, Virginia for Local Preacher's license. This was granted May 8, 1896. He was ordained Deacon at Norfolk Virginia, 1900, and in 1904 was ordained Elder. He brought to this ministry a well-trained mind, having received his formal education through the public schools, Hoge Academy at Blackstone, Randolph-Macon Academy at Bedford, and Randolph-Macon College from which he graduated in 1900 with the A. B. degree.

In 1902 he made a wise choice of a capable and devoted wife, Mary Richtor Harris, who proved an able helper throughout his ministry. To this union was born three loyal children: J. W. Gee, Jr., Mary Frances Gee, and Margaret—now Mrs. W. B. Tucker, Jr.—all whom survive. The same Christianity and hospitality, which pervaded the home of his parents, was characteristic of this dedicated home.

The following charges were served: Richmond County, W. Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Carterville, Prospect, Franktown, Lawrenceville, McKendree in Norfolk, Onley, Drakes Branch, Capeville, Prospect, McKenney, Chesterfield Heights in Norfolk.

In 1948 he moved to Pinewell, the location of homes in Norfolk provided for retired ministers. For several years he was in good health and became the volunteer and efficient helper of all other families in these homes. He was in constant demand for the supply of pulpits until he was no longer physically able to meet the call.

On December 15, 1959 he answered the call of God to leave a worn-out body and come up higher, and his graduation service was conducted in Norfolk by his pastor, John W. Hendricks, and Edgar A. Potts. Here, the latter gave this tribute:

"If I kept silence at this point, I have a feeling I would be lacking in gratitude and 'the very stones would cry out.' In 1937-40 Brother Gee and I served adjoining pastorates in the Farmville District. An abiding friendship was formed from which I received lasting benefits. He has made an impression on my ministry. This friendship grew out of a genuine respect and admiration for him as a rugged personality, an independent thinker, a tireless worker, and a thoroughly dedicated servant of God.

"What the Lord said of Nathaniel could be well said of Brother Gee, he was a man in whom there is no guile.' He "was what he was" –no pretense whatever, for he was every bit a man. He told you what he thought without any evasion or subterfuge. He knew to whom he believed and what he believed. What he believed was good. That; he talked, preached and lived. He was clean in his personal life, humble before God, and both positive and fearless before men. When he spoke his conviction there was no question where he stood..."

Thomas Garner Gee

7-591. Thomas (Tommy) Garner Gee (b. Jan 16, 1877, d. Oct 7, 1967), our grandfather, was born in the northeast corner of Lunenburg County at the family home located on Cedar Creek Road, the ninth child and fourth son of Edward Crymes Gee and Mary Frances Webb. Tom or Tommy, which were names by which he was called by his family, was a twin. When he and his twin, James J., were about six weeks old they had pneumonia and whooping cough. James did not survive, dying March 6, 1877. Tommy was given up for dead but then his oldest sister, Nannie, picked him up; he coughed and immediately began to get better.

In November of 1882, when Tommy was about five and a half years of age, the family moved to the home on Jonesboro Road, He had many vivid memories of his home life. Within a year, he started to public school. His first school was located across from the Hunter Gee home. At first, it was one room and the teacher was Miss Ginny (Virginia Webb) who was a first cousin and who later married Tommy's brother, Dr. Everette Webb Gee. Later, another room was added and Miss Emily Hamlin, a daughter of Billy Hamlin came there to teach. The two classes were not graded. Those children from up the road went to Miss Ginny's room and those from down the road went to Miss Emily's room.

In time Tommy went to Parson Irby's school (about 4 miles from home, past Mr. Merlin Laffoon's old home and over the creek) for one and a half sessions. Parson Irby was the victim of many jokes. He owned a farm and would go home at any hour to check on things there. One incident which Tommy relished telling was about Mason Maddox and Robert Hazelwood who used to 'fret' Willie, his brother. They had to cross on a pine log going and coming over the creek. Once Willie, on a winter afternoon, let them walk up behind him on the log. He jumped right hard and made them fall in the creek. "Now I'm even with you," he declared. The second year the students decided not to come back after Christmas and so school broke up.

Each morning Tommy had chores to do such as make fires, draw water and feed the hogs. They had thirty to thirty-five hogs. He especially liked this job and would have liked to raise hogs on a larger scale. He also helped to take care of the store that was primarily tended by the children. When he was old enough, he enjoyed making the twice-weekly jaunt to the Blackstone depot to pick up merchandise.

Tommy loved to tell about making bread pills for his father's patients who "thought" they were sick. Buddy had taught him this art. Sometimes Tom was asked to bring the real medicine for Dr. Gee to dispense. It was kept in a chest with a secret compartment for the medicine. Laura Gee Parrish is now the keeper of this piece of furniture that was a vital part of Molly and Edward Crymes Gee's home. (see picture of Laura and chest.)

Buddie left home when Tommy was about nine years old to go to the Medical College in Richmond. He had read medicine from his father's books for about a year. He would cure tobacco as he studied. He went on to have a fine practice in Richmond. When Buddie left, it became Tommy's job to cure the tobacco. He remembers curing 27 barns the first year. Flue tobacco was handled like dark tobacco then.

He stopped school shortly after his father died, at around 17 years old. He had always enjoyed anything involved with helping his father in his medical practice, and he would have liked to go to medical school. After his father's death, some of the family felt that he was needed at home. He, Eddie and Frank took over the management of the farms at that time.

Tom moved to his own home in 1900, a farm adjoining the home property and formerly known as the Maddox Homestead. It contained approximately 150 acres (LC DB 47/257, dated Dec 1, 1898). This is the place where Edward B. (Uncle Ned) and Rebekah Maddux Gee are buried. Also, this is probably where his parents had lived when they were first married. John Hazelwood helped him with farming the first year he moved there. For this year John lived elsewhere. Then, the second year William Phillips and family lived on the farm with him. They occupied a log tenant house down the branch from the crossing over to the other part of the farm, which section was later owned by Hunter Gee, his son. Mrs. Phillips did some housekeeping and cooking for Tom, as well.

On April 16, 1902 (BC MR 8/36, license returned Apr 17, 1902), Thomas Garner Gee married Bessie Bell Pritchett (b. Sep 2, 1879, d. Jun 13, 1934). They had met when she was about 16 years old at a party at the Justice home (above Nannie and Armstead Watkins' on the old road, now replaced by Cedar Creek Road). She was the daughter of Moses Pritchett (see Pritchett family in Appendix) and Mary Ann Hughes Burroughs Kennedy. The name Thomas Garner Gee was mistakenly recorded Thomas Garland Gee).

Thomas Garner [7-591] and Bessie Bell Pritchett Gee

Bessie was born on the family farm across the road and down from Macedonia Methodist Church (today known as the Lonnie Laffoon farm and owned by his daughter). Her father died in 1889 when she was only 9 years old.

She went to school to Miss Betty Bailey. As a student, she lived there much of the time. (Jim Bailey and one son were living at home alone. He encouraged his daughter, Miss Betty, to stay at home and operate a school. Tuition was $3 a month, including room and board. Actually it all went to tuition. Mr. Bailey just gave them room and board because he was so anxious to keep his daughter happy. His brother was Garland Bailey who married Gertie Gee, Tommy's sister.) Bessie went to school there two years and then Miss Betty got married. After that, Bessie stayed at home with her mother and two brothers.

Tommy and Bessie started seriously dating about two years before they married. They went to church together every Sunday (Rocky Run, Macedonia and Providence). They would visit in the neighborhood or in her parlor. When there was a party they would go together. They would go somewhere almost every night during Christmas. There was no money for gifts. They became engaged shortly before getting married. They did not tell anyone but everyone was wondering and asking when it would be.

On the Friday before they were to be married on Wednesday, Tom took Bessie with her Aunt Betty Kennedy to catch the night train to Richmond. This required a change in Petersburg. Bessie and her aunt had gone a few days earlier than the wedding because the bride needed to shop for clothes. They stayed at the home of a Methodist minister, W. W. Lear, who was a friend of the family. He was the minister at Centenary Methodist Church and officiated at their wedding.

Those present for the ceremony on the appointed day were Ma, brother Buddie and his wife, Jenny, Eddie, another brother, and her Aunt Betty. After the ceremony, Tom hired a driver and buggy to take them to the Byrd Street Train Station. This cost him $2.50 for the day so he left it for Buddy to use the rest of the day. Then, they took the train back to Blackstone accompanied by Eddie and Aunt Betty. As planned, William Phillips brought the horse and buggy to meet the bride and groom. They went to the Pritchett home arriving in time for dinner. There, they had a wagon waiting to pick up her possessions and then they went to their new home.

Bessie had bought a bed while in Richmond and Tommy had bought other household furniture at Blackstone.

Tom and Bessie began to improve the residence. In 1906, they added one room and hall upstairs and enlarged the room downstairs by 24 feet, using heart pine. Tom Ragsdale who lived where the Cordle's place is today and Caliph Moore did most of the work. They tore down a chimney containing a brick inscribed "1823—Moore" and fireplace in the large west room and installed a window. They then used the brick from this chimney to make a chimney for the new room. As the family grew they added by 1910 a two-story section to the front consisting of five rooms and two large halls with a staircase. There was a large front porch and a side porch added. Four English walnut trees were planted in the front yard that grew to overhang and shade the porch, making this a favorite place to enjoy warm weather visiting.

In this home were born in order: Susie (1903), Hunter (1904), Ellen (1907), Ruth (1909), Jimmy (1912), Everette "Tiny" (1916), and Fred (1919).

Some time after Tom and Bessie's marriage, her brothers, Jessie and Hunter Pritchett, went to Kenbridge to go into business with their uncle, W. F. Kennedy. Grandma Anne left the farm to live with her sons. Tom and Bessie bought the 'Moses Pritchett Tract' of 157 acres for $2,750, deed signed Jan 1, 1912 (BC DB 63/193). The saw timber was reserved on 117 acres. It was described: In Red Oak Magisterial District, with boundaries, North- "Two Notch Road, East- Edward Barrow, South- Waqua Creek, West- Road from Waqua Creek to "Two Notch Road". The purchase was made because it was undecided where a school would be built (near Macedonia or near the Cordles). They would have moved to this place if the school had been built there. The school was placed near Cordles'. It opened circa 1915 and was named Woodrow School after the 28th President, Woodrow Wilson, who served from 1913--1921. W. F. Kennedy notarized the signatures of J. W. and Mrs. Pritchett on Feb 9, 1912. Milton Watkins moved to the Pritchett farm and stayed for one year. He was not interested in buying. After two years, Tom put both of his farms up for sale expecting to sell only one—the one that commanded the best price. He ended up selling the Pritchett place. Stanley Mayton and his brother buying 40 acres of it for $700. The rest was sold to Lonnie Laffoon for $2550 (BC DB 63/193, dated Dec 26, 1913). The deed stated that a burial plot, 20 sq ft, and right of way from public road, was reserved. R. E. Gee notarized Thomas Gee's signature.

Tom was not an enthusiastic farmer; he would have preferred to become a doctor. Although he was convinced that he should stay home and help with running the farm when his father died, he probably regretted it. He would get really excited about any opportunity to help out where doctoring was needed. One such opportunity came during the Flu Epidemic in 1919. All of his immediate family managed not to catch the infection, but all around him were people who were very ill and needed attention. Many people were afraid to go near the sick but Tom saw this as an opportunity, which he relished. He armed himself against the virus by chewing a wad of tobacco and smoking a cigar (no doubt, homemade and strong). His tenant farmer and family had it and all at the Milton Watkins' home were sick. These people needed to have water, wood, and care for the farm animals as well as individual care. He did not hesitate to offer help and later would tell about it with pride. Winston Watkins remembers being told this by his parents and how much they appreciated the risk he was willing to take.

The family life was very much like all other farm families in the area at that time. There were cows to be milked (Ellen even made the newspaper when she learned to milk while still quite young), mules for farm chores and a horse to pull the family buggy. A stable for the farm animals and to house the hay was just down the farm road from the house There was an orchard near the house and a kitchen garden. Tom's favorite vegetable was the black-eyed pea so there was always a large patch of peas as well as tomatoes and other vegetables. Among the dependencies directly behind the home there was a well and smoke house to cure and keep pork. Pigs were killed and the meat prepared in the winter months to prevent spoiling. 'Hog killing time' was a time when neighbors would help each other out and make a 'social gathering' of the day. Further out, there was an icehouse, which was filled each winter to provide ice in the summer to keep food cold and to be able to prepare delicious hand turned ice cream. (Note: Ruth can remember one time that her mother went down into the ice house, became frightened at the depth and refused to climb out until Tom came to assist her.) They also grew larger crops of tobacco, corn and wheat for farm use and for sale. There were tobacco barns for curing grouped near the creek

By the early 1930's, the family offspring were leaving to go to work or, in the case of the girls, to get married. Fred, the youngest, was the only child at home. Hunter married and lived at home and farmed with his dad for a year or so. Bessie's health was declining. She had a thyroid problem (goiter), and then had a stroke, which took her life in 1934 at age 54.

By now, his brother Eddie owned a large portion of the farm, and so Tommy gave up the home soon after the death of Grandmother Bessie. Daughter, Ruth, and her husband, Clyde, purchased part of it. Hunter and Sarah purchased the other part and Tom went to make his home with them, although he often visited other of his children's families and stayed for brief periods.

Eventually, he accepted the responsibility of caring for an elderly and infirm gentleman and lived with the family. He found it a most satisfying arrangement. Probably his first "patient" was a Mr. William Smith, who gave him a book entitled Tony's Scrap Book by Anthony Wons and inscribed it with these words, "To Mr. Thomas Gee, a great help in my trouble; from Wm Smith, April 7, 1944. This book is now in the possession of Marian S. Kessler. Other "patients" included a Mr. Elmore, Holland Hawthorne, his niece's husband, and Austin Bridgforth. In each instance he became a part of the family and especially enjoyed the children in each home.

After the untimely death of his son, Hunter, Tommy made his home with his daughter, Ellen, and her family until he needed professional nursing care and entered a nursing home in Kenbridge where the family visited him regularly. Tommy and Bessie are buried in the Kenbridge Heights Cemetery (Bessie was originally buried in the garden cemetery at the Armstead Watkins' Garden Cemetery but later was moved to Kenbridge). Susie made her home at Church Road with her youngest daughter, Etta, during her last years where she enjoyed visits from all the members of her family. Her first child describes her mother:

My Mother
By Elizabeth Plummer

My Mother was always up when I went to bed and when I awakened in the morning. There was always a fresh flower with the dew on the flower each AM when she had blooming plants. She was busy from morning 'til night. She swept behind anyone and everyone--those in the household or visitors. She loved music, flowers, her family, a clean house, reading her Bible, ham, new potatoes and cabbage.

Susie Gee (Saunders) [8-591]

I received a letter from my mother each and every week from the time I went to Richmond to school, in Sep., 1942, until her death, June 1981. Never a copy; it was written just to me. She was the best cook; delicious meals made from nothing (many times) always three meals each day served at the table. She made light rolls each day; hot for lunch in the summer; hot for supper in the winter; cooked always on the wood stove. Her stovetop was kept absolutely clean; would shine always. She cooked her lunch before going to church each Sunday. This was her social for the week. She loved staying afterwards to visit. I wished for a special time with her as an adult. She would not stay with me—too far from home. A great mom and lady."

Etta- "The Missing Limb"
By Patsy Saunders Vineyard

There were nine limbs on the family tree
Now there are only eight;
When we look up at the missing limb
It makes many, many hearts break.

The missing limb was not always strong
It had many obstacles to overcome;
But it never gave up the fight
Although the battle was not won.

The missing limb never put on airs
It was never showy or vain;
But was always there with an outstretched arm
For anyone caught in the rain.

Even though the limb is no longer there
Its four branches are reborn,
They will become limbs on a family tree
With branches of their own.

Now these four limbs will all grow to be Good and brave and kind;
And the missing limb looking down from above
Will see that its family tree is fine.

For the remaining eight limbs of the original tree
Things will never be the same;
There will always be a hollow spot
And the missing limb- they will forget not.

Ellen Morton Gee [8-593]

Ellen Morton Gee

By Dottie Niélsen, daughter

Ellen Morton Gee was born May 30, 1907, to Thomas and Bessie Gee, on a farm in Lunenburg County. She was Number 3 of 7 children. She started school at the Tyler Hawthorne School. She then spent nine years at Woodrow School and graduated from Danieltown High School.

Ellen and Carter were married April 25, 1930, by Rev. A. W. Roten at the Methodist parsonage in Alberta, VA. They bought a farm in Lunenburg County near Kenbridge where they resided for 50 years. They had five children and educated them in the fields of their endeavor. In 1980 they sold the farm and moved to Richmond where Ellen still resides.

When I think of Ellen, I see her:
in her big straw hat picking strawberries, grapes or vegetables from the garden;
with a basket of clothes, hanging them on the line to dry;
with a basket of eggs, fresh from the hen house;
with a pan of feed for the chickens that they raised for food;
in the kitchen, cooking meals for family, helpers and relatives;
preparing fruits and vegetables for canning and freezing;
shucking and silking corn in the early morning to take to the cannery; always busy with chores to do. BUT, she also had time for fun;
sitting on the lawn visiting with friends and relatives;
playing Rook and being very competitive!
This was life on the farm in the 40's and 50's.

Ellen and Carter's home was always open to family and friends. She never knew who would be present at mealtime; but there was always plenty of food. There were always extra kids around. Some of her nieces and nephews would come and stay the summer. The neighborhood kids were in and out and there was much activity. And Ellen and Carter loved it all.

Ellen is a special person. She was active in the Home Demonstration Club. She was a member of Macedonia United Methodist Church and played piano for services and was active in the United Methodist Women.

She has been an inspiration to all of her children and to others. And she is a second mother and grandmother to many. When Carter died in 1994, she took that in stride. She has been a real rock; and when Charles was going through his bout with cancer, she did everything in her power to make him comfortable.

Ellen and Carter enjoyed traveling and made many trips to Wisconsin to visit Anne and family and to Oklahoma to visit Lawrence and family. They visited Charles in England, and they visited Fred and family in Puerto Rico, Miami, Las Vegas and Los Angeles. They traveled to Hawaii and in later years made annual trips to Myrtle Beach for family vacations.

Ellen is now 93 and still lives alone. She still loves to travel and at the age of 92 she flew to Oklahoma and Georgia, and made driving trips to Greensboro, NC, Pigeon Forge, TN and Myrtle Beach, SC.

Her favorite pastime now is watching her great-grandchildren, and they keep her very active. There are now 35 on her family tree and each of these branches has its own story to tell about this wonderful mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, friend, and companion.

Ruth Garner Gee

8-594. Ruth Garner Gee, the 4th child and 3rd daughter of Thomas Garner Gee and Bessie Bell Pritchett, was born December 23, 1909 in Lunenburg Co., VA. She grew up there with her six brothers and sisters. {See Thomas Garner Gee (7-59) for additional narrative about her home}

Ellen Morton [8-593] and Ruth Garner Gee [8-594]

When Ruth was of school age, she went to Woodrow School located through the woods from their home on the Jonesboro Road. The walk was not too far and she enjoyed many good times there. Apparently she and her siblings did very well in the learning category. Suggesting 'sour grapes', a student who had not done so well commented when the honor roll was displayed, "You can call it the honor roll but I call it the Gee roll!"

Ruth, along with her older siblings, went to Danieltown HS after completing the 7th Grade at Woodrow School. They went by buggy to Dundas, leaving the horse for the day at Carter Moore's stable. Quite often they would stop in at the Moore home for a brief visit in the afternoon and Mrs. Moore would offer them a snack, such as a baked sweet potato. Their daughter Gladys was also a student and rode with them on the 'bus' from Dundas to school in Danieltown.

This 'bus' was a converted harvest truck with a homemade top to keep out the elements. Apparently the top was not too well constructed, for once in a minor accident, the top became unattached. The students responded 'in unison' and held it up until they could get to Dundas. The driver, Archer Goodwyn, a student himself, met an older brother, Turner, who, astounded and at first expecting the worst, exclaimed, "What have you done?" He was assured, by those aboard, that all was well.

Another note of interest: On this school bus ride, Theresa Malone always rode up front with the driver, Archer. They were already a twosome and would enjoy a long married life in years to come and have two daughters, Kathy and Barbara.

Ruth graduated from HS in 1927 along with her sister, Ellen. During these school years the two of them were very often together. In fact, through the years they have remained best friends. Once when I was going through some old pictures taken during their school years, I handed a group picture to Mother and commented that one of the persons was suppose to be her. She carefully looked at it and matter-of-factly stated, "It couldn't be me; Ellen is not there."

Even though they lived on a farm, they did not feel isolated for family or close friends were on adjacent farms within walking distance. Their grandparents' farm was now owned and operated by Tom's youngest brother, Frank and they had four children in their family: Frank Rives, Ned, Mae Proctor, and Billy. Across Cedar Creek, which formed one boundary line to the farm, lived Tom's oldest sister Nannie and her husband Armstead, with 5 girls: Mary, Eva, Carrie, Laura and Josie. Of course, by now these girls were older. Mary, Eva, and Josie were married and had moved to their respective homes but even so, they were not far away. Eva and her husband, Milton, lived on a portion of the original farm, later property of Nannie. They had a son, Winston, who was the same age as Ruth's younger brothers. The Mattox family lived in another direction; the Tomlison family had bought the farm given to Eddie, another of Tom's brothers, the Cordle family lived down the lane from Woodrow School. There was no shortage of young people for companionship within the community. Dundas was only a short buggy ride away where there were others, such as the Malone girls, Theresa and Virginia.

Ruth began to date Clyde Raymond Saunders sometime in the late 1920's. (Her sister Ellen was also dating Clyde's brother, Carter). Clyde was working in the Norfolk Naval Shipyard in Portsmouth and came home often, always bringing Ruth a gift, quite often candy, but also some more lasting gifts; a fountain pen set, a watch and ultimately a ruby engagement ring. The younger brothers were always anxious to know what it would be (no doubt hoping for something edible).

Soon, Clyde and a brother, Percy, assumed a farm purchased by their father; and Clyde settled into being a farmer

Ruth and Clyde were married, Dec. 21, 1930 at the Methodist parsonage in Alberta by Rev A. W. Roten (LC MR 2, 1930-1959, p. 3, # 103). They were planning a trip to Roanoke, however the weather intervened in the form of a snowstorm so they went to Henderson, NC and stayed overnight there in a hotel. From there they went to visit Clyde's sister and her husband, Bessie and Will Summers, and an aunt, Sadie Dilworth, in Burlington, NC .

Clyde had built a small house on the farm and this is where they lived for a year or more. Within a year their first of four daughters was born, Marian Elizabeth, on Oct. 8, 1931. Because of the depression Percy and Clyde soon decided to give up the debt to the Land Bank and start afresh. Clyde and Ruth rented a farm for a few years, the Bert Peace farm behind the Macedonia Church. This placed them adjacent to the Webb family, Fanny Lou and Eddie, who were related on the Webb side of the family through Grandma Molly's brother, Garner Webb.

After the death of Bessie, Ruth's mother, in June, 1934, Tom decided to give up farming. By 1936, Clyde and Ruth purchased about half of Tom's farm, approximately 75 acres. (Hunter and Sarah purchased the other half and Tom went to live with them.) They were tobacco farmers, since tobacco was the cash crop (although they did not realize much cash at this time), and raised as well corn, hay, wheat and sugar cane. Clyde also kept beehives to provide honey for household use. At times the bees were not friendly, especially to Ruth. She believed they 'laid in wait' for her.

At about the same time, Ellen and Carter had married, started a family and began a farming career, at first renting from Frank Jones and later buying the land which Clyde and Percy had relinquished. They stayed with the challenge and as times improved, were successful. The two families were close and enjoyed visiting together at least once a week. Almost every Sunday they went to Macedonia Methodist Church on the edge of Brunswick County where Ruth and Ellen had gone with their parents. Then, they would spend the afternoon together at Ruth and Clyde's home, which was also like home to Ellen. Granddaddy was often there as well.

In addition to farming, Clyde honed his electrician skills by wiring homes for electricity that was just beginning to be available throughout the area.

On July 22, 1937, Emily Pritchett was born and two years later, Betty Jean was born (June 14, 1939).

Although this was a hard time financially, living on a farm afforded a good, happy life. One tradition that came from the Gee family kitchen was that every day yeast rolls were freshly made for either dinner (eaten in the middle of the day) or supper. Ruth says she seemed to have always made the daily rolls. Probably Susie, her oldest sister, had made them when she was old enough to take on chores and then Ruth took over when she was old enough. At any rate, this tradition was carried on into the married life of these two girls—fresh rolls every day. Mae Proctor remembers trying to 'visit' just when they came out of the oven. Another family favorite was corn pudding, which was especially tasty when new corn was first available in the summer.

Another favorite of the family was her pecan pie and we always chuckled when she made it without the nuts and yet called it a Pecan Pie without the Pecans. Ruth made her own version of Fruit Cake, which she continued to make until she was in her late 80's, especially delicious with a cup of tea or coffee. Here are her recipes for these four dishes.

Fruit Cake

12 eggs
3 ½ C. white sugar
2 C brown sugar
3 sticks butter
¾ C. milk
7 ½ C. flour
3 tsp. baking powder
2 tsp salt
2 boxes seeded raisins
2 boxes of seedless raisins
1 can pineapple juice
2 pkgs English walnuts
2 pkgs pecans
1 pkg Brazil nuts
2 pkgs figs
2 pkgs dates
1 pgs candied cherries
4 grated apples
½ tsp cinnamon
½ tsp allspice
½ tsp.nutmeg
½ tsp. mace
½ tsp cloves

Soak raisins overnight in orange juice. Cream sugar, butter, eggs. Then add 3 ½ cups of flour, baking powder, salt and spices and milk gradually to egg mixture. Add remainder of flour to (4 cups) to soaked raisins. Mix well, and add nuts, figs, dates, cherries and citron. Combine both mixtures and thoroughly blend. Pour into tube pans and bake for 2 ½ hours at 225°. Start in cold oven and place pan of water in oven for steam. Makes at least two large cakes and probably a small loaf size. Allow to thoroughly cool. Then store in tight container with an apple to age.

Pecan Pie (or Pecan Pie without Pecans

1 unbaked pie shell
Cream: ½ stick of margarine and ½ c. sugar.
Mix and add: 2 eggs, pinch of salt and ½ tsp vanilla.
Add: 1 c. King syrup to cream mixture. Blend well

Arrange pecans in pie shell. Pour filling over pecans and bake. Or leave out pecans for the 2nd version.

Great's Rolls

7 cups plain flour	½ cup shortening
1 medium potato	2 ½ cups water
1 cup sugar	2 pkg yeast
1 egg (beaten)	2 tsp salt

Cook potato thoroughly in water and mash. Let cool. When just warm, add sugar, then beaten egg. Sprinkle yeast over potato water mixture and allow to sink and absorb.
Measure flour into large bowl (allowing for rising space), add salt and shortening. Work shortening thoroughly into flour with hands.
Add potato water mixture to flour mixture and work until mixed and into a ball of dough. Add flour if needed. Knead on floured board until pliable. Place back into bowl, cover with tea towel and let rise about 3 hours. Scrape down sides of bowl and form into ball. Grease baking sheets. Break off small chunks of dough (again, allowing for rising), form into flat ball, dip in melted butter and place on baking sheet. Let rise for another 2 hours. Preheat oven to 400°. Cook until golden brown. Brush with melted butter. Yield about 5 dozen. Can be frozen. Thaw and heat in foil in warm oven.

Corn Pudding

6 ears of corn (cut off)	1 tsp salt
2 eggs (beaten)	1 cup milk
¾ cup sugar	½ cup butter

In 2 quart baking dish, mix all ingredients. Bake at 350° until golden brown around edge and it shakes almost firm.

Clyde had worked at the Newport News Shipyard during the latter part of WW I and then at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard later. He had enjoyed this; actually he would have liked to go to Electrical School but took the money he had set aside for that and invested it in the farm with his brother, which they subsequently lost. When work began to pick up at Newport News Shipbuilding, Clyde again decided to check this out. He was hired as an electrician and within the year, he moved his family to Newport News. They first lived at 891 A 32nd Street in Marshall Courts, housing built by the Shipyard just to accommodate all the families that came as a result of the rush to hire the many men needed to build the ships needed for the war in Europe against Germany which was escalating and would become World War II when the US declared War after the Pearl Harbor incident in December of 1941. They were able to get one of the first houses, a duplex on the corner of 32nd Street and Wickham Avenue. Marshall Courts was made up of one-story duplexes and two story row apartments.

This was a frightening time but also an exciting time. The girls were schooled at James Madison Primary School and Walter Reed Elementary School. One of the really scary times was the day War was declared. The radio was constantly reporting what was happening—at Pearl Harbor and subsequently in Washington. On December 7, an 'Extra' edition of the paper was printed to announce to the world that the US had declared war against Japan followed by joining the allies in Europe against Germany and Italy.

For someone whose life had been pretty much confined to Lunenburg and surrounding counties, and that of a farm girl living some distance from neighbors, this was a big change and adventure for Ruth. Men from many surrounding states were drawn to Newport News to work. Also because it was a harbor, the US Armed Services was present in large numbers—Army, Marine, and Navy.

She adjusted readily and enjoyed getting to know many different people. Many people from Southside Virginia, including her brother, Tiny, had moved to the area. Marshall and Virginia Stokes and their two children, Jennie Marshall and John Maben lived near by. Also, Dorothy Laffoon and family lived in the same housing area. There were many children around so there was a wealth of playmates, a playground across the street as well as large blacktop areas for skating and biking. In time, a recreation center was built by the shipyard, just down Wickham Avenue from our apartment. Ruth Garnette was born on May 1,1943 to complete our family and, soon after, we moved to a larger apartment, 3303 B Wickham Avenue, another duplex.

With the spirit of the war times, we experienced buying savings stamps and bonds, rationing, and victory gardens. In addition Clyde was working twelve hours seven days a week to get those ships ready for the navy. Food rationing was never a big problem; however the gas rationing keep us confined to town when we would have liked to visit our country cousins near Kenbridge. Occasionally Dad was able to beg a tank of gas from his brother, Carter, who got an extra allotment because he was a farmer.

Ruth made most of the wardrobe of her four girls. She had a treadle sewing machine until she saved up enough silver dollars to buy an electric machine. (The shipyard paid their workers in cash each week and if the earned salary required that the worker be paid any single dollars, these were paid in silver coins. Mother stashed them in an old brocade purse in her trunk until she could buy the coveted sewing machine). Quite often she would buy the yardage needed for three dresses and then use the pieces left with a matching contrast to make an outfit for Garnette. Her creative designs with one pattern would make our set of clothes always unique. We may have wanted at times to just go out and buy an outfit like someone else had but it showed us the pleasure of being unique. We have never wanted to 'meet ourselves' on the street thus we look for something matchless in our choices.

With the end of the war, work slowed at the shipyard again and lay-offs followed. Clyde and Ruth returned to farm life in 1949. It took about a year to find a farm to purchase. In the interim they rented and lived at the old Garland Stokes home, Pleasant Hill, one of the homes showcased in Ante-Bellum Homes of Lunenburg by Evelyn Ferguson Arvin. Compared to the five-room apartment, this was enormous. Then, a farm was purchased and they moved to their new home near Dundas on Fairview Road.

Clyde's health was on the decline and he died in 1958 at the Medical College of Virginia (of Polycystic Kidney Disease). Ruth had to adjust to life by herself, after having always had the support of someone else. Garnette was still in high school but soon left to go to college. She continued to make her home on the farm for about 10 years and then determined it was time to sell and relocate.

She had spent a lot of time in Kenbridge caring for Le Marshall and had developed friendships there. This made for a smooth transition from the home shared with Clyde to her own place. In 1968, she built a small home on 6th Avenue in Kenbridge and moved there where she has been quite happy.

Her brother, Jimmy and his wife, Lula, purchased the adjoining lot and built their home leaving the beautiful but large and airy Brydie Homestead. With these two moves Ruth and Jimmy created a new type of brother/sister friendship that meant much to both of them. Jimmy, by this time was having health problem with emphysema that would eventually cause his death. He and Ruth would sit on their individual car ports and enjoy talking about day to day activities and also remember earlier home happenings. Jimmy was especially adept at telling stories about these family events. (Oh, to have recorded them!)

In those years, she forged a career of her own—caring for first one, and then another child. Therefore, in addition to her own four daughters, she has a special place in her heart for five little boys who have grown to be fine young men, Chuck Parrish, Le Marshall, Benjy Barnes, and Drew and John Shepherd.

Through those years, she received great satisfaction from her involvement as a member of Macedonia United Methodist Church, the church she had joined as a child and had come back to when she moved from Newport News. She served in most of the Administrative Board positions and was at times a teacher of the Women's Bible Class as well as President of the UM Women.

In December 1999, she celebrated her 90th birthday and moved into the new millennium, having experienced many changes. Now, in her golden years, she enjoys her family and friends especially Teresa Hodges who cares for her.

> With this biography of the life of Ruth Garner Gee, combined with the life history of her father, Thomas Garner Gee and that of Edward Crymes Gee, we get a story of the life and times of a family from 1837 until the year 2000. Preserved therein is a deceptively simple story, which embodies the joys and sorrows of day to day living that all together makes for a rich existence. Other family members could easily detail and then substitute their immediate ancestor and arrive at 'their' story.

This grandfather worked for the Southern Railway for 50 years. A news article by Carl Spencer on Jul 17, 1955 in the Salisbury Newspaper under "Folks You Know" told of his career. The Southern Railway honored the veteran conductor by calling him for particular trips during WW II when special passengers were on board traveling from the Little White House in GA to DC. One time was on a heavily guarded/secret trip when Winston Churchill was on board. Then, he was the conductor on the funeral train in April 1945 (from Salisbury, NC to Monroe, VA) when FDR's body was transported from Georgia where he had died to the US Capital. On this leg of the trip the train made one stop in Danville, however, throughout much of the journey, the tracks were lined with service men and women as well as civilians, standing at attention in the cities, towns and crossroads.

Jul 12, 1773 who was 30 years, as flutist, in the service to Frederick the Great in Potsdam) and Anna Rosina Carolina Hoelzel (the widow Schindler). A narrative written by Morris R. Nanney in 1965 entitled, "The Montford Cove Valley" reads, ..."From the church North on the same highway we come to the little village of the Whitehouse. The place gets its name from a large 2-story house with large chimney and probably built in the early 1800's (Date on the chimney is 1816, but it is not known if that is the date the house was built) by a Dr. Walker, painted white and the 1st house painted in the country. The paint was hauled in on a wagon from Charleston, SC. This property passed into ownership of Sylvester Mitchell and has been in the family over 100 years. Its present owner is a grandson, Robert Misenheimer of Spencer, NC. Mr. Mitchell ran a store there for quite a while, being there in the days of the Civil War. The store was sold; purchased by Govan Harris who built a new building." Update: Today the house and acreage is owned by the grandson of Robert Misenheimer, David Hillman. The cosmic store was torn down in 1970 and replaced by a concrete block structure currently owned by Donna Padgett, "Donna's General Store". She lives on the store premises.

The Teass Family

Bud is the grandson of William Hennings Teass (1872-1958) and Georgia Coleman Walker (1877-1963). William Hennings Teass was the son of James Anderson Teass (1846-1918) and Nancy Ferrell (1845-1930). James Anderson was the son of John Fariss Teass ((1812-1885) {whose father was John Teass, Jr. (1772-1842), son of Thomas Teass (1734-1821) and Catherine Ley (1741-1824)}, and Nancy Fariss. Bud's grandmother, Georgia Coleman Walker was the daughter of Alexander Smith Walker (1802-1869) and Virginia Frances Johnson (1843-1933). Alexander was the son of Dr. James Alexander Walker (1802-1869), also a graduate of Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia) and Nancy Moorman Joplin (1814-1873). Dr. Walker was the son of Robert Mumford Walker (1772-1827) {whose parents were David Walker, Jr. (1730/31-1792) and Peletiah Jones (1729-1791)}, and Mary Smith (1777-1811). Bud's maternal grandparents George Whitt (1879-1944) and Jeanette Belle Whitaker (1882-1968). George was the son of James Shelby Whitt (1848-1926) and Elizabeth Letitia Payton (1854-1900). James Shelby was the son of Thomas L Whitt (1817-1879) and Polly Brewster (1825-1849). Thomas L. Witt's parents were Abijah Whitt (1790-1831), son of Archibald Whitt (1763-1831) and Hannah Low, and Polly Lorton (b. 1792). Jeannette Belle Whitaker was the daughter of Dock Snead Whitaker (1856-1936) and Louisa Catherine Burke (1860-1905). Dock Snead was the son of James Whitaker, Jr. (1815-1856) and Nancy Pets (b. c1813). James Whitaker, Jr. was the son of James Whitaker, Sr. (1790-1856), {son of Joseph Whitaker (1750-1838)} and Sarah Hicks (b. c1809). Louisa Catherine Burke was the daughter of Margaret Catherine Griffits (1829-1911) and James Burke (1818-1888) who was the son of James Burke (1774-1856) and Anna Robinson (1789-1861).

The name, Teass, is probably of ancient Scottish, perhaps even Pictish, origins predating the Roman invasion. Their immigration to this country followed the tradition Scotch-Irish pattern through Northern Ireland and into the Delaware/Pennsylvania area and then down the valley of Virginia.

"The Bible"

The Bible teaches us to live right and to find the Way to Heaven. It has two parts, the first part is called the old Testament and the second part is called the New Testament. It teaches us how to die. The Bible was written by Holy men, God taught them what to write. It was written for every body

IX: Josephus "Scrap" William Gee

6-6. Josephus "Scrap" William Gee (b. Oct 9, 1838 in Lunenburg Co., VA, d. Jul 23, 1922 in Greenbrier Co., WV) was the sixth child of Everard Wilson Gee (Charles[4], James[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]) and Rebecca Crymes Gee (Thomas[4], Henry[3], Charles[2], Charles[1]). He married Sep 15, 1870 in Greenbrier Co., WV, Margaret (Maggie) Virginia McClintic, (b. Feb 27, 1842, Greenbrier Co., WV, d. Feb 9, 1914), the daughter of Robert McClintic (Robert[3], William[2], Alexander[1] McClintock who, with his wife Ann, immigrated to PA from Co. Tyrone, Ireland) and Mary Leonard. She was sister of Fanny, wife of Robert P. Gee, (6-4).

The life and character of Josephus can best be described using several sources. One of these is his obituary. The date of publication is unknown. Probably, it was published by the Greenbrier Independent of Lewisburg, WV.

"Joseph William Gee, an old soldier of the 'lost cause' a highly esteemed Christian gentleman, died at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, J. W. Wilkinson, July 23, 1922 after a lingering illness due to old age and infirmity, he peacefully sank to rest to await the last trumpet's call. He was born Oct 9, 1838 in Lunenburg Co., Virginia. When Virginia called for volunteers he was among the first men to enlist. Serving first under Capt. Baxter Sammons, Company E, 60th Virginia Infantry, he served thru the war, and all through the South and took part in many of the great battles; was with Lee in Maryland and Pennsylvania; was finally captured at the downfall of Richmond just prior to the surrender at Appomattox. As characteristic of the man, note what he did, when he saw that capture was inevitable. He threw his gun and accoutrements into the James River; trampled his haversack into the mud, so all that fell into the hands of the enemy—so far as Joe (Scrap) Gee was concerned was a ragged unconquered Confederate soldier. He was sent to Fort Delaware where he was held until the very last to be paroled, because he persistently refused to subscribe to the terms of parole by pledging allegiance to the U.S.

After he was released he came back to his home—the Gee farm, near Williamsburg, WV to which place the Gees had come prior to the Civil War. There he married Sep 15, 1870, Maggie V. McClintic, daughter of Rev. Robert McClintic. To this union were born six children—Lula G., Emma E. Cora E, Maggie Thornton, Robert E. and Josie S. Cora and Maggie Thornton died in infancy. He had eight grandchildren. He had long been a much-loved member of the M. E. Church South. He was a Free Mason and well versed in the teaching and mysteries of the Order. He was buried at Williamsburg, after an impressive funeral services by his pastor, Rev. E. G. Helmintoller. The remains were borne to the grave by six young Masons dressed in the regalia of the Order followed by his bright-eyed grandchildren and scores of other relatives and friends laden with beautiful flowers, which after the burial service were placed upon the grave. There were so many flowers that not only his but nearby graves were beautifully ornamented with flowers.
(Note: We are debtor to Prof. A. C. Hartford for the above account of the life and death of Mr. Gee. We had hoped and indeed arranged for a sketch of his life soon after his death but failed to get it. We are glad to publish this even at this late date after his death.)"

A second source of information, his record as a soldier in the Confederate Army from Virginia, is documented on National Archives Film 1014 and 650. He enlisted Jul 1, 1861 at Frankford. Another entry showed he enlisted Jun 19, 1861 and entered service that date at Camp 2 Mile. He was assigned to Company E, 60th VA Infantry (Wise Legion). He was promoted 4 Sergeant, Oct 32, 1864 and captured at Waynesboro, VA on Mar 2, 1865 and sent as prisoner of war to Fort Delaware, DE, arriving there on Mar 23, 1865 from Winchester, VA. His name appears as signature on an oath of allegiance to the United States subscribed to at Fort Delaware. He was released Jun 20, 1865. Physical description: Complexion-sallow; hair-light; eyes-grey; height 5'5".

Then, the third source is family. They knew him as an old man, and remember him, primarily from events related to them. According to his grandson, Dwain, on returning from the Civil War service, Josephus worked for a while at the saw mill near Ronceverte but later moved back to the Brushy Ridge farm and Robert, his brother, who had been farming the family farm, moved to Ronceverte and the saw mill. According to Cleo, a granddaughter, Josephus lived at the Brushy Ridge Farm until just a few years before his death when he went to live with his daughter, Emma Wilkinson, and her husband. According to Dwain, in whose home he spent his last year or so, he enjoyed occasional visits from a friend, who most assuredly had not always been a friend for they chose different sides in the war, but many years later they enjoyed remembering and telling stories of the war. Dwain recalls, "He could really tell them! Hound Bill McClung was in the war for the North and Grandpa was for the South. Mom would invite him up for supper and he would come and they would sit there and tell these war stories. One story he would tell: This fellow had a wooden leg; and Grandpa was on guard duty. This fellow came over and stole some horse feed. Had it in a sack on his back. Grandpa would tell that and he and Hound Bill would just laugh. I've heard him tell Hound Bill, 'I could have shot him and killed him, but I waited until he got far enough away and I knew I wouldn't kill him. Then, I shot at him. He dropped that sack and I never saw a man with a wooden leg run so fast in my life.'"

His will (GC WB 9, page 566) written Sep 7, 1918 and probated Jul 29, 1922 mentioned his four living children, Lula Hendricks, Emma Wilkinson, Josie Thrasher and Robert E. Gee and his sister Sallie Gee. Maggie and Josephus' deaths are recorded in the GC Death Index (1853-1925) in Book 3 page 6. They were buried at Andrew Chapel Cemetery. Issue: (six children)

[Dwain [8-614] described the following snapshot thus: This picture was snapped in front of the old "Gee House" on Brushy Ridge the summer of 1918 or 1919. The old hand mode "Palen" fence was around the garden. Note the hand mode hickory cane in "Grandpa's" hand he used as long as he lived. "Gene" was holding an army hat in his right hand. The old "Model T Ford" had a BRASS radiator.]

Marriage License of Rebecca Caroline [6-7] Gee and Oliver C. Barnes

X: Rebecca Caroline Gee

6-7 Rebecca Caroline Gee (b. Oct 20, 1845 in Lunenburg Co., d. Feb 2, 1920 in Nottoway Co., VA) married Dec 2, 1872, Oliver Caphart Barnes (b. c1847 in Brunswick Co., d. Sep 19, 1934 in Nottoway Co., VA). Carrie was the first child born to Everard Wilson Gee and his second wife, Martha B. Marable. "Our first child Rebecca Caroline Gee was born the 20th of October, 1845 and a fine child it was. Ripe seed in a virgin soil will produce a good crop," writes Everard Gee in his diary. This was the only daughter of E. W. Gee to live to maturity and the only child by his second marriage to leave heirs. She was known also by the name of Carrie and Carrie Rebecca. From the E. W. Gee manuscript we know that Carrie was born in Lunenburg although there is some confusion on this fact by those who were less informed, including those who made entries on her wedding license. Carrie was in WV in 1860. This is indicated in a letter headed Greenbrier Co. dated May 14th 1860 from Robert P. Gee to his brother, Dr. E. C. Gee. It reads in part, "Carrie was over to see us yesterday. She is quite well and very much pleased with-----. She sends her love to you both and says that Mollie must write and not promise all." Carrie returned to Lunenburg, date unknown, and married Oliver (Ollie) Caphart Barnes on Dec 2, 1872. See Marriage Register No. 1, page 22, Lunenburg Co., VA. The husband's age is listed as 25 years on this license. His place of birth and residence at that time is given as Brunswick Co. They were married at the home of the bride in Lunenburg. From family tradition, that home was with her brother and sister-in-law, Ned and Molly Gee. Ollie was a farmer. He and Carrie owned and lived on a farm about three miles from Blackstone and about a mile north of the Old Courthouse Road. "Often I visited there on Sunday afternoons with my parents. I loved Carrie. She was so sweet and pretty and her personality was most pleasant. Ollie was a dapper and perky individual. His white goatee made him quite distinguished looking. They appeared to be a happy couple very much in love," reported Ned Gee.

THE WEBB FAMILY

JOHN [5] WEBB

John[5] Webb (b. bef. 1772). A John Webb is listed in the land records for Lunenburg Co. in 1748 (Sunlight..p. 60) with 2 tithes. There is also a James Webb listed in 1748, 1749, & 1750. Also a Robert Webb and David Webb in 1748 and an Isaac Webb in 1772 and 1773. How and whether these persons are related to one another is not known. By 1776, John Webb is listed (p. 384) with James Webb. Then in 1783, John Webb is listed with Jordon Webb and William Webb, suggesting that James, Jordon and William are his sons. Isaac Webb is always listed separately with someone not having the name of Webb (p. 308 and 324).

In the Lunenburg Co. Records there are two wills recorded that may have some relevance. Isaac Webb's will is written in 1773 and recorded Feb 10, 1774 (LC WB 2/400) mentioned his brother John Webb and named him as the executor thus suggesting that he had no other immediate family. Second, John Webb's will was dated 23 Aug 1794 and probated 13 Sep 1804 (LC WB 6/91). He mentioned wife, Winifort, son, William Webb, daughters, Hannah Doggett, Lucy Garner, Elizabeth Brown, and grandson, John Webb. The witnesses are Arsamus Winn and Samuel Ligon.

This seems to indicate that Isaac Webb and John Webb are brothers and that John Webb had three sons, James, Jordon and William. By 1794, James and Jordon have either died or moved elsewhere, perhaps having already received their legacy. Since the will named the grandson, John Webb, that father/son had probably died. The son, William was named as an executor along with William Betts, whose relationship is a mystery. (William Betts is listed with Elisha Betts so that is probably a father /son group but their connection to the Webb family is not known). Everyone else in the listing can be accounted for in some way. Arsamus Winn would be the father-in-law to a sister of Garner Webb's wife, Harriet Hardy Winn (her sister Frances, married Edmund Winn, son of Arsamus Winn), a few years later. Samuel Ligon was probably brother to William Webb's wife, Mary, as he was listed in her father's will. These families all lived in the eastern section of Lunenburg near Hound's Creek (that flows into the Nottoway River) and Cox Road (which was the old Blackstone Road).

WILLIAM[6] WEBB

William[6] Webb was probably the son of John Webb and Winifort discussed in the preceding section. With more certainty it can be said that William lived in the second half of the 17th century and first decade of the 18th. An order dated June 12, 1812 (Order Book 21, p. 102) stated that William Webb was deceased. His widow was Mary Webb and their children were listed. Apparently he was not an old man since he left a young family. There was a daughter, Jane, who was old enough to be married. The order listed Alexander Marshall and Jane, his wife, formerly a Webb, along with Mary Webb, and the other children but does not specify that she was a daughter. However, seven children were referred to in another court order when there were only six listed. (Later, in the will of Mary's father, Richard Ligon, we learn that Jane was most surely a child as she was listed with others to receive a bequest.) Also, it is apparent that there was no will and at least five court orders were necessary to settle his estate (LC Order Book 21, p. 102, June 12, 1812; Order Book 21, p. 188, December 10, 1812; Order Book 23, p. 1, January 9, 1817; Order Book 23, p. 307, June 12, 1820 and Order Book 25, p. 97, December 13, 1824). He had died some time before the first court order in 1812 as the children were referred to as infants and orphans. Mary (Ligon) Webb, his wife, remarried on September 23, 1814 (OFS, p. 440 and also bond listed on p. 401) to Walker Dodd who was listed as guardian of the minor children in at least one of the court orders. William Webb was born about 1770 and died about 1812.

It would be timely at this point to relate what has been discovered about the Ligon family.

Mary "Polly"[6]Ligon

Known records take us back six generations in the Ligon family in the Colony of Virginia. There is a family history, The Ligon Family and Connections, by William D. Ligon, Jr. (1879-?), The Bond Press, Inc., Hartford CN. ©1947. Although interesting possibilities are presented by the author, who traced the family back from Col. Thomas Ligon, there is not enough documentary evidence to prove the forefathers he claimed. Until further research can be done, we will begin with the primogenitor in Colonial Virginia.

Col. Thomas[1] Ligon (b. c1625), came to the colony about 1641 with Governor William Berkeley. He married Mary Harris, (b. 1625 in Henrico Co.), daughter of Thomas Harris and Joane or Adria Gurganey. His service included: The House of Burgesses, 1644-1645; a Justice of the Peace in Charles City Co. in 1657; and he represented Henrico as a burgess in 1655-1656. He was a Lt. Col. in Henrico Co. Militia by 1669 and had earlier participated in the Indian Wars in which, on April 18, 1644, 300 of the colonists were massacred. Also before 1667, he was appointed Surveyor in Henrico Co. and kept that position until his death. His will was signed Jan 10, 1675, in Henrico Co. and he died between Jan 10, 1675 and Mar 16, 1676. The original of these records in Henrico (all records up to 1677 were destroyed) have not survived leaving room for conflicting conclusions. Mary signed a will Mar 18, 1703 in Henrico and died before Feb 1, 1704. Issue: (6 children, however there may have been a child, Thomas, Jr. who died young).

William[2], Johan[2], Richard[2], Mathew[2], Hugh[2] and Mary[2] Ligon.

Richard[2] Ligon (b. 1657 in Henrico Co., VA, died in 1724 in Henrico Co.) married in 1680 in Henrico Co., Mary Worsham, (b. 1660), daughter of William Worsham and Elizabeth (Littleberry) Epes (she apparently married again after William Worsham died as the name Epps was on her will.) Richard Ligon was awarded a land grant in Henrico Co: "Richard Ligon and James Eakins, Jr., 285 acres, Henrico Co., in Bristol Parish at Swift Cr., Apr 29, 1693, (p. 304). Beg. at mouth of Poplar Br. on head of Proctor's, Mr.

John Wortham and Edward Stratton, & creek. Import of 6 persons...". (a person could be granted up to 50 acres for each person they imported into the colony). He received from the estate of Mr. Thomas Lygon (his father): 1 heifer noted the brinder heifer. (Colonial Records of Henrico Co., Book 4, Orphans Court 1677-1739, p. 3, dated Aug 20 1678). He was known as "Indian Fighter". Also, he was named in his mother's will, "To son Richard Lygon, 100 acres in Henrico Co., known by the name of "Curles" joining the land of Richard Cocke; and his father's stone ring". (Will probated Feb 1, 1703/4. Adv. Of Purse of Person, p 203, 205.) Issue: (5 children)

Phebe[3], Matthew[3], Henry[3], Sarah[3], Mary[3] Ligon.

Matthew[3] Ligon (b. between 1681 and 1685 in Henrico Co., d. c1764--Cumberland Co. WB 3/533, dated Apr 5, 1764) married before 1710, Elizabeth Anderson, (b. bef. 1795). Issue: (7 children)

James[4], Richard[4], Matthew[4], Thomas[4], Elizabeth[4], William[4] and Frances[4] Ligon.

Matthew[4] Ligon (b. c1720 in Henrico Co., d. 1764 in Chesterfield Co.) married Susannah before 1739. Issue: (2 children)

James[5] and Richard[5] Ligon.

Richard[5] Ligon (b. 1745 in Henrico Co, d. 1820 in Nottoway Co.--NC WB 4/221,WB 4/294, OB 10/516, 1827-1832) married Mar 28, 1765, in Amelia Co., Mary Bagley (b. bef. 1750), daughter of George and Elizabeth Bagley (Amelia Co. DB 10/36, Aug. 4, 1768, 200 acres on north side of Mallory's Creek to Richard and Mary Ligon.) Also, the tithes list in Nottoway reads: 1789, Richard Ligon, two white tithes, three blacks; 1793, Richard Ligon, Sr. and Jr.; 1797, Richard and Green Ligon, both sons of Richard Ligon, Sr.; 1799, Richard Ligon, Sr. and Jr. and James Ligon; 1812, Richard Ligon taxed with 200 acres on Mallory's creek; 1814, Richard and Mathew Ligon (Ligon... p. 658). Issue of Richard and Mary Bagley: (9 children)

William[6] Ligon (b. c 1766, d. 1791--NC DB 1/110 dated Jul 15, 1790, also, NC WB 1/52, dated Aug 4, 1791) married Susanna Humphreys and had son, John[7] Ligon (b. Nov 18, 1790, d. May 18, 1859--Wake Co. NC, WB 31/255) who married Aug 27, 1812, in NC, Ann M. Yarborough; Susan[6] Ligon (married Lipscomb); James[6] Ligon; Mary "Polly"[6]; Lucy[6] Ligon, married Daniel Walker; Martha[6] Ligonmar Brightwell Rather; Samuel[6] Ligon (may have married Lucy H. Drake, Nov 11, 1809, Amelia Co); Daughter[6] ?, married John Webb before 1816 (this is probably the grandson listed in John Webb's will—LC WB 6/91); Phebe Carter[6] Ligon, married Prestley Jeter, Oct 23, 1783, in Amelia Co.

Issue of Richard[5] and second wife, Olive "Alley" (Jeter) Ligon: (3 children)

Richard[6] Ligon; Matthew[6] Ligon; Green[6] Ligon

Mary "Polly"[6] Ligon (b. c1768, d. before Jan, 1825) married William Webb before 1784. In her father's will written in 1816 and probated in 1820 (NC WB 4/221), she is named as Polly Dodd. By then she had married Walker Dodd (LC MR p. 27 and WB 7/124). Then (OB 10/516, 1827-1832) when the second wife of her father died, the items held by her during her lifetime were divided, we learn that Mary Webb Dodd had died and so her portion was divided among her living children, namely Jordon Webb, Jane Marshall, Mary Vaughan, Garner Webb and Susan Run.

The final division of William and Mary Webb's estate was accomplished Dec 13, 1824 (LC WB 8/401) after her death. Walker Dodd remarried (LC MR p. 39).

Now, to detail the family of William and Mary (Ligon) Webb: (7 children)

Jane C.[7] Webb (b. abt 1790) is mentioned along with her husband in three of the court orders to settle the estate of William Webb. She was also listed in a chancery suit (LC WB10/516) where she received a bequest.

Jane married Alexander Marshall on Apr 12, 1810. Matthew Dance, a minister of Lunenburg Co., performed the marriage and recorded it (OFS Vol. II, p. 440--recorded as June C. Webb).

Jane was living in June, 1820 when she was associated with one of the above court orders relating to the final division of her parents' estate in 1824 (LC WB 8/401) and then later between 1827 and 1832 (NC OB 10/516) when she was listed with other siblings for distribution of her part of the sale of slaves due her from her mother's estate.

Elizabeth[7] Webb (b. c 1796, d. before 1827) was the daughter of William and Mary Webb as indicated by a court order dated June 12, 1812 and again December 10, 1812. More than likely she was older than Jordon and got her share of the inheritance sometime between 1812 and 1817. She was not referred to by name in any of the subsequent court orders; however, in the order dated June 12, 1820, the court, again, ordered that the real estate of William Webb deceased be divided 1/3 for widow and the remainder into seven equal parts for the children. She was not listed in 1824 when the final division of the property of William and Mary (Webb) Dodd was accomplished.

It can be assumed she was the one referred to by John William Gee (7.58) when he stated, "Aunt Betty Rux was a sister of Grand-Pa Webb" in a written narrative by John William Gee in (The Kin of Dr. Ned Gee, p 34). Also, in written comments by Etta Boddie who grew up at Liberty Hall and knew many of the Rux children, she stated, "Elizabeth married Andrew Rux. She was Papa's (John Armstead Webb) aunt. Don't think she lived long after marriage. I think they both died before I was born (or she did). I knew his second wife, Patty Hamlet and all of their children." She continues telling about the Rux children. She remembered less about Andrew and Turner because they were older and were not at home. These two may have been children of Elizabeth. She resumes, "Don't remember much about Turner or Andrew. Just know Andrew married and lived in Crewe, VA. I think he worked for the railroad." (Letter to Marian Kessler dated 24 Jan 1972.)

In the 1850 census, at household #67, a Susan Rux was listed as head of household, age 50, with Andrew I., age 19, Elizabeth, age 18 and Frances, age 15. John Garner Webb was in household #66, suggesting this was next door. This needs additional research.

Jordon[7] Webb (b. abt 1798) is mentioned in a court order dated June 12, 1812. He was probably named for his father's brother, Jordon Webb. In the court order dated January 9, 1817, Jordon and sister, Susanna, along with three of their minor brothers and sister seek their share of their father's estate. Apparently Jordon had come of age. Then, at the final settlement of his parents' estate, he received Young Davie and Vinny, two slaves, and his portion of money from the sale of 210 acres of land at $2 per acre. Also, in the litigation (NC OB 10/516) to settle the property of his grandfather, Richard Ligon, he was named to receive a portion of the sale of slaves due to his mother's estate.

Susanna[7] Webb (b. c 1799), was mentioned as a daughter by court order dated June 12, 1812. Again on January 9, 1917, she and her husband along with brother Jordon petitioned the court and were awarded a 1/5 part (their share of estate).

On 26 Dec 1816, Susanna (recorded as Susan) and Stephen Bryant were united in marriage by Baxter Ragsdale, a minister of the M. E. church (OFS Vol II, p. 448). In the final division of the William/Mary Webb estate in 1824, she was listed alone, as Mrs. Bryant (suggesting her husband was dead) and received a slave named Pantena. In the 1827-1832 litigation (NC OB 10/516), she was listed as Susan Run, wife of James Run. More than likely this was a second marriage for her.

Green Washington[7] Webb (b. c 1803) was the son of William and Mary Webb as indicated by court orders dated 12 Jun 1812, 10 Dec 1812, and 9 Jan 1817. In the order dated 13 Dec 1824, Green W. Webb petitioned the court for his share of property being held for him. Apparently he had come of age. He was most likely named for his uncle, Green Ligon, who had died in 1802 (NC WB1/539). In the final division of his parents' estate in 1824, he purchased the land, 210 acres at $2 an acre. It stated that Walker Dodd resided on the property, thus allowing each to act as surety for the other when they each marry.

On 10 Dec 1825, Green W. Webb and Elizabeth F. Gee secured a marriage bond with Walker Dodd as surety. Undoubtedly they were married shortly thereafter. (OFS Vol II, p.

406) Her parents have not been discovered. Earlier in the same year, Walker Dodd married Jan 3, 1825, Amy Ann Goodwin, with Green W. Webb as surety.

Green W. died sometime before the order to settle his grandfather's estate regarding the division of slaves held for life by his wife, Alley Jeter Ligon, (NC OB 10/516) since he was not listed with his other siblings (also suggesting there were no children to receive his portion) and before a deed dated March 8, 1832 between Harris T. Wyatt and his wife Elizabeth and Garner Webb stating that the property of the former husband of the said Elizabeth F. Wyatt, died seized and in which the said Elizabeth is entitled to a dower. (DB 29 p. 184A - 185, dated 8 Mar 1832)

Probably there were no children.

John Garner[7] Webb (b. Dec. 15, 1804 in Lunenburg Co. d. Jul 12, 1862 in the same Co.) was the son of William and Mary Webb as substantiated by five court orders dated 12 Jun 1812, 10 Dec 1812, 9 Jan 1817, 12 Jun 1820 and 13 Dec 1824 that were necessary to settle the estate of his father, William. In the court order of 1820 when the real estate of William Webb was divided Garner received 79 acres of the 675 acres listed in the first court order. In the final settlement of his parents estate in 1824, he received a slave, Shadrick worth $450 which had belonged specifically to his mother and probably received one sixth of the sale of the land, (210 acres at $2 per acre) which was bought by his brother, Green W. Webb. He was listed along with other siblings in the order to settle his grandfather, Richard Ligon's will (NC OB 10/516).

John Garner Webb was party to a number of deeds recorded at Lunenburg Court House, the first being in 1827. He grew up near Fletcher Chapel Church, a Methodist Church, which was for years a part of a charge including Kenbridge United Methodist Church. Garner Webb was in 1833 a trustee of the Presbyterian Church. In 1848, he, along with six others were listed as trustees of a Methodist Episcopal Church, South and secured one and one-half acres of land for the purpose of building a house of worship. The name of the church was not given, but it must have later been named Fletcher Chapel. (DB 35 p. 68, dated 1 Sep 1848) See, also, the brief write-up about a plate prepared by members of the church.

He married Oct 29, 1828, Harriet Hardy Winn (b. Mar 16, 1812—according to a sampler which she made at age 11 years--in Lunenburg Co, d. May 1, 1881), the daughter of Edmund Winn and Elizabeth H. Cousins who were married Oct 8, 1782. On the above mentioned sampler she listed her siblings and birth dates: Ketturah R. Winn (b. Sep 25, 1795); Henrietta M. W. Winn (b. Feb 23, 1798); Frances E. Winn (b. Aug 18, 1803, d. Apr 17, 1876); Thomas W. Winn (b. Jun 22, 1806); Edmund C. Winn (b. May 3, 1809); H. Winn (b. Mar 16, 1812). Her mother, Elizabeth H. Cousins was a daughter of Peter Cousins (LC WB 2/458) who died in 1777.

Harriet Hardy Winn's sister Frances E. Winn mar. Edmund P. Winn (her cousin) and they have among others, Washington C. Winn who late in life after his first wife died, mar. Mary Etta Gee, granddaughter of Garner and Harriet Hardy (Winn) Webb.

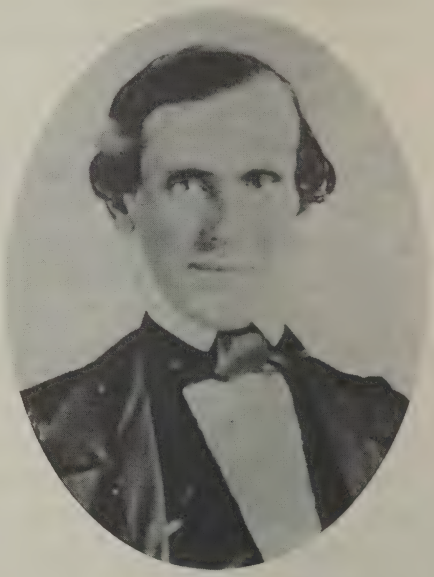
A history of the Winn family, A Winn Family Story, The Ancestors and all identified descendants of Llewellyn Parks Winn, 1841-1923 with historical, social and geographic background, by Art Danforth, personally typed, © May 1986 is available from his daughter. This family is addressed beginning on page 66 of that book.

Garner and Harriet Hardy (Winn) Webb were farmers and owned Liberty Hall Farm. In the 1850 census of Lunenburg (#66) can be found: WEBB Garner 38 (should be 48) M Farmer, Va.; Harriet H. 38 Fe Va.; Elizabeth H. 18 Fe Va.; Edmond L. 16 M Va.; Jordon C. 14 M Va.; Mary 12 Fe Va.; Elijah E. 10 M Va.; Harriet H. 8 Fe Va.; John A. 6 M Va.; Susan G. 3 Fe Va.; Garner 9/12 M Va. Also, there is probably another older child, William W. (#20) in the same census.

His will dated July 8, 1857, recorded Oct 13, 1862, 'loaned' all of estate, real and personal, to his wife during her widowhood. If she remarried she was to receive one third of the estate and the other two thirds was to be divided among his children. At his wife's death everything was to be divided equally among his children.

Names of children were not given but he does say that one child should not be advanced anymore than one tenth of the estate (DB 14 p. 140 - 141). On Oct 25, 1862 an inventory is recorded of many items and finally a list of Negroes, ten adult and three children amounting to a total of $17,243.50 (Fiduciary Book 3/444). Then on May 1, 1864 (Fid.B 4/79) a listing of charges against the estate is recorded. Among others, these family members are mentioned as charging against the estate: Mrs. H. H. Webb for shoes, subscription to Christian Advocate, paper, comb and clothing; Garner W. Webb for shirting; Miss H. H. Webb, items amounting to $45. The oldest son, William W. Webb has qualified to be administrator. Two other sons, Jordon and Edmund Webb are listed as executors with William W. Webb. Executor held in hand $1062.8 at final settlement of estate. There was a balance due estate in conf. (assume that to be confederate) Money, $24. By this time the slaves would have been or would soon be freed.

Two other records have been found regarding this estate part of which leaves us with some unanswered questions. In Jan 12, 1874 (LC DB 38/674) Edward C. (6-5) and Mary Frances Gee representing 1/6 part, and W. W. and Virginia Webb representing 5/6 part with Harriet H. Webb representing her life interest sell 80 acres to Thomas A. Rash for $400. The property was described as running along Crooked Run Creek to old water gate, due north to Lawyer's Road, along property of W. W. Webb.



Garner Webb

Then another record dated May 21, 1878 (LC DB 40/51) where E. C. and Mary F. Gee sell their 1/6 interest in 500 acres, which is their share of land in Garner Webb, dec'd, estate to John A. Webb for $400.

A true final settlement would have to be made when the mother died which would be May 1, 1881. We do know that finally John A. Webb owns the home, Liberty Hall, and at least part of the land comprising the estate of Garner Webb.

Morning Song
My God, who makes the sun to know,
His proper hour to rise,
And to give light to all below,
Doth send him round the skies.

When from The Chambers of the east,
His morning race begins
He never tires, nor stops to rest;
But round The world he shines.

So, like the sun, would I fulfill,
The duties of the day;
Begin my work betimes, and still
March on my heavenly way.

Give me, O Lord, Thy early grace,
Nor let my soul complain,
That the young morning of my days.
Has all been spent in vain.

[sic] Departed this life on the thirteenth of Jany 1850 Sarah J. Webb aged five years liking fourteen days. daughter of Garner and Harriet Webb her funeral was preached by Willace H. Peace the text was taken from Mat the 18 chapt and 3 verse Virily I say unto you except ye be converted and become as little children ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Farewell dear Sallie thou hast left
This world of affliction and pain;
But thy sister, so amply bereft
Still hopes she will meet thee again.
The wild rose may bloom o're they grave,
Thy body may rest in the clay
But he who has all power to save
Will keep thy dust until that day.
Then weep not, dear mother and father, weep not,
Your dear child again you shall see
And it shall be your happy lot
With her to spend eternity.

The information on the Garner W.[8] Webb family was supplied by Rose Marie Scarberry in 1971. She adds, "All of the Webb family was fun-living, but God-fearing. They were all Methodists."

Mary Cunner[7] Webb (b. abt 1807) was listed in the court orders as one of the last names - not always the last. Then in the final litigation to comply with the instructions of Richard Ligon, her grandfather, we learn that she had married Thomas H. Vaughan.

In addition to specific documentation noted throughout this history, Thomas Garner Gee (7-59), my grandfather and grandson of Garner Webb and Harriet Hardy Winn provided much oral narration about his family.

Also, another genealogist of the Webb Family, Harry S. Meade, 222 Magnolia Drive, Danville VA 24541, has provided much up-to-date information on several branches of the family. His wife is Jennie Sue[10] Webb, daughter of Richard Garner[9] Webb.

> One thing that has been a fascination is watching the 'passing on' of names. The one in particular that has captured my curiosity is Garner William[6] Webb had a sister, Lucy Garner. Then, William and Mary Webb chose to name a son, John Garner. John Garner and Harriet chose Garner as their youngest son's name. Next, Edward Crymes Gee (6-5) & Molly (Webb) named a son, Thomas Garner Gee (7-59). In the ensuing years, Thomas Garner and Bessie Gee named their daughter, Ruth Garner (8-594) and by and by, Ruth Garner and Clyde Saunders named their daughter, Ruth Garnette (9-594.4). In this generation, Garnette and her husband, Bud, named their oldest son, William Garner Teass.
> Then, John Armstead and Lavinia Webb named their son Richard Garner Webb . It did not miss a generation for five generations. It would be interesting to know why it was chosen as a given name.

FLETCHER CHAPEL CHURCH

Fletcher Chapel Church has been a part of the life of our family since its inception. The deed (information recorded below) is recorded in the Lunenburg Court records (LC DB 35/68), dated Sep 1, 1848.

I make no effort to give the history of this congregation but merely gather together comments or traditions or events related to me by individuals as I have gathered the family history. The above mentioned deed lists as one of the trustees, Garner Webb, our ancestor, which established the family in this church before it becomes a building. His family, no doubt, was involved in building and then occupying the pews from its origin.

Mary Frances Webb, Garner & Harriet's daughter, grew up in that church. When she married she moved to Providence Methodist (it was nearer to her Gee home). It was located at the intersection of Jonesboro Road and Dundas Road at that time. In the first decade of the 20th century Providence was moved to its present location on South Hill Road. At that time, she moved back to Fletcher's Chapel for the remaining years of her life. She would drive via Route 714 (no longer a through road) to visit with Gertie and to go to church in her glass enclosed, coupe-type buggy. She would take the young children and Anna and Frank would follow in their buggy.

Fletcher Chapel Church, Kenbridge, VA

In 1972, Etta Boddie, granddaughter of Garner Webb, writes, "I have a plate with a picture of Fletcher Chapel Church on it. All of our family attended this church until we moved to Kenbridge. (1908). On the back of the plate is printed: The land on which Fletcher Chapel Church stands was deeded Sept. 1, 1848 from George N. Seay and Petronella L. Seay, his wife, to Robert Rash, Thomas Jefferson, John C. Rudd, Garner Webb, William Williams, Jesse Brown and William Irby, trustees and their successors, to be used as a meeting place for the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the South. The deed stipulated one and one half acres of land located on the west side of Church Road in Lunenburg Co., Virginia." She adds that she will soon be 85 years old.

During these same years, William F. Kennedy, and his family living at the Brown's Store crossroads, were members of Fletcher Chapel. His obituary tells us that he was superintendent of the Sunday School and a Trustee there until he moved to the Olive Branch Methodist Church 'on the hill' near the Tinkling Post Office.

Then, when the Saunders Family moved onto the old Webb property, some of them joined this church and it was a part of that family until the late 1930's when they all moved elsewhere.

At this point we learn that the tradition of family membership was carried on by the Helen & Gene Barnes family. They bought the Old Webb Farm in 1944. Betty Roberts shares in a letter in 1996:

"Grandma Ruby Bailey played the pump organ at Fletcher Chapel for years, although she was a member of Jonesboro Church. Then I came along and they talked me into playing. My feet barely reached the pedals. I had to stand up to play. After Carrie Jones Bailey died (she was Ruby's Mama's sister and she married Benjamin Bailey, Percy's uncle), Fletcher Chapel bought Aunt Carrie's beautiful rosewood piano and I played for church services on this piano until I graduated from KHS (1957) and went to Radford. Ann and Avery Rash bought the piano when the church was closed and it is still at their house.

Gene (Barnes) was Sunday School superintendent at Fletcher's Chapel and Helen taught a Bible class there. She and I were members of Jonesboro. Gene and my brothers were members of Fletcher's Chapel.

Letcher Barnes tells me my ancestors on the Bridgforth and Barnes side attended Fletcher Chapel in the late 1800's and early 1900's."

In 1975, the congregation of this church, then over a hundred years old decided to close the doors and merge with the Kenbridge UMC. We have to remember that the first members of the KUMC came from Fletcher Chapel Church when Olive Branch Methodist (the forerunner of KUMC) was started in the area that would become Kenbridge.

You would think that would be the end of this church in our family but...

When the building was sold, Lew and Mary Barnes (Helen[9] Bailey, Percy[8] Bailey, Gertie[7] Gee, Mary Frances Webb, Garner Webb) purchased the building (someone else bought the land) and had it moved to a location on land, which they owned. Since that time they have restored the old Victorian structure and made it into their home.

In an article that was prepared by John Clement of the Richmond Times-Dispatch State Staff and published at the moving time (which also has a picture of Lew (10-571.221.) and Mary Barnes standing in front of the building as it sits on the moving apparatus) the couple lay out the plans they have for making it into their home. Among Lew's comments, "I went to church here all my life."

"When discussing qualms about living in a building, which for years had its walls resounding with words from the Holy Scripture and the singing of hymns, Barnes said, 'I'll let you know if that old pump organ we have starts playing by itself some night."

From the Blackstone Courier-Record dated Thursday, April 29, 1976 we can read, "The moving of the church on Sunday created a lot of excitement in the Fletcher Chapel community. Folks seemed glad the young couple will make it their home. This way another generation will be able to point to the landmark and tell their children, 'I used to go to church in that building.' A lot of them did."

CEDAR CREEK CHURCH

This church has been a part of the life of the neighborhood in which the Edward Crymes Family lived for many years. The stories about how and where it began are many. There is family tradition that has been passed down but not written down and then, there are the histories of other denominations in the community that interact. If we look at the history of our country during these years it can also help us to understand what was basic to this story.

The Revolutionary War was over. The people of Lunenburg were no longer required to pay tithes to the Church of England. Other denominations were now within the law. The Methodist had managed to stay within the law by not totally breaking away from the English Episcopal Church but merely calling themselves societies of the established church. Francis Asbury had come in 1771 and started these societies throughout the area. A considerable number of the citizens were banned together because of their religious beliefs and became a part of the Baptist Association. As time went on and our country settled into a comfortable period of growth, discussion about doctrine became a part of the daily life and a split into two groups was a natural next episode in events. (To get a more in-depth history of the development of the denominations and individual churches, read the first chapters of McCaddin Pritchetts's history of New Hope Christian Church.)

Specifically regarding Cedar Creek, Winston Watkins tells the "family story" of a Cedar Creek Church. There are a number of versions of this story mentioned in the various church histories and they all have the same basic facts that make it credible—something that really happened although the scenario may be a little different. Winston's grandmother, Nannie Gee Watkins, (b. 1861, d. 1928), told him this version which she says was related to her by her mother, Molly, who in turn was told the story by Uncle Ned Gee's wife, Rebekah who witnessed part of it.

Uncle Ned had provided the building for the Baptists and Cambellites to worship, located on the south boundary of his property. The Cambellite group was actually the reformers who broke away from the Baptist which group had been one unit since about 1780. They worked out a system of jointly using the building holding individual services with the slaves of the families joining them for worship. A disagreement erupted which got pretty heated and when Uncle Ned heard what was going on there, he decided the behavior was not acceptable in a building belonging to him. He proceeded to take matters into his own hands. He disassembled the building and loaded it onto a flatbed wagon and moved it from up the road (State Route 603), past the house, which was witnessed by Rebecca Maddox Gee.

This route was probably on a plantation road that went east of the house and back across the property to eventually cross Cedar Creek to a location on the Maddux property on the Jonesboro Road. The new site was then deeded to them by Mr. Samuel Maddux, probably Ned's father-in-law, and Uncle Ned washed his hands of the affair.

We need to be aware of the fact that the roads as we know them today were not there in the 1800's. An 1871 map will give you a better idea of the roads at that time. We do not know exactly the site of this building but it may have been very near Cedar Creek and on just a farm road.

Some of the recorded history is taken from histories of three churches Jonesboro Baptist, Perseverance Christian Church, and New Hope Christian Church.

Jonesboro Baptist Church was born in the year 1779 in the lower Brown's Store District, Lunenburg Co., Virginia. The name of this early church was either Cedar Lawn or Cedar Creek. Some of the early records use one name and some the other. Bell, in his History of the Old Free State, uses the name Cedar Creek (OFS, p. 386).

"This early church was organized by the Reverend Jeremiah Walker, and its first pastor was the Reverend Stephen Jones, who died in the year of 1806, at about the age of 63. The membership of the church in 1808 was fifty-three." (OFS, Vol. 1, Page 386).

Baptist records show that the Baptists moved to Mercy Seat in Nottoway in 1836 and started a church. Rev. Harris had access to every church record book from 1779 to1950 when he wrote his "History of Jonesboro Baptist Church." (Harris, p. 5)

In May 1843, the reformers' records say, "The Church at Cedar Creek was in the fellowship of our Lord. Whereupon, the brethren requested Brother Daniel Petty to preach for them; he agreed to preach the first Lord's Day and the day before in each month." George W. Potts, Clerk. (Perseverance, p. 10)

In the New Hope Christian Church at Danieltown in Brunswick County, Virginia 1893 to 1968 by Dr. William McCaddin Pritchett, he relates (p. 10) "The controversy over creeds and other matters spread through most of the Baptist churches in Virginia, and the Baptists were divided into two groups - those for and those against reform. The division finally culminated in the breakaway of the reformers, splitting some congregations and swinging some Baptist churches over to the side of the reformers.

Rev. Silas Shelburne, a son of Rev. James Shelburne who succeeded his father as minister at Reedy Creek Baptist Church, and Rev. James M. Jeter influenced the majority of the members of Cedar Creek Baptist Church (in some historical sketches it is referred to as Cedar Lawn Baptist Church) to join the reformation. It was in the 1830's that Shelburne and Jeter succeeded in winning the support of the majority at Cedar Creek Baptist Church. However, the Disciples majority and the Baptist minority continued using the church on alternate Sundays. (Perseverance, p.8) Meanwhile, the majority of the Baptist churches in the Meherrin Association were coming to the side of the Disciples, particularly after the Association was dissolved in 1835.

The alternate use of the Cedar Creek Church building by the Disciples and the Baptists continued into the 1840's, but there was growing confusion and tension. (the unemotional version of the family tradition told above) The building was on land owned by Mr. Ned Gee and the Church had never acquired a clear title to the property. Mr. Gee had contributed the land to the Church and such deed as there was provided that the title to the land would revert to him should the property cease to be used for religious purposes. Just what his thinking was about developments at Cedar Creek is not a matter of record. However, he took his slaves one night and went and tore down the church building and hauled it away. This was the end of the Disciples and Baptists meeting together. (Although this story is simply told as though it all took place in the period of a few hours which is probably too uncomplicated, a tradition has also been handed down that Uncle Ned was somewhat 'hotheaded')

The Baptist minority in the Cedar Creek congregation went a few miles north from Mr. Gee's farm and built a small church building, which served their needs. The Disciples, on the other hand, went a few miles south and built a church, which they called Chinquapin Grove Christian Church (later changed to Perseverance Christian Church). It was built on land donated by Mr. Jack Inge and had a seating capacity of 150. Among the charter members of the church were such familiar Lunenburg County family names as Laffoon, Moore, Potts, Skinner, Hawthorne, Bishop, Epperson, and Parrish.

This is the abstract of a deed on record for a Cedar Creek Baptist Church:

Abstract: Deed Book 34, p. 288, dated August 14, 1847.
Samuel Maddux et all
To: Deed
Samuel M. Peace, et al, Trs.

Between Samuel Maddux and Martha F, his wife of the one part and Samuel M. Peace, William C. Hamlin, Jno. R. Jones John H. Williams, Robert B. Jones, Thomas I. Lambert, George N. Seay, Robert M. Williams, Thomas Jefferson & Garner Webb, Trustees, of the other part.

Consideration: $1.00

Description: Lot of land on which Cedar Creek Meeting house stands lying in the county of Lunenburg being a part of the land belonging to said Samuel Maddux, containing one acre. Lot and house to be used for the benefit of the Baptist denomination.

Deed acknowledged before Richard C. Gregory & Washington Maddux, Justices of the Peace.

Whether this is the location where Cedar Creek Baptist Church is located today is not known at this point. It may have been nearer the Brunswick County line on Jonesboro Road. By 1873 the Black members had established their separate church keeping the name Cedar Creek Baptist and most likely occupying the land in the Samuel Maddux deed above (although a little different location may have been negotiated at a later date).

For well over one hundred years the Cedar Creek Baptist, Jonesboro Baptist, and Perseverance Churches have been in their present location.

150th Anniversary Celebration

Perseverance Christian Church celebrated its 150th Anniversary on April 9, 1978. J. C. Potts had found an old record book in his grandfather's trunk; this book contained the first constitution written on Saturday before the second Lord's Day in April, 1828. This constitution was adopted by the Reformers in the Cedar Creek Baptist Church that was organized in 1779 on land owned by the Gee family. This group moved three miles south in 1844, built a church and named it Perseverance; later the Baptist moved north and established Jonesboro Baptist Church.

As part of the celebration, "Bits of Our Church History" were read on April 2 during the worship service. On Sunday afternoon the church celebrated its origins by going back to the Gee farm, now owned by Mr. & Mrs. J. S. (Billy) Gee. The members and their guests walked, rode horseback, buggy, wagon, and Hugh Hawthorne's antique cars. Enroute they enjoyed visiting the Cedar Creek Baptist Church and were greeted by some of its members. This church was established in 1870 our of the Jonesboro Baptist Church on land given by Mr. Edward (Ned) Gee.

The group enjoyed Mary Sue Cox playing her autoharp. The choir sang "Church In the Wildwood," "Amazing Grace," and "Faith of Our Fathers." On behalf of the Gee family, Billy welcomed those present back to their church roots on the farm where seven generations of Gees have lived. Jimmy Perkins led in prayer before the first constitution read by Maxey More. Rev. Gard had the blessing for the bountiful meal that followed.

It was a beautiful day with wonderful fellowship, and a good time was had by all. (p. 83, A History of Perseverance Christian Church 1828 – 1988.)

THE PRITCHETT FAMILY

(Note: Much of the research about the early Pritchett family included here was shared with me by Dr. William McCaddin Pritchett, a Pritchett Genealogist. As far as known, he never completed and published his family history. For a lengthy period he prepared articles printed weekly by the Lawrenceville, Virginia newspaper on the Brunswick County Civil War Soldiers, now in published form from the Brunswick County Library—see Bibliography)

When studying the genealogy of any given family, it is always interesting to inquire as to where the name came from, or how it came to be.

Those who have studied family names down through the centuries have concluded that the name Pritchett originated in Wales where it developed from the name Richard. Centuries ago the name Richard was, and probably still is, a popular name. It is said that when a man named Richard had a son named Richard baptized, he was called Son of Richard, which they wrote as ap-Richard. This form of Richard finally became Prichard, and from this name many variants developed, including Pritchett. Some of the others were Pritchard, Pritcher, Pritchitt, Pritchet, Prichett, Prichet, Pritchat, Pritchell, Pritchette, and so on. It appears that Pritchard and Pritchett are the two most commonly used of these variants.

The Pritchett name developed in Wales or England before being brought to America as immigrants came. For example, Thomas Pritchett came in 1650. The Pritchett name, therefore, has continued in usage for more than three centuries, although it is probable that some of the variants used in this country today represent changes that have developed here.

ANDREW[1] PRITCHETT

An Andrew Pritchett boarded the ship Lamb, Sep 8, 1699 from Liverpool to Virginia. He had a son William and a son John.

This needs researching to confirm the relationship of this family to the following people.

WILLIAM[2] PRITCHETT

William[2] Pritchett (b. c1730) married Susanna Bagwell. Issue: (only one known child)

MOSES[3] PRITCHETT

Moses[3] Pritchett I (b. c1755 in Dinwiddie Co VA, d. Feb 1823 in Brunswick Co., VA) married c1782 in Brunswick Co., Ann Scarborough (b. c1760 in Brunswick Co., d. c1838 in Brunswick Co).

Moses Pritchett's birth date is approximated based on all the information available about his life. His family moved to Brunswick Co. in 1765 (BC DB 8/175-176) and the deed recording the purchase of a farm by Moses' father, William Pritchett, Sr., notes that they were from Dinwiddie Co. where the Pritchetts had lived since 1700 or earlier. He wrote his will in Brunswick Co. on Feb 15, 1823 (BC WB 9/291). An inventory of his estate was made in March 1823 (BC WB9/299), indicating that he was deceased.

For proof that Moses served in the Brunswick Co. Militia during the Revolutionary War, see the William & Mary Quarterly, Vol XXIV, Series 1, pp. 102-108. There are several references to his nomination for Lieutenant and subsequent qualification. A Brunswick Co. historian says that the Brunswick County Militia participated in several engagements and was at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered.

Ann Scarborough's birth in Brunswick Co. is not certain. This fact appears likely, but research to date does not offer conclusive proof of it. The Scarborough family had been in Brunswick Co. for a long time, and it seems reasonable to assume that Ann was born there. It is not known when she was born, but it was probably some time during the 1760's.

No record of the marriage of Moses and Ann has been found. They were married probably during the 1780's, a period from which few marriage records can be found. Many marriage bond records were destroyed, borrowed for one purpose or another and never returned, or just misplaced over the years. The marriage bond of Ann's sister Lucy Scarborough dated Oct 16, 1787 still exists; Moses Pritchett was surety for this marriage bond, which indicates that Moses and Ann already were married in 1787. In his will, Moses refers to his wife as Ann. In 1811 several of Ann's children were parties to a suit involving the estate of William Scarborough, indicating that William Scarborough was Ann's father. (BC OB 24/192, dated May 28, 1811) This is substantiated in William Scarborough's will on file in Brunswick Co. naming Moses' and Ann's children as his grandchildren, thereby proving that Ann was his daughter. The will was dated Jun 7, 1803.

It is fairly definite that Ann died in Brunswick Co. After Moses died in 1823, she lived with her children. Joseph married in 1824, Edwin in 1825, and Susan in 1836. Mary, William, and Asa had married prior to the death of their father in 1823. The Census of 1830 reports Ann (listed as Nancy) lived with Edwin and his wife, Jane Daniel. She died during the 1830's, probably near 1838, since in that year Edwin disposed of some slaves formerly owned by his father and mother, thus indicating that Ann had died before this time (BC DB 31/477).

Deaths from the Walker Bible in the Possession of Donna Gill Goings

Moses Pritchett's parents were Joseph S. Pritchett and Elizabeth Ann Daniel. His father died about 1845. For this reason, his father did not appear in a Census report where his children were listed by name. The Census of Brunswick Co. for 1850 listed Elizabeth Pritchett and her children who had not yet married. The children with her were Joseph, William, Moses, Albert, James, David and Henrietta Pritchett. Moreover, when Moses married in 1867, his marriage record indicated that he was the son of Joseph S. and Elizabeth Ann Pritchett.

Accepting his age as shown in the Census reports of Brunswick Co. in 1850 (15), 1860 (25), 1870 (34), and 1880 (44), and 31 when he was married in 1867, it appears that he was born in 1836, plus or minus one year. The family lived on a farm near Danieltown VA, a farm still owned by the Pritchett family--the same lands on which the family had lived since 1765.

Before the Civil War, Moses worked as overseer for Sidney M. Kennedy, uncle to Mary Ann Hughs Burroughs Kennedy, who would be his future wife.

His Civil War record: Moses Pritchett enlisted Jun 3, 1861 in Co 1, 29th Infantry Regiment. He and David Pritchett (his brother) were members of the "Brunswick Blues," although David did not enlist until more than a year later. The 20th Regiment was part of Garnett's Brigade that was sent in the summer of 1861 into West Virginia where they were driven out by McClellan. A large number of the unit contracted the measles during this time, a misfortune experienced by large numbers of soldiers. In Sep 1862, they were transferred to Co. D, 46th Infantry Regiment. Then, in Oct, 1862, they were transferred to Wise Brigade and became 34th Co. B, 59th Regiment, and they remained in this Regiment for the remainder of the War. They were sent to SC and were down there for some time. They were even sent into Florida for a short while. David reported that he paid $10 for a gingerbread cookie in Florida when he was there during the War. After the siege of Petersburg became quite critical, they were brought back there. They were engaged in fighting in that area and were in the retreat from Petersburg to Appomattox. Moses was promoted to Sergeant Aug 16, 1864. On the retreat there was that bloody battle at Sayler's Creek in Amelia Co., and Moses was among the some 8,000 who surrendered there. David got through the Federal lines and was at Appomattox Court House when Lee surrendered. Moses was described as having dark complexion, dark hair, dark eyes, and was five feet six inches tall. He surrendered Apr 6, 1865, three days before General Lee surrendered at Appomattox. (Information on file in war records at National Archives, Washington, D. D. Researched by McCaddin Pritchett, 1971. Dr. Pritchett's research on the

He was married to Mary Ann on Sep 11, 1867, in Brunswick Co. (BC court records). On Oct 26, 1867, Moses sold his share of land from their father's estate to brother David (BC DB 39/218).

In 1870 Moses and Mary Ann were living in Red Oak District of Brunswick Co. at Sturgeonville (Warfield). Their real estate was valued at $1,200 and personal estate, at $500. They had one child. In 1872, Moses and Mary Ann purchased a farm totaling 117 acres from John J. Cole and his wife Jane Daniel for $600. Moses was again mentioned in legal records when he attended the sale of the personal estate of his mother, Elizabeth Ann Daniel Pritchett and purchased items. In 1880, Moses and Mary Ann were living on their farm near Macedonia UMC and had four children. He died Feb 2, 1889 at his home and was buried in the garden cemetery.

MARY ANN H. B. KENNEDY

Mary Ann H. B. Kennedy was born Nov 1844 in Brunswick Co., the daughter of David Baker and Margaret Ann Kennedy. Baker was a member of a large Kennedy family that lived for many years in the northern end of Brunswick Co., not many miles from the Nottoway River. The old bridge across the River, used for so many years and replaced during the 1940s, was known as Kennedy's Bridge. The Kennedys had been there for decades when Mary Ann was born.

Mary Ann died at Kenbridge VA in 1916 at 11 o'clock on Friday night at the home of her son, H. W. Pritchett on West Fifth Avenue, the result of paralysis with which she had been stricken that afternoon and from which she never recovered consciousness. Although we do not have the month and day, we know that she was in her 72nd year, therefore it would be before November of 1916 (obituary).

Mary Ann's mother, Margaret Frances Manson Walker was the daughter of Freeman Walker (b. Jan 16, 1795 in Mecklenburg Co. VA, d. Mon May 27, 1844 at 8 PM at home in Brunswick Co. Bessie grew up at her home in Brunswick. Her father died when she was just 9 years old. As a young girl she went to school to Miss Betty Bailey. As a student she lived there much of the time. (Jim Bailey and son were living at home alone. They got Miss Betty to stay at home and teach school from the home.) Tuition was $3 a month, which included room and board. (Actually it all went to tuition--Mr. Bailey just gave them room and board because he was so anxious to keep his daughter happy.) After two years Miss Betty got married and Bessie went back home where she stayed until she married in 1902.

W. F. KENNEDY & KENBRIDGE VA

{Ken (for Kennedy) bridge (for Bridgeforth)}

"Being in the right place at the right time" may be a way to describe W. F. "Willie" Kennedy, however it took more action than that to accomplish the preliminary layout of a town. He and Mr. L. William "Willie" Bridgforth owned the farmland where the town of Kenbridge now stands. When the word came that there would be a railroad laid out near the boundary of their property, they decided to work together to make the most of what they saw as a prospect. First let us look at "Willie" Kennedy's life history and weave in the story of the town.

William F. Kennedy was born on a farm in the edge of Brunswick County near the Nottoway line and also near Kennedy Bridge and Fort Pickett. His family had been established there for many years. His parents, Baker Kennedy (a son of Jesse Kennedy and Susan Manson) and Margaret Walker were from Brunswick Co.

W. F. Kennedy lost two brothers in the Civil War and in the years after the War he went to Kentucky where he was engaged in business. In 1876 he returned to Virginia and settled in Lunenburg at Browns Old Grocery along Coxs Road (state route 137 and 40 intersected here) purchasing the farm around this store. He married in 1880 Laura Jane Tinsley of Petersburg VA. The first year of married life he lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nat Matthews (a few miles from Kenbridge) until he could build a house.

In 1882, the post office department decided to open a post office in Mr. Kennedy's store, and called on him to suggest a name. He sent in the maiden name of his wife, which was Tinsley, but in some manner the postal authorities got the name mixed and when the post office was announced, it was named Tinkling and continued by this name until the year 1908. He was named postmaster of this new post office and continued to hold his position until a few months prior to his death in 1922. At no time in this period of forty years was he ever opposed for the position.

The original Kennedy store burned and for some time he operated out of a log cabin type building across the way before building again. The area was slow to grow, however Mr. Kennedy's two nephews, Jessie and Hunter Pritchett (sons of Moses Pritchett and Mary Ann Hughs Burroughs Kennedy) moved from their family farm in Brunswick County and joined him in a mercantile business. They formed the Kennedy, Pritchett & Co Mercantile business. The only other business at that time was that of Mr. Garland Blackwell.

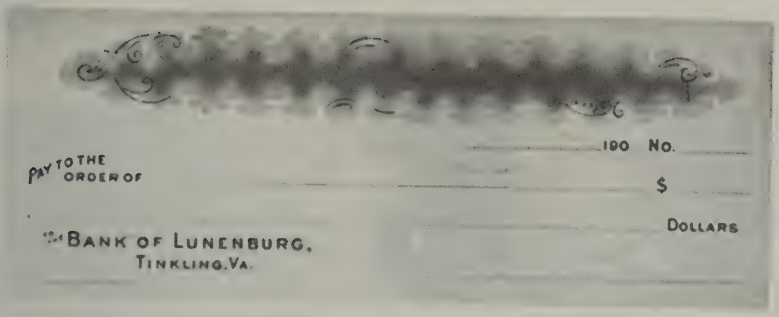
Then, the railroad caused a flurry of activity when they began to survey the area to place what would be the Virginian Railroad. It eventually fell within a few hundred yards of the Kennedy store. Seeing an opportunity here, Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Bridgeforth felt they would need assistance. D. Tinsley Kennedy Kennedy's oldest son, had just finished VPI and so he called on him to help lay out the plans to start a town. The young Kennedy could see that he would need more experience than he had had so he called on a friend, John E. Walker, who had had this experience in a project elsewhere. He agreed to come and they formed the Kennedy-Walker Land & Development Co.

They made a plan for the town that was visionary enough to foretell the need for wide avenues that would accommodate even car traffic for the next hundred years. At the same time, lots were drawn off for businesses on either side of the main street, which was called Broad Street. Some of these lots sold for the 'enormous' sum of $25.

Before the town was established, they saw the need for a bank and one was started in 1906 under the leadership of Mr. W. S. Irby, The Bank of Lunenburg at Tinkling Virginia. Although the post office had been called Tinkling for some years, the unincorporated town was only known by that name from March 1906 until 1908. In 1908 the town became incorporated and the name was changed to Kenbridge by an act of the Virginia General Assembly. This took place on March 14, 1908. (A copy of the act may be found in Chapter 353 of the 1908 Acts of the General Assembly of Virginia.)

The name change was no doubt for several reasons but one thing that did not set well with the citizens was that the Morse Code letters for Tinkling was NG which was quickly picked up as 'no good'. They did not think that this spoke well for their new town.



Bank of Lunenburg, Tinkling, Virginia

Mr. Kennedy's family can be found in the Pritchett Family as he was brother to Mary Ann Kennedy who was mother to Hunter and Jessie Pritchett as well as Bessie Bell Pritchett who mar. Thomas Garner Gee (7-59) and who, herself, lived in Kenbridge during her last years.

William F. Kennedy was always active in religious activities in the community. He joined the Fletcher Chapel Methodist Church and remained a member there serving as superintendent of the Sunday School and a Steward at the same time. When Olive Branch Methodist (later Kenbridge Methodist Church) was started he moved there and likewise served as superintendent of the Sunday School and a Steward.

His obituary in the Free State News, Kenbridge, Va., Friday, September 22, 1922 (Vol. 9. No. 43), a lengthy article, ends with, "There was never a more indulgent parent or one who sought more the welfare of his children than Mr. Kennedy. In his days of poverty he strove to provide them with a liberal education, and made great personal sacrifices to give his children a better start in life than he himself had."

"A good and noble man is gone and the entire community will miss him sadly. So many and varied were his activities and interests that there is hardly a person in the entire town and community who will not feel his loss and miss his genial and sunny greeting."

(Information for this article has been gleaned from copies of the BlackstoneCourier and Free State News.)

GEE FAMILY CEMETERY ON BRUSHY RIDGE
(Williamsburg, WV)

The Family Patriarch, Everard Wilson Gee, established the cemetery by necessity on Jun 7, 1850 at the death of the son, James H. Gee, named after his great grandfather. The family had only been on the property a short time—less than a year. The farm, deed for which was recorded May 27, 1850 (GC DB 18/328) contained 700 acres. Here the family had settled, consisting of some 22 people, including slaves. In addition to the cemetery as we see it today, tradition tells us there was a slave cemetery which is no longer visible nor is there any record of persons buried there. Ben Gee and his son, Jeffrey, renewed the Gee Family Cemetery on Brushy Ridge in recent years and are the faithful keepers of these grounds. Known to be buried in the cemetery:

EPILOGUE

Our 'watch' has come to a stop. Of course, we know that time is not governed by a watch. Time moves on at its standard tempo. Yet, we have arrived at the 'time' of publication. It is certainly not a finished history of the GEE family. The family saga, like time, continues on. At this juncture, we feel that it is the right time to share our findings, to give everyone an opportunity to reflect on the family as we have presented it. It has been our goal to make the story as accurate as available facts would allow, however if there are errors, please forgive but also report them to us. We do hope that you will find it accurate, enlightening, interesting and enjoyable.

For us it has been a privilege to gather and prepare this story and we do appreciate the backing and assistance from so many people. Also, it has been a pleasure, otherwise, I am sure we would have abandoned the project long ago. Especially has it been rewarding to get to know so many members of the family, persons we knew before but by working together on this undertaking we developed a greater appreciation for each individual and our kinship.

A new, positive reception has been reached for these words written by Thomas Jefferson, 1789, "No Society is so precious as that of ones own family."

FOOTNOTE

Scrapbooks on each of the families of Robert Pleasant, Edward Crymes, and Josephus William Gee have been prepared containing the wealth of artifacts, information and pictures, which have come into our possession. Being aware that these things belong to the total family we have given considerable thought as to how to make them safely available to anyone who would like to see or use them. As soon as they are compiled they will be placed in the archives most convenient to the families. The one for Robert P. and Josephus W. Gee (one volume for each family) will be placed in the Archives in Lewisburg WV and the one for Edward Crymes Gee (two volumes) will be placed in the VA State Archives in Richmond VA. A copy of this book will also be placed in each library.

It would be good to keep the story up to date if possible. We would like to invite each family to update your family as changes occur. We will make every effort to prepare an annual letter containing statistical information (births, deaths, marriages and accomplishments) available at each reunion. Let's make a month before the annual family reunion the deadline for sending updates to us.

Head right: ...the "right" to claim fifty acres for every "head" arriving in the colony; most head rights were claimed by the person who paid the passage. Head rights of indentured servants may have been claimed more than once: by the master of the transporting ship, by the merchant who sold the indenture, by the person who bought the indenture, and/or by the servant. Head rights could be bought and sold; many people who paid their own transportation sold their head rights for money to establish themselves in the colony. (Redbook, p. 774)
